Description	With “Investment Funds in Europe – The Role of UCITS and NON-UCITS in different Countries” we will work on a current European problem in the field of asset management. The European fund industry is continuously increasing its assets under management. In the past the EU commission expressed the perception that UCITS legislation could work better and that the competitiveness of the European market could be improved. With this new Intensive Programme we will analyze the different importance of UCITS and Non-UCITS in the participating countries and also uncover the variety of Non-UCITS existing in the participating countries. One goal would be that students learn which national fund market to use if they have to issue a specific type of investment fund. We will target on undergraduate students in business administration. Main activities are input lectures, student papers with presentation and discussion, a portfolio management game, company visits and presentations by investment fund professionals. General output of the IP is a much deeper view of students into the fund business; we will organise a newspaper article in the partner countries and on the project homepage student papers will be ready for download. The partnership between the five universities is selected by hand: Luxembourg is representing the biggest market in Europe, Cyprus, Latvia and Malta represent relatively small markets, while Liechtenstein is representing a small market with high growth rates.
