Published by Newsroom Editor on 13/11/2013

Two tickets for LeWeb'13 have been allocated to Agnes ZAKAREVICIUTE from Lithuania and linas SIVIS from Latvia following the contest [1] launched on October 10th.

The interested applicants were asked to address some barriers in developing their business, to provide solutions to overcome the barriers and incentives needed to put in place to stimulate the growth of innovative companies, and to name a success story. A debate around the proposals was also encouraged. The applications received were from Lithuania and Latvia and they addressed the funding issue namely the difficulty to have seed investment and the difficulty to raise funds. Therefore they consider that creating a positive environment for entrepreneurs in Europe should be a priority.

Three tickets to LeWeb'13 were also awarded to:

- Exacaster from Lithuania as having the "The best investment proposal" from the Entrepreneurship and Investment Forum in ICT2013.
- MELT icepops from Netherlands as having "The best pitch presentation" from the Entrepreneurship and Investment Forum in ICT2013.
- CG Trader from Lithuania as having "The highest investment potential" from the Entrepreneurship and Investment Forum in ICT2013.

A jury of 14 investors decided to reward them following their pitch in the Entrepreneurship and Investment Forum [2] in Vilnius on November 7 in ICT2013 [3].
