

Lorenzo Natali Prize for Journalism – the nominees selected

Following the decision of an Independent Jury, nominees of the Lorenzo Natali 2010 Prize for Journalism have been announced. The Natali Prize is an international prize awarded each year since 1992 for the best journalistic work on development, democracy and human rights. It is open to journalists working in TV, radio, press and online media. Prizes worth a total of €60 000 will be awarded to the winners. The nominees are (names in each category provided in alphabetical order):

Africa

Charles Ngah Nforngang (Cameroon),
"Libye: des Africaines prostituées par d'autres Africaines" – Jade Cameroun

Kipchumba Some (Kenya)
"Police executions: dark secrets revealed"- Standard Media Group

Théodore Kouadio (Ivory Coast)
"Enlèvements d'enfants"- Fratmat.info

Arab World & the Middle East

Abdelkarim Chankou (Morocco)
"Milouda en danger de mort ?" – Citadine

Adama Wade (Morocco)
"Le scandale du cacao ivoirien"- Les Afriques

Manar Attiya Salem (Egypt),
"Aya ouvre une breche" – Journal Al-Ahram

Asia & the Pacific

Chitragada Choudhury (India)
"The War Within"- Hindustan Times

Nilanjana Bhowmick (India)
"New India Law RTE Mandates Free Education for Children"- Time.com

Shyamlal Yadav (India)
"Streams of Filth" – India Today

Europe

Esther Leburgue (France)
"Le "viol correctif" ou comment "soigner" les lesbiennes" – Causette

Frédéric Delepierre (Belgium)
"Bhopal, plaie ouverte de l'Inde" – Le Soir

José Manuel Bustamante (Spain)
"Las mujeres en Guatemala alzan la voz" – Frontera Digital

Latin America & the Caribbean

Alberto Spiller (México)

"En el territorio de los invisibles" – La Gaceta Universitaria

Solano Nascimento (Brazil)

"Destruição made in Brasil" – Correio Braziliense

Yader Francisco Luna García (Nicaragua),

"Palabra de Mujer"- Revista La Brújula Semanal

Special Prizes

Mark Doyle (UK)

"Guinea on the Brink"- BBC World Service

Yuk-Kuen Wong (China)

"Child Abduction" –Television Broadcasts Limited