Title	Small states within an enlarged European Union
New program / renewal?	New program Renewal: 2nd year 3rd year
Subject area code
Description	• The aim of this project is to offer a course on small states within the European Union after the latest enlargement, at the host institution, the University of Iceland. • A curriculum will be created, which will focus on how the increased number of small states within the EU changes the focus and emphasis of the Union. The curriculum will also focus on the alliance formation within the EU, the main interests of the small states and how the increased number of small states affects behaviour in the decision-making process of the EU. • The course will bring together the best scientists in the field of Small State Studies in Europe and combine knowledge in a number of disciplines; political science, economics, history, sociology, philosophy, public policy and geography. The course yields eight (8) ECTS credits and will be offered to post-graduate students at a total of 12 universities. • Each lecture will be recorded and a special virtual learning material based on the IP will be developed. As a result, every lecture is preserved and by the third year of the IP, the partner institutions can either offer this web-based course to students all over Europe through distance learning or incorporate selected material from the course into their own curricula. An additional option would be to offer the course as a whole to their own students.
