Nomination as an Ambassador

Institute of translation "Flutra & Sons" was founded in 1992 by herself. Beginning of the 1990s, upon the big political changes and overturn of the dictatorship, Flutura was found in crossroads like all Albanian women, but she shoes to start the "road" of translation, and she transformed her occupation from professor into private translator. Faith in herself, the need for survival and improve personal and family status enter her to the path of business, an area previously unknown and very difficult for a woman. Although she was acting very well integrated immediately in the civil society being one of pioneers of creating NGO, in 1992 founded the Association of Businesswomen in Albania. Hunger for information, formation, education, communication and makes it to participate in economic and social forums in the country and in the world, without exception throughout the Balkans, Europe, some countries of East, etc... as Italy, Greece, France, Spain, Germany, Russia, China, USA, England, Lebanon, Egypt, United Arab Emirates, etc..She used all her knowledge in the field of translation and business to know how much better the business cycle, and all its elements and then transmitted point to point to colleagues, partners and her Albanian collaborators. During many years is certified into domestic and foreign institutions prestigious, even read yet to participate in seminars and training workshops with special interest. Works perfectly in the group puts in motion with much love and enthusiasm participant of a group or of a grouping. Has confidence in the future of her country, the strength of women and work and gender equality in the economics' field. Is known and appreciated in social-economic environments and foreign. Recognizes the sacrifice of supporting without conditions, often leaving their occupation of personal and professional. As an activist of the hard living and she had mirror her mother, known as veteran to the emancipation movement for Albanian women, while women in business as it is patterned after her father who led «in Spirit» for courage and confidence to work, intelligence and permanent education of women.
