

Jan PETRICEK

We want that online petitions remain possible, otherwise - in practical terms - the citizens initiative will be meaningless, because nobody who is actively working has time to go to the city council to have his signature authenticated. The authentication is a unnecessary bureaucratic approach, which would render null and void the meaning of the citizens initiative.