

Surname: Flynn, Albert

Nationality: Irish

Education:

- B.Sc. (Biochemistry), National University of Ireland, Galway, 1973
- Ph.D. (Biochemistry), National University of Ireland, Galway, 1979

Present Position: Associate Professor (Nutritional Sciences), University College, Cork, Republic of Ireland. Research and teaching in human nutrition.

Former Positions:

- Dean, Faculty of Food Science & Technology, University College, Cork, 1993-96
- Visiting Researcher (Nutrition), University of California, Davis, U.S.A., 1985 & 1987
- Lecturer/Senior Lecturer (Nutrition), University College, Cork, 1981-97

Research background/other activities

He has current and past research activities in:

- the influence of diet, and its interaction with genetics, on bone health
- food and nutrient intake in relation to health in population groups
- nutritional toxicology and risk assessment

He has current and past participation in multidisciplinary EU research projects. He is currently Chairman of the Nutrition Committee and Member of the Scientific Committee of the Food Safety Authority of Ireland and Chairman of the Nutrition Society Irish Section.