

Title of the project

GLEUBE: Globalising European Bioethics Education

Duration: 18 months

Project description

Introduction:

With input from across the European Union the project will ensure the participation of academics, students and other stakeholders from outside of the European Union in European bioethics research and education activities. This will be achieved, through the provision of a web-based portal of interactive materials, together with the hosting of international events.

Project Aims:

1. To increase the number of international students who choose to study bioethics within the European Union.
2. To promote European scholarship in the field of bioethics to the international academic community
3. To make European scholarship and education in the field of bioethics widely available to the international community.

Project Objectives (and Outcomes):

1. To create a digital resource that provides, in an open access format, lectures and teaching materials by European Scholars on topics pertinent bioethics.
2. To provide information on current scholarship and education activities within bioethics in Europe.
3. To provide resources on European Bioethics for a general, international, audience.
4. To host a “European Bioethics Summer School” to promote European Bioethics research and education activities.
5. To hold an international conference that showcases the work of European Bioethics to the international community.

Coordinator:

University of Central Lancashire
Adelphi Building, Fylde Road, Preston,
Lancashire, PR1 2HE, United Kingdom
<http://www.uclan.ac.uk>

Contact person:

Mr Anthony Mark CUTTER
University of Central Lancashire
Adelphi Building, Fylde Road, Preston,
Lancashire, PR1 2HE, United Kingdom
E: amcutter@uclan.ac.uk

Partners:

- University of Helsinki, Helsinki, Finland
- Dublin City University, Dublin, Ireland
- Cardiff University, Cardiff, United Kingdom
- University of Oslo, Oslo, Norway

Grant: 261.904,70 €