

HOW CAN CATHOLIC SCHOOL EQUIP YOUNG PEOPLE WITH COMPETENCES AND MATURATION FOR LIFELONG LIVING?

We are given lessons every day in our lives; however the most important are those which are given at home and at school. I think Catholic schools influence young people differently than others schools, because they teach how to cooperate and how to make it in different situations.

I would like to start with excursions and trips on which we see a lot of things we were talking about at school. Teachers always try to explain why certain things are important and why some events happened.

Moreover there are many different activities in which you can cooperate and improve your skills and knowledge.

In others schools excursions are not obligatory and for this reason not very well attended and you can not improve your skills as thoroughly as in Catholic schools.

Secondly the teachers are all well qualified and ready to help if you get in trouble. They are ready to discuss with you almost anything that bothers you. They try to live as they teach, however, they remain only humans.

At the end I would like to say that on this school I have been given some important lessons. There are enough lessons and opportunities for everyone, even for teachers. For here everything is on you. Will you listen to the advice? Will you accept it?
