	...European plane ...  Europe and 20 outside Europe. These tests have now created a precedent which will have to be used from now on , not only for the European citizens, but for neighbouring countries as well and others too. We can say that a new system is now effective which today covers new aspects; We still have one point to investigate and that is the situation in the event of an air plane accident, and its possible impact. This point must be deepened."
