

HOW CAN CATHOLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM BEST RESPOND TO THE NEED TO PROMOTE NON-DISCRIMINATION AND TO RESPOND TO CULTURAL DIVERSITY?

Catholic schools teach students how to be good to all people. Students have lessons, where they learn about other cultures and religions. They learn about their good and bad things, so they can better accept others. They are also taught how to be non-racist. Our religion teaches, that all people (black, white, yellow) can be catholic and that we must accept them like they are, our brothers and sisters. Students are also very close to each other and that is very good. They have many projects where they must work together and be patient with each other and accept other people's beliefs. In that way they learn how to work in group. The relationship between students and teachers is very good. Teachers help students and students are not ignorant to them. But that is not all. When they work in groups they become more connected and they are all friends. All those things are important in our lives. Catholic schools prepare students how to be good to all people. That way of living is right and it is such as the catholic religion teaches. But I think that in our world this way is also the hardest.

Catholic schools do not forget even this, so they teach students also how to bear this good, but hard way of life. They teach, that with God everything is easier.
