

EUR@DIONANTES

Name of the organisation: Eur@dionantes

Type : civil society organisation

Description of the activities:

Euradionantes is a Local-European radio. Programs are composed by different civil society levels : young European students trained by professional journalists, local associations involved in European action and who want to give a larger echo to their action , individuals or other European associations producing web programs related with European culture, and finally program exchanges with professional national and European radios. Local information is put in perspective at a European level. The European team of young journalists invent a new notion of Local-European journalism. They also benefit a real professional experience and work in a multi cultural context.
