

Visual Arts – Action 1

- Title: PUBLIC ARTS FOR NEW CULTURAL PRACTICES AND TRANS-EUROPEAN DIALOGUE

Country: TURKEY

Project Dates: 01/11/2006 - 31/10/2007

Description:

Creating a platform for exchanging ideas and practices concerning the role of public arts in the creative transformation of spaces and democratisation of public lives. A series of: workshops, seminars and master classes, exhibition of public arts projects of the participating artists, and talks on the following issues: public arts and audiences, public arts and digital technologies, public arts and social empowerment.

Objectives:

To achieve a pan-European dialogue in the area of visual public arts with the objective of promoting intercultural understanding between the new and the old Member States and to address the role that public arts can play in the future of Europe as a democratic, participatory space of intercultural interaction and engagement.

- Title: INFOWARROOM – SURFING THE SATELITE – SAMPLING THE SATELITE

Country: NETHERLANDS

Project Dates: 01/08/2006 - 30/07/2007

Description:

The rapid advances and dispersal of new media technologies have lead to an explosion of visual culture. Nevertheless, very little critical reflection exists today on the content and effects of the images that circulate in these media networks and their influence on contemporary visual culture. INFOWARROOM will investigate precisely this question through a series of 20 public events in four cities across Europe, all broadcast live on the internet, accompanied by a multi media website and archive, a virtual workplace; a collaboration and learning environment on the Internet.

Objectives:

The objective of the INFOWARROOM is to create a space for analysis of dominant forms of visual culture, and to engage in a critical discourse on popular culture in ways that bridge the gap between daily experience and the academic one, between analysis and its content, and between cultural and visual theory and the social uses of media. The project aims at raising the awareness of a non-expert audience, especially youngsters, on the matter.

- Title: URBAN POTENTIALS

Country: GERMANY

Project Dates: 01/05/2006 - 30/04/2007

Description:

The Urban Potentials (UP) Project will draw up perspectives and visions for contemporary art in urban community design in Europe. The focus in participating countries will be on important but unrealised opportunities. The following activities have been planned: research into specific local potentials in their cities; international, public, inaugural symposium devised and organised by participating curators and project management; realisation of specific artistic projects about unused specific local potentials in the participating cities; work of artists in Dresden with a platform debate and a final public event; touring exhibition and website development.

Objectives:

Project objectives are: to make the above mentioned potentials of European urban spaces visible; to check the possibilities and effectiveness of contemporary art in developing urban communities and civil society for one and the comparability and transferability of urban problem situations and of artistic approaches to solutions for another; to establish long term cooperation routes, including routes that extend beyond the scope of the contemporary fine arts.

- Title: AT HOME IN EUROPE

Country: UNITED KINGDOM

Project Dates: 01/10/2006 - 30/09/2007

Description:

At Home in Europe is about the production and distribution of artworks using digital media and promoting the co-operation and professional development between the partner organisations. The project plans the following activities: residencies where one artist from each country will spend three months in another country responding to the project theme "At home in Europe", working creatively with technology; screening programme in the Big M made up of 16 works by drawing four from each country; the Big M tour; Publication.

Objectives:

The project will address cultural celebration versus cultural assimilation within Europe. It will invite artists to look at what is culturally European and what is culturally national when viewed from within Europe but outside a national experience. Where are we different and what do we share? What do we mean by being 'at home in Europe'?

Country: GERMANY

Project Dates: 15/11/2006 - 14/11/2007

Description:

An international symposium which is conceived as the meeting place for the exchange of ideas between the participating organisations will be devoted to the effects of neoconservative tendencies on cultural politics and artistic practice in the Baltic region. There will be two month working residency with the resulting artworks being presented at an exhibition. A publication will also be available.

Objectives:

The exhibition will function as a place of encounter between the work of art and the viewer and will stimulate critical debate within the fields of public, social and cultural discourse. Art becomes a form of communication, making us curious - and "curiosity is the best antidote to fear".
