WHY A COMMUNICATION ON TRILATERAL DIALOGUE AND COOPERATION BETWEEN THE AFRICA, CHINA AND THE EU?

The EU has recently reviewed its strategy towards Africa. This process culminated in the Joint EU-Africa Strategy which was endorsed by African and European leaders at the last EU-Africa Summit in Lisbon in December 2007. The EU has also put working together on global challenges including Africa's peace, security and sustainable development on the agenda of its China policy. The European Parliament recently proposed a report on "China's policy and its effects on Africa" that will be submitted for adoption on 22nd April 2008.

Triangular cooperation between Africa, the EU and emerging development partners is one of the new approaches which are contained in the above mentioned new strategy. A major and increasingly important player as a development partner in Africa is definitely China.

The EU's relationship with China already includes a bilateral dialogue and cooperation on Africa because China's rise in Africa has important repercussions on EU relations with Africa and China. In this context, the EU has proposed to examine the possibilities of setting up a framework of trilateral dialogue and cooperation between Africa, China and the EU. Such a framework is not a substitute for each side's bilateral relations, but a complement to enhance partnership beyond 1+1=2.

The main objective of the Communication is to foster an innovative, step by step process of dialogue and cooperation between Africa, the EU and China to promote mutual understanding and allow better coordination and cooperation in specific cases including on multilateral initiatives with the long term objective of improved coordination on security issues in Africa and better aid effectiveness in the context of Millennium Development Goal 8 (establishing a global development partnership). This has to be embedded in a trilateral framework with ownership by our African partners.

In this context, the European Commission is currently preparing a Communication entitled "The EU, Africa and China: Towards trilateral dialogue and cooperation on Africa's peace, stability and sustainable development" which will explain the context of the suggested dialogue and cooperation and propose as concrete areas of action: peace and security, infrastructure and sustainable management of natural resources.

We wish to involve our partners right from the beginning in the reflection process leading towards the Communication. We would therefore be grateful if you could express your personal opinion on this proposal by replying to the annexed questionnaire.

THE CONSULTATION PROCESS

What for?

The purpose of this consultation is to gather information and opinions from stakeholders in Africa, China and the EU concerning a possible future trilateral dialogue and cooperation between the EU, China and Africa and on possible actions to be taken by the three partners and stakeholders to support it.

How?

This online consultation is one important tool among others to gather views. The questionnaire can be found in Word format on the Consultation section of DG Development's website: <http://ec.europa.eu/development/about/consultation/index.cfm> (English and French).

You can fill it in and send it to: DEV-Africa-China-EU-consultat@ec.europa.eu, via ordinary mail: Uwe Wissenbach, SC-15 – 3/89, European Commission, B-1049 Brussels or via fax: +32-2-299.09.14.

The deadline for submission of the questionnaire is 13th of June 2008.

What next?

Given the nature of the consultation, the publication of individual replies is not envisaged at this stage.

All contributions will be carefully analysed and a summary of the outcome of the consultation will be published on the Consultation section of DG Development's website (<http://ec.europa.eu/development/about/consultation/index.cfm>) within four weeks following the closure of the consultation.

This report will inform the impact assessment process and provide input for the drafting of the Communication, which the Commission plans to adopt in September 2008.
