contract notice in OJEU 2013/S 078-130358

Q1. Can the Commission confirm that the bulk of the submitted documents (“main sources for the analysis” as well as “other official documents”) will be available in English?

A1. Please see Section 3.3 of the Tender Specification. The legal provisions communicated by a member state are expected to be in that member state's official language. Member states are encouraged to use correlation tables in English, however neither correlation tables themselves nor the use of English are compulsory.

For the "other official documents" referred to, these can include reports for international conventions and organisations. Such reports are usually submitted in an official language of the organisation. In such cases the official language chosen is very often English.

Q2. Are there the Annexes in MS word to find on the website?

A2. Yes. The Annexes in word format will be published shortly.
