

On 20 April 2016, the European Commission initiated formal antitrust proceedings against Alphabet, Google's parent company, with regard to its business practices related to Android. The subject matter of the proceedings is the same as that of the statement of objections addressed to Alphabet and Google of the same day. Proceedings were already initiated against Google on 15 April 2015.