We will hope that this will now mean very quick adoption of the EU revised savings directive and the mandate to negotiate with five	00:00:45

This means that Austria is the last Member State not being applying for the automatic exchange of information. We understand that our discussions ongoing in Austria at the moment in this issue and we hope they will be able to follow Luxembourg's lead.

00:01:02	Soundbite by Emer Traynor (in ENGLISH): We welcome as a sign of commitment to moving further and faster in the fight against tax evasion and any willingness to apply automatic exchange of information on a wider basis is welcome and full in line with what Commission has been advocating for some time. What we need to remember is that there are already many tools on the table which could move towards the same goals as the five lines in this letter but faster than instituting any new initiative. More over the tools, we have proposed over progress a 27 rather than just 5 which is obviously a more effective approach when it comes to tackling a cross border problems of tax evasion.	00:00:40
