Invasive alien species are a major threat to biodiversity, second only to habitat loss. Their invasion causes significant economic damage and can be a danger for our health.