Natura 2000 supports the principles of sustainable development. It sets the parameters by which economic activities can take place whilst safeguarding Europe's rich biodiversity.