Each of the main ten sections contains information about:

- Actions undertaken, mainly by the national brewers associations / confederations and individual brewing companies, AND
- ★ Initiatives, part-funded by brewing companies, which are usually launched and run by Social Aspects Organisations.

It should be noted that the majority of the initiatives described are ongoing. A few examples of campaigns which have started and ended since the first edition (2003) have been included. This has usually been when evaluation results have been available.

Acknowledgements

In producing this overview of brewing industry funded initiatives, the Worldwide Brewing Alliance has consulted many organisations, most of whom are listed in the back of this document. The editor would like to take this opportunity to thank them for their help and assistance. She would also like to thank Robin Witheridge, LL.B. for his help with the proof reading and support in the preparatory stage.

Beer is regularly enjoyed by people the world over and has been an integral part of society for centuries in many cultures worldwide. It is a natural, wholesome and thirst quenching drink and, when consumed responsibly, is perfectly compatible with a normal healthy lifestyle.

Beer is a major benefit to social, cultural and economic life around the world. Production and consumption patterns and habits differ widely from one country or region to another, particularly with regard to the different types of beers, all of which have their own individual characteristics.

What does not vary however is the brewing sector's continued commitment to discouraging misuse of its products, as shown by the initiatives described.

Foreword

Almost every adult on this planet likes to enjoy a good glass of beer or another alcoholic beverage once in a while. I certainly do. But as a European politician I am also confronted with the negative effects of abuse of alcohol. Of course there is a distinction between moderate consumption of alcohol and alcohol abuse. Moderate drinking can be a source of pleasure, while abuse is affecting the wellbeing of many civilians all over the world.

Looking at the facts on alcohol related harm in Europe, it does not paint a pretty picture. Alcohol abuse costs many lives and 125 billion euros a year in Europe. These figures show that something has to be done. Therefore I am pleased to notice the efforts the Worldwide Brewing Alliance is taking to support social responsibility initiatives world wide.

Since the first edition of the Worldwide Brewing Alliance publication in 2003, the number of social responsibility initiatives supported by the brewing sector throughout the world has more than doubled. This is impressive.

It is important that the brewing sector pursues its efforts across Europe and the world. More brewers in more countries have to engage in initiatives aimed at tackling misuse wherever it occurs, particularly with a view to addressing underage drinking.

It is also encouraging to see that the vast majority of these initiatives are conducted in partnership with other stakeholders including national and local governments. This publication will prove useful to all those who take interest in seeing the problems associated with the misuse of beer and other alcoholic beverages being addressed by as many stakeholders as possible.

Introduction

The first edition of the Worldwide Brewing Alliance (WBA) “Global Social Responsibility Initiatives” was published three years ago. During those years, the global brewing industry had continued and strengthened its commitment to the legal and responsible consumption of its fine products. That commitment is reflected by the growth of both the number of initiatives listed and the number of organisations represented.

In 2003, the WBA comprised its six founder members from Australia, USA, New Zealand, Canada, Europe as well as the UK Association. Since then, membership has grown with the addition of the Latin American Brewers, the Brewers Association of Japan and, most recently, the Union of Russian Brewers. It has lost one of its founding members with the closure of the Beer Wine and Spirit Council of New Zealand. It now represents almost 60% of the worldwide production of beer.

The WBA was established in 2003 with the objective of disseminating and exchanging good practices and information on social responsibility and product integrity issues. It also publishes a ‘Report on Drinking and Driving’ every two years as well as the Global Social Responsibility Initiatives booklet.

Brewers play a leading role in, and commit significant financial investment to, all the initiatives described in this document, either individually as brewers, by subscribing to trade associations¹ and their confederations or by funding Social Aspects Organisations (SAO’s)² and their international affiliations. The majority of the world’s brewers actively participate in these initiatives and particularly in those run by brewing trade associations.

The number and range of the initiatives listed reflect the cultural and legal differences in the respective countries and show the need to tailor activity to local needs. Two examples of this diversity are prominent in this document. One relates to the efforts to discourage underage consumption, where the age under which it is illegal to purchase alcoholic drinks varies from place to place. The second refers to information about the alcohol contained in a package, where unit / standard drink sizes vary around the world.

A feature of this document is the array and variety of partnerships with other agencies which are described herein. Partnership provides an extra dimension for brewing sector initiatives, affording them wider expertise, knowledge, scope, recognition and coverage. The brewing sector seeks out and welcomes such partnerships worldwide.

A number of the initiatives described have been running for many years. Building on this experience, an increasing number now incorporate an evaluation to measure the effectiveness of their message. Where evaluation has been reported the results are included in italics below the initial entry. Evaluation invariably shows a positive effect of the initiative. For example, a campaign run by MEAS in Ireland showed that students who had been involved in the program had significantly lower drinking / binge-drinking rates than those who had not.

¹ Trade Association: Body set up by a sector like the brewing sector to promote and defend the interests of the sector towards national, international and non-governmental organisations / institutions.

² Social Aspects Organisation (SAO): Industry funded organisation which promotes the responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages through education and communication programs, as well as funding of specific measures such as those against drinking and driving. Details of the SAOs whose initiatives are described can be found on page 89.

WORLDWIDE BEER AND ALCOHOL

More than 570 initiatives from 46 different countries are described. These have been grouped under 10 main sections. The sections have been expanded in this edition to more accurately reflect the brewers' response to issues such as discouraging underage drinking. The largest section in this edition is the one which lists campaigns focused on reducing and preventing underage drinking. More than a quarter are devoted to initiatives designed to enforce the legal purchasing age and similar numbers are on the subject of teacher packages for schools and college programs respectively.

The section which has shown the most growth is the one which documents Codes of Practice for Responsible Commercial Communications. A number of new Codes are included, together with details of several which have been strengthened, including increased investment in developing the whole self-regulatory system. For example, the operation of a compliance mechanism, pre-launch advice / vetting or independent review boards. This reflects an increasing commitment to ensuring that commercial communications do not appeal to underage drinkers or encourage alcohol misuse.

Impressive as this document is, it cannot be considered in isolation. The worldwide brewing sector has a long-standing reputation for being socially responsible. This pre-dates the current trends in Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR), as evidenced by the number of campaigns and Codes which have been running for many years (seven started more than 30 years ago). This document is not an historical record. It only includes campaigns which are ongoing or which have started since the first edition in 2003. Credit must, therefore, also be awarded to the numerous initiatives that have been undertaken by the brewing sector over the years.

There follows a collection of the responsible initiatives in which brewers from across the world have been involved over the last few years. This shows just one aspect of the brewing sector's ongoing commitment to ensure that its products are consumed only by adults, and then only in a responsible way.

Campaigns and educational material to encourage responsible or moderate consumption

This section includes materials designed to educate the consumer and promote responsible consumption and personal responsibility in general, together with programs designed to provide advice and information - for example, during pregnancy or recreational activities.

①

Australia

Australian Associated Brewers Inc.

- "Standard Drinks Logo" · 2005 ①

Australian brewers agreed to a uniform standard drinks logo¹ on bottle and can labels, to make it easier for consumers to calculate their consumption. This will be in place on all member company products by mid 2007.

Diageo Australia

- "Boo/Hooray" Red Stripe Advertisement · 2006

A television advertising campaign that says "Boo" to awkward social situations and "Hooray" to Red Stripe Beer. Apart from the commercial message, the campaign also focuses on social responsibility and encourages consumers to enjoy Red Stripe in moderation. Images of an aggressive body builder who spends too much time developing his upper body while ignoring his lower body are accompanied by the proclamation, "Boo too much of a good thing.!"

Belgium

Belgian Brewers

- "www.beerandhealth.com" · 2001 - ongoing

An unique independent website that brings together, on a single site, all the available scientific information about the effects of beer on health. The webmaster is Dr. Marleen Finoulst, who writes in the professional medical press and in health columns. The information on the website originates in high-quality scientific journals, references to which are always given at the bottom of the text. In addition to current scientific studies on beer consumption and health, the site features extensive dossiers about beer (health aspects, nutritional value, beer and pregnancy, etc.), interviews with experts on beer and health, a diary of events on the theme of alcohol and health and a 'question and answer' section. Visitors may subscribe free of charge to a monthly newsletter keeping them informed of interesting developments in connection with beer and health and all site updates. The website is mainly aimed at the interested lay person who is looking for reliable and comprehensible information on the effects of beer (or alcohol in general) on health. The website is financed by the professional federation of the Belgian Brewers, eager to inform visitors about the health benefits of moderate beer consumption, without neglecting to warn against the negative consequences of excessive beer drinking. In this sense, the website wholeheartedly supports the philosophy of the Belgian Brewers and the Arnoldus Group: "Beer brewed with love should be drunk with good sense".

The German/Austrian version www.bierundgesundheit.com is financially supported by the Gesellschaft für Öffentlichkeitsarbeit der Deutschen Brauwirtschaft e.v. and the Verband der Brauereien Österreichs.

- "Beer & Society Information Center (B&SIC)" · 2001 - ongoing ②

Aims to improve understanding and communication on the positive aspects of beer and health, and provides information about responsible consumption, as well as the diversity, of Belgian beer, its flavours, drinking scenarios, types of beer etc..

● "Promotion of Responsible Consumption During Carnival 2006" · 2006

Messages about responsible consumption and the avoidance of "drinking and driving" to, and from, the event were used to educate consumers during carnival. Activities included: donating five thousand disposable breathalyzers to local and federal government agencies in Rio de Janeiro, São Paulo and Distrito Federal; distribution of information at appropriate airports; educational entertainment designed to identify those who were unfit to drive and offer a taxi for carnival goers in Recife and Olinda; and an offer of a temporary boomerang tattoo to help participants remember the importance of responsible consumption in Salvador.

● "Sponsorship of and Information at 'Skol Beats'" · 2005 - annual

'Skol Beats' is the largest music event in Latin America. It annually attracts more than 60,000 party-goers. Responsible consumption was one of the themes for both the 2005 and 2006 events. Stewards were on hand to provide information on responsible consumption and to advise on the different transport options available. These included free buses to take people to the subway. Festival goers were entertained by a virtual game, which checked whether or not they were fit to drive, and a strict minimum legal-age policy was enforced to protect minors. The company also initiates similar responsible consumption activities in many other music and cultural events during the year.

● "The AmBev Responsible Consumption Program" · 2001 - ongoing

Promotes responsible consumption of the company's products, focusing on the harms of underage drinking and drink-driving. In 2006, a boomerang logo with the strapline, "It's cool to go and to come back", was launched. The campaign, which includes responsible consumption, activities and partnerships, communicates the message to both internal and external stakeholders. The campaign is also being run in Ecuador, Peru and Venezuela.

Bulgaria

Union of Brewers in Bulgaria (UBB)

● "Responsible Consumption Messages in TV Advertising" · 2006 - ongoing ③ ④

Written phrases and statements about responsible consumption of beer for members of the UBB to place in advertising clips on national TV channels. "Consume with pleasure and moderation".

● "Publication of Basic Principles" · 2005 - ongoing

UBB's basic principles of responsible commercial communications include policies on: responsible consumption; minors; drinking and driving; health and moderate consumption; drinking and social behaviour; sporting and sexual success; and the promotion and sampling of beer brands. Opportunities are taken to publicise them in the national press.

Canada

Brewers Association of Canada

● "'Motherisk' Alcohol and Substance Use Helpline" ⑤

1999 - Renewed 2006 - ongoing

A toll-free national access helpline for women, their families, and their healthcare providers. Provides answers to questions regarding pregnancy and breastfeeding including the consumption of alcoholic beverages during pregnancy. In partnership with Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

In 2006, the Association renewed its commitment to fund the helpline for a further three years.

Labatt Breweries of Canada

- "Know When to Draw the Line" · 1990 - ongoing

A responsible consumption campaign which targets young adult beer drinkers. Using a range of media, this program addresses the issue of binge-drinking and over-consumption among young adults with a serious message concerning responsible consumption. It has been complemented by award-winning commercials, point-of-sale reminders from posters and coasters, and national print campaigns featuring a wide range of imagery designed to promote responsible consumption at on-premise locations across Canada. Labatt's national initiatives and themes are complemented by local partnerships and programs that bring the "Know when to draw the line" message home.

Molson Canada

- "Molson's Responsible Use Program" · 1989 - ongoing

A one million dollar national campaign that promotes the responsible consumption of, and responsible attitudes towards, alcohol and drinking. Working in conjunction with a number of other organisations and partners, the company brings timely, educational, targeted programs to people across the country. It works with its employees and territory representatives, as well as with social groups, police, and health care professionals. Within the brewing industry, the company is a sponsor of cooperative programs that promote public awareness of responsible use, and undertake research on traffic safety. These programs, run by groups such as the Brewers Association of Canada, Canada's National Brewers, Quebec Brewers Association, and The Beer Store, complement the Molson "Don't Drink and Drive" message - see page 40.

Chile

Compañía Cervecerías Unidas S.A. (CCU)

- "Responsibility Messages on Packages" · 2004 - ongoing

'CCU Asks You to Consume Responsibly' - labelling on packages for alcoholic drinks. Since 2005, these labels have also included the message 'Product for those 18 and older'.

Czech Republic

Czech Beer and Malt Association (CBMA)

- "Czech Beer – Our Beer" · 2000 - ongoing

A long term campaign which aims to inform the public about beer, general matters related to beer and health, and the importance of moderate consumption.

Denmark

Bryggeriforeningen

- "www.bryggeriforeningen.dk" · updated in 2006 - ongoing

An updated website, including messages of moderation and responsibility, together with the marketing code.

- "Units of Alcohol" · since 1995

Members of the Danish Brewers Association label each alcoholic product with its respective number of units^{II} of alcohol.

GODA

- ★ "www.goda.dk" · updated in 2005 - ongoing ⑥

GODA's website includes facts about alcohol and information on sensible alcohol consumption. The site targets adolescents, parents and teachers. It receives approximately 20,000 visits on an annual basis.

Dominican Republic

Cervecería Nacional Dominicana (CND)

See also the Campaign of Responsible Consumption which emphasizes responsible consumption, as well as the dangers of drinking and driving e.g.: 'If you take a drink, take it easy. If you take a drink, take the pulse of your conscience.' - see page 42.

France

Brasseurs de France

- "www.reperes-alcool.com" · 2006 - ongoing ⑦

The first website made by beer producers to inform people about the World Health Organisation's (WHO) recommendations on responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages: no more than 2 units^{III} for women, 3 for men per diem and none in a few instances (pregnancy, childhood, etc). The website was launched in the national daily press with an advertising campaign to publicise the site and to remind people to enjoy beer with responsibility.

Entreprise & Prévention (E&P)

- ★ "Experimental Campaign about Foetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS)"

Pilot-study in 2006 – evaluation and extension in 2007

With the objective of promoting dialogue between women and their medical practitioners about alcohol consumption, this program uses leaflets and posters for waiting-rooms, and a guide for medical staff. It was set up in partnership with the city of Le Havre, Normandy, and ran from June to December. The evaluation is in progress, and the results will be used to roll out the campaign at national level.

II. In Denmark, one unit contains 12g alcohol.

III. An alcohol unit is defined here as 10g of alcohol.

★ “Responsibility Messaging in Advertising” - since 2007 ⑧

A professional campaign to promote the WHO responsible consumption advice. The logo showing the website - www.2340.fr is being placed on printed advertisements for alcoholic drinks and the campaign has been publicised to explain its significance. It is coordinated by E&P on behalf of the 6 associations representing alcoholic drinks including Brasseurs de France.

Germany

Deutscher Brauer-Bund e.V.

● “Bier Bewusst Genießen” (“Drink Beer Sensibly” or “Savour Beer Responsibly”)
· 2006 - ongoing ⑨

A campaign targeted at consumers via brewers and vendors. The message of responsibility is conveyed through this clear message which brewers and vendors are encouraged to incorporate into their operations and their marketing. It has two independent parts:

- Encouraging breweries to incorporate the slogan;
- “Packages” for pubs/restaurants, for markets and for petrol stations.

Eder & Heylands

● “Information on the Company Website” ⑩

Information about alcohol and responsible drinking on the website www.eder-heylands.de backs up the “Bier bewusst genießen” (“Drink beer sensibly”) included on the company’s advertising posters.

Hungary

Association of Hungarian Brewers

● “Ambassador of Beer” · 2004 - ongoing ⑪

Ireland

Guinness Ireland

● “Wake Up Call Campaign” · 2007

A campaign to promote responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages consisted of TV, press and outdoor advertising. It followed on from previous successful campaigns.

● “Educational Choice Zone at the Guinness Storehouse” · 2004 - ongoing

Uses film and interactive media to challenge visitors to reflect on their own drinking habits and the choices they make about the consumption of alcohol. The exhibit’s material has purposely been positioned to avoid a defensive, moralising or judgemental dialogue with visitors in order to create a balanced, fair and open understanding of alcohol in society. The Storehouse is the second most popular fee-charging tourist attraction in Ireland, with over 700,000 visitors annually.

Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Ltd (MEAS)

★ “drinkaware.ie” · 2006 - ongoing ⑫ ⑬

A consumer focused initiative, supported by a website of the same name, aimed at reducing the culture of excessive drinking. www.drinkaware.ie provides information on standard drinks^{IV}, the effects of alcohol on the body, information relating to different life stages and contexts, as well as useful hints and tips. In addition, it provides consumers with the facility to: compare their drinking patterns with the Irish Government’s drinking guidelines; maintain an online personal drinks diary; and participate in an online quiz. The initial drinkaware.ie advertising campaign, which ran from the beginning of November 2006 until the end of January 2007, targeted 18-29 year-olds and featured TV and radio advertisements, together with outdoor posters carrying the line ‘Know the one that’s one too many’. Further major communications campaigns will be carried out throughout 2007 and at key periods throughout the calendar, e.g. Christmas, St. Patrick’s Day, Easter and the exam results period. A drinkaware.ie promotional leaflet and a hand-held standard drinks calculator have also been produced to support these campaigns.

★ "Responsibility Messaging Guidelines" · 2005 - ongoing

Guidelines for the communication of the responsibility message "Enjoy [Brand X] Sensibly" for alcohol advertisements produced by member companies that are targeted at consumers. The guidelines were developed to ensure clarity, legibility, consistency and prevalence of the responsibility message. All member companies have incorporated responsibility messages on consumer-targeted advertisements in Ireland.

★ "Standard Drinks Calculator" · 2004 - ongoing

An online Standard Drinks Calculator that allows the consumer to determine the specific number of standard drinks that he or she has consumed in a seven-day period. The facility, which can be found on the MEAS website www.meas.ie, has been developed in the context of MEAS's initiative to provide information resources to educate the general public about alcohol, and to promote moderation in the consumption of alcohol. The Standard Drinks Calculator has the facility to track the number of consumers who have used the resource to determine the number of standard drinks that they have consumed over a 7-day period.

Jamaica

Red Stripe (Diageo)

● "Think. Drink" · 2007 - ongoing

An initiative to discourage irresponsible drinking behaviour consisting of messaging aimed at preventing drink-driving.

Japan

Asahi Breweries

● "Keeping on Good Terms with Alcohol: A Guidebook for Responsible Drinkers" · published in 1998 - ongoing ⁽¹⁴⁾

- "Newspaper Question-and-Answer Column" · 2005 - ongoing

A weekly newspaper column in the Daily Nation with the psychologist Dr. Njenga. The column provides consumers with an opportunity to ask questions on alcohol issues. This is part of an ongoing awareness campaign which helps to provide consumers with factual information about alcohol and promotes awareness of responsible drinking behaviours.

Malta

The Sense Group (TSG)

- ★ "Tkunx il-Buffu tar-Rahal" ("Don't be the Town's Clown") · 1999 - ongoing

An anti-binge-drinking campaign run during the Summer "fiesta" season in Malta which aims to discourage the idea that it is "macho" to get drunk. It promotes the idea that bingeing is puerile and clownish. A set of cartoons was commissioned for the campaign which appears in advertisements in youth magazines and in the cinema. Radio advertising is used to reinforce the message during fiesta time.

- ★ "Anti-binge-drinking Media Campaign" · 2000 - ongoing

Similar to "Tkunx il-Buffu tar-Rahal", but aimed at nightlife. This projects bingeing in a negative light.

- 2003 - ongoing ① ②

An educational program which comes from an initiative based on the Company’s decision to undertake a shared program with families, schools, the community and the authorities to avoid abusive behaviour through the promotion of healthy values among youths. It is about coming closer to young people to help them understand the reasons for, and the context of, many of their actions, so encouraging them to behave in a more creative, harmonious and positive manner. The program’s guidelines and contents were selected and developed with the advice of two renowned experts in the field: Dr. José Eduardo Abadi and Lic. Miguel Espeche. It includes a series of free talks in high-schools facilitated by a team of professionals that has been specially trained to address the issues of adolescence, and to ensure that the exchange is an enriching one. In a dynamic way that encourages dialogue with youths, the talks provide an opportunity to deal with five different values: Responsibility; Awareness of one’s own limits; Tolerance/Respect; and Affections and Effort. The program agenda also includes talks for parents at clubs and institutions, and meetings with teachers in the schools whose headmasters are willing to promote this activity within their educational communities.

In addition to talks for parents, the team of the Vivamos Responsablemente program created the “Guía Para Padres de Hijos Adolescentes”, (“Guide for Parents of Teenage Children”). This material has been designed and developed to improve communication between parents and children about some of their most conflicting day-to-day issues: namely, the parental role when faced with new alternatives of adolescence, such as: the use of free time; the emergence of authority versus authoritarianism; the difference between control and care; and alcohol and prevention information. The Guide is available from the program’s website at www.vivamosresponsablemente.com.

Panimoliitto

● “After Eighteen” · 2000 - annual 14

A scholarship program launched by Panimoliitto together with Nuorten Akatemia (Youth Academy) to financially support action plans aimed at the prevention or reduction of alcohol consumption by under 18 year olds. ‘After Eighteen’ scholarships are a part of the MAHIS program (see below). Awards have been presented each year. In the first year, the prizes went to projects which were conducted by young people who were in danger of social exclusion. Since then, the awards have been aimed at all young people in junior high-schools, with the goal being to encourage schools and young people to work together on projects to prevent underage drinking. The schools prepare action plans describing their activities on the issue. Action plans are received from all over Finland. Plans have to include concrete, action-oriented projects to reduce underage drinking. Emphasis is placed on getting young people involved in planning and implementing activities. Taking advantage of outside organisations is also considered important. The plans are evaluated by a panel, and several action plans receive awards each year.

Nuorten Akatemia (Youth Academy)

★ "MAHIS" - "A Chance is Inside You" · 1988 - annual ¹⁵

A national program aimed at preventing the social exclusion of young people who are in a difficult life-situation. MAHIS financially supports projects carried out by young people. The goal is to give young people in danger of marginalization a chance to use their free time doing interesting and important projects. Counselling and coaching is provided by trained adults who also discuss alcohol consumption with the young people. A network of 1,200 voluntary adult instructors has been trained to coach and support project groups.

As a result of MAHIS, 1,127 projects have started all around Finland and over 11,200 young people have participated in the program. Approximately 100 projects receive financial support each year. Since the beginning, a sum of €560,000 has been donated.

The booklet, developed for MEAS by respected experts, provides facts about: young people and alcohol; the influence of family and friends; the influence of school and community; and how parents can help their children in this area.

Over 253,000 copies have been distributed to date.

★ “Respect Alcohol, Respect Yourself” · 2003 - ongoing

A campaign which highlights the risks run by young people when they drink excessively and features eye-catching posters with various wordplays on the dangers of alcohol misuse. Blunt wording warns of accidental injury, short-term and long-term health problems, violence, anti-social behaviour or becoming a victim of crime. This hard-hitting campaign reaches 250,000 students across 50 colleges annually throughout Ireland during the autumn (including Freshers’ Week) and spring (including Rag Week) academic terms. The posters are promoted heavily through washroom advertising in college bars and other pubs popular with 18-24 year olds. The campaign is carried out in conjunction with the Union of Students of Ireland (USI) and the National Off-Licence Association (NoffLA).

- "Årets Debutanter" · 2002 - ongoing

A program of meetings with parents who have children who are approaching the age when they may start to drink for the first time - see www.debutant.no.

- "Ikke Selg Alkohol Til Mindreårige" ("Don't Sell Alcohol To Minors") · 2002 - 2003

A program to reduce the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors under 18. It was targeted primarily at employees in shops that are licensed to sell alcohol. Campaign elements included posters and stickers that were distributed to all shops licensed to sell alcohol (20,000 copies), letters to all shop managers, and two national conferences on the issue attended by the industry, NGOs, politicians and government officials. It also included a survey on youth-drinking. The campaign resulted in a decreased focus in media and among NGOs, on outlets selling alcohol to minors. This was a joint program between the Association of Norwegian Wine and Spirit Suppliers (VBF), Norwegian Brewers and Federation of Norwegian Commercial and Service Enterprises.

A 2003 survey of the effectiveness of this program concluded that awareness had increased with regard to the legal drinking-age and sale-regulations amongst employees in shops.

- "Fryspunkt" ("Stop When You are Happy") · 2001 - ongoing

A program for high-school teachers developed by the Norwegian Brewers Association in cooperation with a research foundation. In this program, the school spends an hour teaching the students the consequences of alcohol consumption and when to stop drinking. A number of high-schools in Norway are now offering their students this program.

A 2001 survey of the effectiveness of this program concluded that the courses led to less misuse of alcohol by young people - see www.fryspunkt.no.

- "Russens Drikkevettregler" ("Drinking Sense Rules for Graduates") · 2001 - annual

Information meetings for high-school graduates. In Norway graduation is a time of celebration called "russefeiring" with many parties. The Norwegian Brewers Association has, in cooperation with the breweries and an expert on youth and alcohol, arranged information meetings with the graduates, to warn them of the consequences of high alcohol consumption. There are between 50,000 and 100,000 graduates each year, and the meetings are well organized. Each city has its own graduate steering committee and its own graduate president. The Norwegian Brewers Association and the breweries have invited the steering committees from five cities to meetings at the breweries to give the graduates some advice about drinking. Flyers with 10 "Drinking Sense Rules" are given out at the end of the meeting. This program has been very well received by the graduates.

● “Alkohol Nieletnim Dostęp Wzbroniony” “Granica Wieków - Granicą Prawa” (22) (“Alcohol - Underage No Access” “Age Limits are Legal Limits”) · 2003 - ongoing

A campaign which targets retailers of alcoholic drinks, calling on them to respect the law and to ask for proof of age (July - Sept 2003). Materials include promotional and educational point-of-sale material backed up by nationwide media coverage on TV, radio and billboards (free of charge media support gained). There were also numerous efforts initiated by local government and later undertaken by local communities – 280 localities from all across Poland applied for active participation in the project. Involvement of local communities in campaign-related activities was one of the key factors that contributed to the success of the project. The campaign won a Golden Clipper Award in the national contest of PR campaigns organised by a PR community association. The greatest achievement of the campaign was the national discussion about the issue that was sparked by the number and the quality of items in the press (150 publications), radio and television which also helped create social awareness. The campaign was run in association with the State Agency of Alcohol Related Problems (PARPA).

The campaign was evaluated through Comprehensive National Research conducted on 4 - 5 October 2003 to measure results of the campaign (sample 1,034 respondents).

Key conclusions:

- 37% of respondents stated that they had heard about the campaign;
- The audience of the campaign was dominated by younger (18-24 years) and middle-aged individuals (25-39 years). Students constituted a major audience;
- The message of the campaign was clearly understandable (70%) and
- The majority (about 80%) of individuals who saw the campaign stated that the initiative would significantly contribute to the development of less permissive attitudes towards sales of alcohol to the underage, would encourage people to reprimand sales assistants who sell alcohol to the underage, and would encourage sales assistants to demand production of I.D. from underage-looking customers.

The second edition of this campaign “Don’t be Indifferent to Underage Alcohol Sale” (November 2004 - May 2005) ²³ ²⁴ ²⁵ used new campaign material and also targeted witnesses asking them to report the retailer. A phone line, ‘Line for People who Care’, allowed anonymous reports about stores or retailers who break the law. Materials included promotional and educational point-of-sale material, backed up by nationwide media coverage on TV, radio, press and billboards. The campaign was reinforced by the participation of local authorities and communities. District self-governments launched educational and supervisory measures within their localities. Over 600 communes from all over Poland declared their active support for the campaign (twice as many as during the first 2003 edition of the campaign), and the project was also supported by the Polish Scouting Association and numerous organisations advocating sobriety. The campaign was funded by the Polish Brewers in association with the State Agency of Alcohol Related Problems (PARPA). It won a Silver Magellan Award 2005 in the competition organized by the League of American Communications Professionals (community relations category) and was also nominated for the Golden Clipper Award 2005.

The campaign was evaluated by two research studies conducted in March 2005 to assess its effectiveness.

The National Omnibus Study^{II} of a representative sample of adult Poles indicated that:

- Almost 70% of all respondents had had contact with the campaign;
- Over 90% of respondents who declared that they were familiar with the campaign saw it on TV, 21% at retail points of sale, and 11% in the press;
- Social disapproval for individuals serving alcohol to the underage has visibly increased;

II. National Omnibus Research – “Evaluation of Effectiveness and Perception of, Alcohol-Underage Access Denied!” campaign, implemented by Social Opinion Poll Study Group in Sopot in March 2005.

- 86% of total respondents (against 78% in 2003) strongly condemned alcohol sale to minors, 77% shared this view for wine (against 71% in 2003), and 72% for beer (against 64% in 2003);
- 80% of total interviewees declared their support for alcohol manufacturers who have committed themselves to a campaign constraining underage access to alcohol; and
- Such practises are seen as demonstrations of social responsibility and were more frequently appreciated by people with a university background (89%) and aged 25-59 years (84%).

The Mystery Shopper Research covered 105 points-of-sale in six selected cities to assess the impact of audits and related Responsible Vendor Certificates and Yellow Warning Cards on vendors’ attitudes towards underage sale of alcohol. The study was rolled out in 3 cities witnessing high-impact audits, and 3 reference cities where no Yellow Cards or Certificates were awarded. Research findings testify to the legacy of supervisory activities implemented at points-of-sale. Results indicate that almost 75% of points of sale located in towns and cities covered by intense campaign activities did not sell alcohol to minors during the research period. On the other hand, only 22% shop assistants from cities where the initiative was not implemented on a volume scale observed the law during the research and refused to sell alcohol to minors.

In 2006, the program continued with a TV documentary series developed in 25 parts (5 minutes each) to raise public awareness about the problem. The series featured cases from all over Poland together with experts’ and MPs’ opinions. The series was developed in cooperation with Television and was screened throughout the year.

The Union of Russian Brewers

● "Restricting Sales to Minors" · 2006 - ongoing 26

The measures of The Union of Russian Brewers to stop the sale of beer to minors (below age 18) are an integral part of their social responsibility. In November 2004, the Union made a public appeal to the President of the Russian Federation, Vladimir Putin. The appeal included an offer to set legislative limitations on retail beer sales for minors. In April 2005, the Federal Law on 'Restriction of Beer and Beer-based Products Sales' came into force. It included several proposals made by the Union. The main reason for underage drinking is product availability. In this respect, the Union initiated the creation of a special warning sticker 'Sale of beer to minors is restricted'. This is a voluntary initiative, and Russian legislation does not require outlets to use the warning. This warning sign is developed for display at points-of-sale (cash-desks, counters, etc.), and in advertising. Members of the Union, Baltika Breweries, EFES Russia, Heineken Russia, Kaluga Brewing Company, SUN Interbrew, Transmark LLC and ZAO MPBK "Ochakovo" distribute the warning stickers. By 2007, 500,000 warning stickers had been distributed to more than 300,000 outlets across Russia.

was launched to promote responsibility on campus in partnership with the university, the student representative body and faculty members. Three educational initiatives are used:

- 1) Posters specifically designed to reach the target audience and positioned in permanent pubs on campus;
- 2) Banners with taxi information were displayed at the orientation week events and subsequent events, encouraging drinkers not to drive drunk; and
- 3) Disposable 'breathalysers' were given out at various events and sold at cost at student pubs. The breathalysers carry a responsibility message.

To complement the educational campaigns, the company urges that food and soft drinks be made available wherever alcohol is sold on the campus and that individual student bars do not discount alcohol prices to an extent that could encourage binge-drinking.

the National Curriculum for pupils who are aged 8 – 16 years. It contained information about all types of educational resources, including books, videos, websites and drama groups.

★ “Finding Out ... About Drinking Alcohol” · 1995 - 2006

A pupils’ resource book and teachers’ notes for secondary schools (GCSE level) which fits into both science and Public Social and Health Education (PSHE) curricula. It covers subjects such as: what makes an alcoholic drink?; why do people drink?; the effects of alcohol; problem drinking; the law in relation to young people and alcohol; and drink-driving. Issues, such as the effects of alcohol and drink-driving, are supplemented with comic-book style case studies involving popular scenarios for young people, such as going to parties and night clubs. Young people are invited to engage with the subject matter through class discussions, quizzes and role-play.

★ “Let’s Talk About Drinking” 51

· 1994 - updated 2005 - transferred to the Drinkaware Trust 2007

A leaflet which gives advice to parents on how to get messages about drinking alcohol across to different age groups (8-11, 12-14 and 15-17 years). In 2005, this leaflet was updated replacing the earlier version called “Discussing Drinking with your Children”. The leaflet is available in doctors’ waiting rooms and from The Drinkaware Trust (formerly The Portman Group Trust). In 2006, the leaflet was supported with a striking new poster which was displayed, without cost, in doctors’ waiting rooms.

★ “Proof of Age Card” · 1990 - ongoing 52

A scheme which provides cards for 18+ year-olds to enable them to prove that they are old enough to purchase alcohol in licensed premises in the UK. The applicant, who must be aged at least 18, submits a completed form along with a photograph and a signed statement from a “referee” who can vouch for their age. All applications are thoroughly vetted before the card is issued. The Proof of Age card is accredited by the Proof of Age Standards Scheme (PASS) – see above - see www.portmangroup.org.uk.

● “Prevent. Don’t Provide” · 2005 - ongoing 53

This program recognizes the important role that parents, and other adults, play in the fight against underage drinking. According to the 2003 National Academy of Sciences Report, two-thirds of the teenagers who drink report getting alcohol from their parents or other adults. “Prevent. Don’t Provide” challenges adults to “Think Again” if they believe it is acceptable to buy alcohol for teenagers, or to provide it to them at parties - see www.preventdontprovide.com.

● “College Talk: A Parent’s Guide on Talking About Drinking with Your College-Bound Student” · 2002 - ongoing 54

Helps parents to continue communicating openly and honestly on the subject of drinking with students who are preparing for college and beginning a life on their own. Written by an advisory panel of education, family, and health professionals, the guidebook is available for free by visiting www.collegetalkonline.com.

● “WE I.D.” and “Operation I.D.” · 1990 - ongoing 55

Offers training to retailers along with a variety of materials to help them check and verify valid I.D.s. These include: WE I.D. cards (available in English, Spanish and Korean) that list tips on how to spot fake I.D.s; Driver’s Licence booklets that feature photos of valid drivers licences from all 50 US states; buttons and cooler stickers that remind customers that they may be asked for proof of legal drinking age and, wristbands that help identify customers who have already shown a valid I.D.. Anheuser-Busch's distributors have distributed more than 63 million wristbands and 1.2 million WE I.D. cards since 1990 - see www.beeresponsible.com.

● "Family Talk About Drinking" · 1990 - ongoing ⁽⁵⁶⁾

Developed by an advisory panel of professionals in education, family counselling, child psychology, and alcohol treatment. The materials include a guidebook that encourages effective communication between parents and children by addressing such issues as self-respect, family rules, and respect for the law, in order to help prevent underage drinking. The materials are available in English, Spanish, Chinese, Vietnamese, and Korean, and are free at www.familytalkonline.com. English and Spanish videos also are available. More than 6.4 million Family Talk materials have been distributed since 1990.

● "Consumer Awareness and Education Speakers" · 1989 - ongoing

The following speakers and presentations deliver messages to middle-school, high-school, and college students, as well as to educators and parents, about: responsibility and respect for the law; the consequences of underage drinking; drunk driving and key life decisions.

- Bob Anastas - A presentation by the founder and former executive of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) brings parents and students a timely, motivational message on how teenagers can use positive peer pressure, networking, and conflict resolution skills to help them make smart choices. The program, which is also available on video, emphasizes the importance of self-discipline and leadership.
- Dr. Adam Blomberg - After overcoming a traumatic brain injury, suffered in a car crash as a senior in high-school, Adam speaks from experience about the dangers of not following simple safety precautions in motor vehicles. He also speaks from the heart when he recounts the painful story of his brother, who was killed in a drunk-driving crash.
- Dr. Lonnie Carton - A nationally-recognized educator and family counsellor presents a program for parents of middle-school children to help maintain open communication during the middle-school years and throughout adolescence.
- Dr. Carolyn Cornelison – A former athlete, who speaks from her personal college experiences, presents a realistic discussion with students about college drinking, taking responsibility, recognizing misuse, and helping those with alcohol and drug-related problems.
- Michael Chatman - A former gang member and son of an abusive father shares his message of self-empowerment and personal responsibility, and helps students around the country realize that, despite peer pressure and the many other challenges they may face, underage drinking is not the answer.

(57)

- Linda Dutil - A presentation by an emergency-room nurse, designed for middle- and high-school students, which provides a hands-on look at treatments for alcohol poisoning and drug overdose, while teaching effective skills for resisting peer pressure and for making smart, responsible choices.
- Sarah Panzau - A presentation by the victim of her own drunk-driving crash. During her presentation, Sarah takes students through her poor choices that led to the crash and her life-changing comeback.
- 'Street Smart' - An interactive presentation by a two-person team of certified fire-fighters/paramedics reminds students of the consequences of teenage drinking, drunk-driving, illegal drug use, and not wearing seat belts. The presenters take participants into the real-life drama that fire-fighters experience as they work to save the lives of youths who have made poor choices - see www.beeresponsible.com.

Coors Brewing Company

● "MVParents.com" · 2005 - ongoing

A brewer-sponsored website which provides parents with asset-building tools and information, including a downloadable Playbook for Parenting, to support "mums and dads" as the "most valuable players" in their children's lives. Research shows that the more Developmental Assets that young people experience, the less likely they are to engage in a wide range of high-risk behaviours including underage drinking. Search Institute, a national leader in generating cutting-edge ideas with research and strategies for growing healthy thriving children and adolescents, provides all the parenting content and tools on the site. National advertising has been used to increase awareness of the site. In 2006, "Underage Drinking: Parents are the Most Valuable Players in a Kid's Life" was published to outline the company's commitment to the program as part of its ongoing commitment to preventing underage drinking. English and Spanish versions are available.

● "BOYS ONLY!" · 2003 - ongoing (57)

Helps participants develop critical thinking skills, so they make healthy choices. This self-esteem building and preventative education program uses literacy and adventure-based activities as its foundation. It is designed for fifth- through seventh-grade boys and helps these boys develop the essential protective factors needed to become "resilient," so that they are less likely to engage in substance abuse and other risky behaviours.

● "GROW GIRL!" · 1997 - ongoing (58)

A self-esteem building program designed to promote resilience in 10- to 12-year-old girls. This program serves as a companion to the concepts and skills established in "An Apple A Day." Research shows overwhelming and compelling evidence that early adolescence is a critical transitional time during which girls experience unique challenges.

● "21 Means 21" · 1996 - ongoing (59)

An advertising campaign developed to communicate that brewers do not want the business of America's under-21 year-olds.

- For retailers, the messages reinforce the importance of checking I.D.s. The message is featured in point-of-sale materials and merchandise.
- For consumers 21 years of age and older, the message emphasizes that it is illegal to buy alcohol for, or serve it to, anyone who is underage.
- The message also reinforces the only good decision for those who are under 21 years of age – don't drink. When you are 21, it's your choice. Until then, the brewers will wait for your business.

Since May 2005 all advertising, marketing materials and product carry the "21 means 21" message.

● "Courtrooms to Classrooms" · 1994 - ongoing

This program began as a joint effort between local teachers and the Denver District Attorney's Office in order to help students develop decision-making skills that can be applied to academic as well as to social situations. The partnership of teachers and deputy district attorneys brings a mentoring and integrated curriculum resource focused on positive decision-making to the children in school. This curriculum has been expanded to various communities nationwide.

● "An Apple A Day" · 1993 - ongoing (60)

A program which emphasizes that it is never too early to help children to develop the resiliency skills needed to make healthy choices. The program helps build literacy and critical thinking skills among children through a school-based-prevention education curriculum. This program is designed for students from kindergarten through fourth grade.

● "National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week (NCAAW)" · 1980 - annual

A campaign to encourage alcohol awareness among college students. It is held every October on more than 3,000 campuses nationwide. NCAAW provides schools with a launching pad for year-round prevention efforts. Scholarships are awarded each year to three exemplary campus alcohol-educational programs.

● "Facts and Conversations Series by the Health Alliance on Alcohol" · 2006 - ongoing

A national education initiative on underage consumption of alcohol through parent/child communications developed with the Health Alliance on Alcohol (HAA). HAA member organisations include the New York-Presbyterian Healthcare System, Morgan Stanley Children's Hospital, White Plains Hospital Center, and Heineken USA. The series of physician-authored books will be developed and offered at www.HealthAllianceonAlcohol.com with subjects including underage drinking, peer pressure, and the prom/graduation season.

SABMiller Subsidiary – Miller Brewing

- “Respect 21: Preventing Underage Access” · 2005 - ongoing

A comprehensive program which focuses on numerous avenues to help keep alcohol out of the reach of minors. The program provides educational resources that are prepared by experts for parents and other concerned adults, such as: ‘Let’s Keep Talking’; retail signage to remind adults not to give alcohol to minors and of the legal penalties in their state for doing so; and retailer training tools to help stop illegal sales to minors.

- “21. It’s the Law” (part of the Respect 21 program) · 2005 - ongoing ⁶¹

Point-of-sale material that sends a direct, simple reminder of “21. It’s the Law. Thank you for not providing alcohol to minors”. The program also includes state-specific signage that educates adults on the legal consequences of providing alcohol to minors. Government reports have consistently identified parents as the primary influence in their children’s (ages 8-17) decisions about whether they drink alcohol or not. They also show that the vast majority of minors obtain alcohol from social sources such as parents, siblings, friends, and strangers of legal drinking age.

- “Let’s Keep Talking” · 2002 - ongoing

A guide to help parents of teenagers to talk with their children about making responsible decisions, including the decision to wait until they are 21 to consume alcohol, and to remind teenagers of societal expectations that they obey the law and the consequences of making poor decisions. The brochure, available in both English and Spanish, was created with the assistance of an advisory panel of experts in the fields of education, family therapy, law enforcement, and student health and wellness.

- “Card ‘Em, Guard ‘Em and Cab ‘Em” · 2002 - ongoing

An on-premise awareness program used to educate and support waiters and bartenders on the important role they play in helping to prevent illegal underage drinking, over-consumption, and drunk-driving. The elements of the program include educational posters, phone stickers, and lapel pins and serve as a reminder to consumers to be personally responsible and get home safely.

- “Campus Resource” · 2002 - 2006

Part of an overall approach to help college communities address student alcohol consumption. It provided a tool kit of resources and materials on planning events responsibly.

- “We I.D. Program” (Part of the Respect 21 program) · 1995 - ongoing

Signage and point-of-sale materials with the message “We I.D.” have been created to help reduce sales of alcohol to minors. This program offers retailers a variety of materials that help them check and verify valid I.D.s, including: pocket-sized We I.D. cards (available in English and Spanish) that list tips on how to spot fake I.D.s and driver’s licence booklets – see below. Signage is placed throughout retail establishments where alcohol beverages are sold or served. The We I.D. signage also reassures parents and the community that brewers and distributors are active partners in helping to prevent illegal underage access.

Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc. and Coors Brewing Company

- “The BACCHUS Network™” · 1975 - ongoing

A university and community based network focusing on comprehensive health and safety initiatives. The mission of this non-profit organisation is to actively promote leadership in students and young adults, both on the campus and community-wide, on healthy and safe lifestyle decisions. These include alcohol misuse, tobacco use, illegal drug use, unhealthy sexual practices, and other high-risk behaviours. Affiliates are concerned with the health of their students, their institution, and their community.

Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc. and SABMiller Subsidiary- Miller Brewing Company

- “Annual Driver’s Licence Booklets” · 1990 - annual ⁶²

Brewers partner with law enforcers to provide these booklets as part of their continuing efforts to help prevent underage access to alcohol beverages. The booklet suggests tips for checking the validity of I.D.s and provides examples of valid license formats for all 50 states plus U.S. Territories, U.S. Department of State, and the Canadian provinces.

Ambev Venezuela

- “Responsible Consumption and Sales Campaign” · 2006 - ongoing

To promote messages such as “Si tomaste, llama a un experto” (“If you drink, call an expert - a taxi”) and “No vale disfrazarse... Cerveza sólo para mayores de 18 años” (“Don’t pretend... Beer for older than 18 only”). The campaign is aimed at the company’s point-of-sale and nightclubs in the main cities.

Cervecería Polar

- “Hasta los 18 Años, Menor es Menor” (“Minors Below 18, Are Still Minors”)

January 2006 - December 2006 ⁶³

An advertising campaign to persuade clients not to sell alcohol to minors, based on the importance of protecting minors’ well-being and promoting compliance with the law.

- “Más 18” (“Older than 18, +18”) · January 2006 - December 2006 ⁶⁴

Point-of-sale material that reinforces legal-age drinking. This is another part of the Venezuelan campaign to prohibit sales of alcohol to minors.

The Amsterdam Group (TAG) (EFRD since 2006)

★ "European School Diary" · 2005 -2006

A diary for students in the last grade of high-school. In addition, teachers received a Guide with ideas and exercises on how to use the content of the Diary in the curriculum. The diary was produced by Generation Europe with financial support from DG SANCO. The Amsterdam Group sponsored the printing and distribution of additional copies of the 2005/2006 European Diary in 25 countries (27 languages) including, for the first time, an "alcohol chapter". The content of the diary, including the alcohol chapter (mandatory in all countries), was approved by DG SANCO.

★ "Alcohol Awareness Programme" · pilot-phase October 2004 and June 2005

An alcohol educational program aimed at young people (12 to 16) to educate them about the negative consequences of drinking. The primary objective was to reduce the number of risky drinking occasions to which young people are exposed. The program was piloted in schools in three European countries (the UK, Spain and the Czech Republic) with material for teachers or young people accessible from a website. Partners included COFACE, AEDE, Generation Europe, OBESSU, TPG, FAS, and ForumPSR.

Cervecería y Maltería Quilmes

- "Take Yourself Seriously. Drink Responsibly" · 2004 - ongoing ①

A campaign which includes outdoor advertisements at the main access points to Buenos Aires City, roads and tourist centers, as well as static advertisements in stadiums during international soccer matches and major-league championships of the Argentine Soccer Association (AFA), and in the Argentine Polo Field during polo championships. The slogan 'If you have drunk, don't drive' is complemented by the 'Taxi' commercial featured on TV and radio. The purpose of all such campaigns is to raise the consumer's awareness of the importance of adopting an attitude of responsible consumption, and the incompatibility of drinking and driving. To give added impetus to the message of responsible consumption, 100,000 coasters with the motto 'If you have drunk, don't drive' were distributed to bars and discos throughout the country.

- ★ "The BOB-bus" · 1998 - ongoing ②

A Ford Transit Van, painted in the BOB colours, in which people can test their blood alcohol concentration for free, and drive in a simulator. The simulator reflects the impact that alcohol has on driving. An audience may follow the performances by means of a display device. Furthermore, all visitors receive a leaflet with information on BOB and the dangers and impact of drinking and driving. The BOB-bus is used within the framework of local, regional and provincial road safety campaigns, and on road safety weekends, etc.. Police forces and organizers of festivals, parties or road safety events, may use the BOB-bus for educational or prevention activities on drinking and driving. The bus, accompanied by two operators, is made available for free for such initiatives, providing the target is mainly aimed at young drivers (from 18 years).

out and has the task of staying sober and getting everyone home. Television, radio, billboards and mailings have been used to publicise the campaign which is aimed at drivers as well as cafés and restaurants. This has been a very successful campaign that was run in cooperation with the Belgian Institute for Road Safety (IBSR). Between the start and 1998, a 17% reduction in drink/drive fatalities was recorded. In a recent survey, 96% of the public recognised the concept and 36% have been a "BOB". In 2001, the European Commission announced that it would co-finance a Euro-BOB campaign in Belgium, France, Greece, The Netherlands, Denmark, Ireland and Spain in a move to share this good practice across Europe. This co-funding has continued and, in 2005, fifteen countries (Austria, Belgium, France, Poland, Hungary, Malta, Sweden, Italy, Czech Republic, Portugal, Greece, Denmark, Spain, United Kingdom, and the Netherlands) participated. In 2006, the co-financing by the European Commission was stopped.

Brazil

Ambev

- "If You Drink, Don't Drive" · 2001 - ongoing

A message communicated by the company's brands - Brahma, Skol and Antarctica. The company supports governmental initiatives to develop programs to prevent traffic accidents resulting from drinking and driving and also donates breathalyzers. By 2006 more than 20,000 breathalyzers had been distributed to the Brazilian states of São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Distrito Federal and Rio Grande do Sul. During regional events, such as Barretos, Carnabelô and Boteco Bohemia, (a traditional bar-food contest), responsible consumption messages are promoted through a variety of methods. As well as balancing-tests to engage merrymakers and identify those who should not drive, the company promotes partnerships with taxi cooperatives.

Bulgaria

Union of Brewers in Bulgaria (UBB)

- "Statistical Report On Drinking And Driving" · 2005

Prepared in cooperation with the Road Police Department of the Ministry of Internal Affairs. The publication demonstrates the brewers' concern about the potential danger of drinking and driving. This initiative was prompted by the "Worldwide Brewing Alliance Drink Drive Report 2005" - see page 81.

Kamenitza PLC (InBev PLC)

- "Information Campaign" · 2003 - ongoing

A campaign to inform the public about the advantages of non-alcoholic beer as a part of responsible drinking and driving policy. The leaflets, posters, stickers, etc. were distributed at patrol stations, shops, parking areas, etc.

Diageo Bulgaria

- "Don't Drink and Drive" · 2004

A campaign to inform the public about the potential danger of drinking and driving. The message was communicated using television, radio, leaflets, posters and stickers at petrol stations, with taxi drivers, in bars and clubs, in shops and on billboards. This was an initiative of Diageo Bulgaria in coordination with the Ministry of Internal Affairs and KAT/Road Control Department.

Canada

- "Life Is Full Of Choices" · 2006

Five radio advertisements exploring social situations where people have to make a decision on whether or not to drink and drive.

- "Where Will You Rest Your Head Tonight?" · 2005 - ongoing

A campaign warning about drinking and driving. It uses television advertisements and transit advertisements placed in selected cities across the country.

Labatt Breweries of Canada

- "Make a Plan" · 2006

A campaign drawing on input from young adults to help encourage responsible drinking and reduce the incidence of drinking and driving.

- “Free Ride Programs” - ongoing

These programs help people get home safely, free of charge. In Atlantic Canada, the company's “Drive Home Safe Programs” operate during the holiday season when the risk of drinking and driving is greatest. In Quebec, the company's “Opération Nez Rouge” has volunteers to drive others who do not feel comfortable driving home in their own vehicles. Also, during the holiday season in Quebec, every one of the company's delivery trucks is emblazoned with a responsible-use message. In Ontario, the company has partnered with local transit commissions to support “New Year's Eve Free Ride” campaigns that provide passengers with free transit services all evening.

Costa Rica

Cerveceria Costa Rica

- “Chofer Designado” (“Designated-driver”) - 1999 - ongoing

A program launched in bars, as an incentive for those who had agreed to act as designated-drivers. Since 2005, however, it has become a media campaign to persuade car owners who drink, to hand over their keys, since resistance to do this was identified as the main obstacle to the success of the program. Although no systematic evaluation has taken place in recent years, the program's effectiveness is highly regarded by both the press and the public.

Czech Republic

Czech Beer and Malt Association (CBMA)

- “Information text messages ‘Per Mile SMS’” - 2004 - ongoing

An innovative service which informs drivers about the levels of alcohol in their blood at any given time, as well as the time at which they can safely continue driving. Consumers text information about their sex, age and weight and the time, type and amount of alcohol consumed to a given telephone number. Within the space of a minute, they should receive an answer estimating the current level of alcohol in their blood, the time in which this level should decrease to 0%, and also some brief information regarding the dangers of the current alcohol level for a person not used to the effects of alcohol.

This is one of the first SMS services in the Czech Republic used for purposes other than entertainment. Also, it is the first service providing an income for a non-profitable organisation. Consumers get the number to ‘text’ from a PR campaign consisting of POS materials, a press conference and a website - see www.iniciativapivovaru.cz. This is part of the “Joint Responsible Brewers Initiative” - see page 73.

● “Designated-driver - Advertising Campaign”

· 2003 - renewed 2005 - ongoing ⑤ ⑥

A campaign designed to change the public’s complacent attitude to drinking and driving by fostering a wider social awareness of the need for moderate drinking and the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol, etc.. Between 2003 and 2004, the campaign used billboards, television spots, boomerang-shaped cards and collaboration with the police. It was coordinated by the CBMA, in association with the Council of the Ministry of Transport for the Security of Road Transport.

In 2005, the Ministry of Transport took the lead, and the campaign received the support of the European Commission. It is based on encouraging a “designated” driver, who will voluntarily abstain from drinking in order to provide a lift for his/her companions. The First Stage, which took place within the summer festivals “Summer of Love”, “Hip Hop Kemp”, etc., created much interest from the participants, exceeding the organisers’ expectations. The visitors had the opportunity to play a driving game or try an alcohol-free cocktail bar, where the “designated” drivers and their friends could get special discounts and benefits. It is part of the “Joint Responsible Brewers Initiative” - see page 73.

● “If You Drink, Don’t Open the Car” · 2000 - ongoing

A campaign run with the Road Safety Council (BESIP) and “Forum PSR”. It portrays drink-driving behaviour as anti-social and uses television and radio spots, a billboard campaign and boomerang-shaped cards for discos, restaurants and cafés, together with a website www.mdcz.cz. About 10% of the Czech population is aware of the campaign and is able to properly describe the main message. This percentage score is consistent through different categories of respondents, which indicates acceptance.

Denmark

Diageo Denmark

● “Awareness Raising of the Dangers of Drink-Driving” · 2006

‘Don’t Drink and Drive’ posters and materials were placed in key places like car parks, restrooms and bars during the Skandeborg Festival 2006. The campaign, run in conjunction with local police, was designed to reduce the incidence of drink-driving around the festival itself. The local police reported that out of 35,000 guests only one was arrested for drink-driving.

★ “Holdspiller” (“Team Player”) · 2006 ⑦ ⑧

A campaign aimed directly at young drivers in order to teach this specific target group to make a stand, use a designated-driver and thereby reduce the number of alcohol-related accidents. A group of specially trained “moderators” travelled all over Denmark during the summer of 2006 and visited a large number of festivals, markets and fairs in order to promote the key messages. Between August and October, the team visited many youth education establishments. At the same time, the campaign was promoted in nightclubs nationwide. The campaign is carried out as a cooperative effort between GODA and the Danish Road Safety Council, and is supported financially by the EU Commission.

The initiative has been evaluated by an external consultant. The results show that nearly 50% within the target group use and endorse the designated-driver concept as the best way to avoid drink-driving.

★ “European Night Without Accident” · October 2006 - annual ⑨

A campaign to promote awareness about the designated-driver message. It takes place at nightclubs one Saturday evening, each year, in October. Every group that arrives at the club is asked to designate a driver. The driver is asked to wear a bracelet in order to be recognizable.

When the driver leaves, he/she is asked to undergo a breath-test. If the driver has not had any alcohol, he/she is rewarded with prizes. The campaign is partly funded by the EU Commission and is also taking place in a number of other EU Member States.

The pilot-evaluation in Denmark shows that approximately 1/3 of the guests at the nightclub that evening took an active part in the initiative.

★ "Eksperimentet" ("The Experiment") · video 1996 / DVD 2005 - ongoing ^⑩

An educational video/DVD on drink-driving. The video shows how one loses the ability to drive after having consumed alcohol. It won a prize for the "best educational video" at an international contest in New Orleans. The video/DVD was developed in association with the Federation of Danish Motorists and the Danish Road Safety Council. It was financially supported by the Amsterdam Group and the EU Commission.

The Experiment has been evaluated as an element of other campaigns. Surveys showed that 72% of the target group view the film as being very good.

● "Campaign of Responsible Consumption" · 2002 - ongoing ^⑪

A campaign which uses different messages that emphasize responsibility, e.g.: 'If you take a drink, take it easy'; 'If you take a drink, take the pulse of your conscience'; and, 'If you take a drink, don't put yourself behind the wheel'. The campaign was originally directed at adult consumers and was concentrated on the times of greater consumption - Easter and Christmas. At all times of the year, the responsibility messages include 'If you drink, do not drive'. The campaign uses different media, including magazines and newspapers, signboards on the main roads, radio jingles, leaflets and information on the website. It is carried out in partnership with the National Commission of Emergencies.

In 2006, the campaign was expanded to Television in order to target Dominican youth with a message about the dangers of driving and alcohol consumption - 'If you drink, don't drive'. The themes that were explored include the importance of the car for young people and sharing responsibility between friends. The messages are reinforced by similar messages in other media.

★ "Electronic Breathalyser Equipment" · 2004 - 2006

In April 2004, E&P signed the European Road Safety Charter with a commitment towards safer roads in Europe. Its contribution was to develop fixed electronic breathalyser equipment – the first to get official certification (December 2005).

★ "Script-Writing Contest" · 2002 - 2003

A competition to make young people aware of the problem of drinking and driving. 50 scripts were submitted to a jury of 15 members who chose 5 scripts to be adapted and produced by famous young directors. The competition was run in partnership with Pathé-Gaumont (cinema) and M6 (TV).

The 5 short movies were screened on television and cinema and advertised using posters in schools and universities, large e-marketing campaign, mini-website, etc.. A campaign followed in discos.. 3,500 scripts were sent by 15-24 year-old people; 2,000 young people registered on the website; 1.8 million people watched the short films at the cinema and 10 million on Television.

★ "Designated-driver" · 2001 - ongoing

An experimental program in Seine-et-Marne (a large area in Southern Paris) to test various methods to promote the designated-driver concept. It was aimed at discotheques, schools and sport clubs during a 3 month period in 2001 and a 6 month period in 2003. The program has now been extended to other areas of France

An 83% decrease in youth mortality was recorded in 2001, and in 2003 there were no deaths of young people due to alcohol recorded. 90% of the young people participating in the operation said they would use the designated-driver concept in future.

★ "Celui qui Conduit, c'est Celui qui ne Boit Pas" ("The One who Drives is the One who Does Not Drink") · 1999 - 2004

● "JÓFEJ" ("Sober Responsible Driver") · 2006 - ongoing

A campaign to combat drink-driving. During the course of the program, the designated-driver is given an armband by the hostesses. On leaving the party, the driver is tested with a breathalyser, and if the result is negative, he or she is given a gift and the opportunity to enter a competition. If the result is positive, the driver is given a complimentary taxi card to allow him to get home safely.

● "Party Soberly" · 2005

A program designed to prevent accidents by combating drink-driving. In the course of the program, the hostesses gave the driver of a group an armband. When leaving the party, he had to take a breathalyser test; and if the result was negative, he got a gift. The purpose was not only to reward those who didn't consume any alcohol, but also to inform young people that even the smallest consequence of drink-driving may be more expensive than the cost of a taxi. The campaign was run jointly by the Association of Hungarian Brewers' and the ORFK Committee (National Police).

Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Ltd (MEAS)

★ "Drive Straight and Designate" · 2003 - ongoing 14

A high-profile national awareness initiative run by MEAS to promote the use of designated-drivers on Irish roads at Christmas and during other holiday periods. The campaign calls on the public, when going out for a drink, to designate a member of their group to refrain from drinking alcohol during the evening so that he/she can drive the group home safely. Significant cross-party political support, including An Taoiseach, Mr Bertie Ahern, as well as other main party leaders, has been secured for the campaign. An Garda Síochána, the National Roads Authority, the Automobile Association, the soft drinks distributors and the national media, together with backing from the wider drinks industry have all provided valuable support to the initiative. Since Christmas 2004, Coca Cola Bottlers Ireland (CCBI), with support from MEAS, have operated a Designated-Driver Campaign, entitling designated-drivers to three free drinks from participating premises – a list of which was available from a dedicated website. Following from the success of this campaign, CCBI are also now running the Designated-Driver Campaign in the summer months.

● "Signed the European Road Safety Charter" · 2006

Committing the Polish brewers to take actions to improve road safety, specifically in the field of drink-driving.

● "Drinking - not Driving" · 2006 21 -> 26

A pilot-study to test an educational program against drink-driving, implemented in one city. The program was supported by the National Road Safety Council (Ministry of Transport) and National Police. It took place in Łódź (Lodz) in 20 pubs, clubs and discotheques. It was supported by the city's authorities (President of Łódź (Lodz)), local police and the local Beer Brotherhood.

The objectives of the pilot-study were to:

- educate young people (core target: 18 – 30 year-olds) to never drive after drinking alcohol and to build awareness of the simple rule: 'once you drink, don't drive – use other ways to get home safely',
- build good relations with local authorities,
- build the reputation of the brewing industry as a "good citizen" in the local community.

The program was based on the "designated-driver" concept. Educational activities focused on HORECA outlets where specially trained promoters introduced educational games to convince people that drinking and driving should never be combined. Activities included the following:-

- selecting a "designated-driver", called "DRiver" – one man or woman in a group who does not drink alcohol that night and drives friends home (an English name was used as a Polish play on words with a double meaning – English "driver" meaning "a car driver" and DRI being an abbreviation for a Polish "party traffic officer" in Polish),

- playing with "alco-goggles" (special pairs of spectacles simulating sensations of being drunk),
- promoting safe ways of getting home after drinking: taxi cabs with special discount: night buses,
- tests with breathalysers,
- rewarding "designated-drivers" with special key-rings.

Educational activities were supported by promotion in local media (press and radio). The results of the pilot-scheme proved the mechanism to be a very efficient educational tool, especially with young adults. Almost 12,500 people were reached, 10% of them (1,354) became "designated-drivers". 1,116 of these designated-drivers successfully passed tests with breathalysers and were rewarded with key-rings when leaving the club. The program is being continued in other cities of Poland in 2007.

PAPI survey by TNS OBOP, 10 – 15 December 2006, 100 respondents recruited in the pubs and clubs where the action had been carried out.

Conclusions:

1) Understanding of the key message of the program (spontaneous):

73% respondents recognised that the objective of the action was to convince people who were drinking alcohol that they should not drive. 10% respondents remembered that the action encouraged people to choose a "designated-driver"

2) Remembering the role of the "DRiver":

64% respondents easily defined the role of the "DRiver" (designated-driver). If a respondent happened to have been chosen as a designated-driver, it was usually a man (70%) over 30. 59% respondents stated that the program performed well in terms of building awareness that drinking and driving should never be combined. Only 16% held the opposite view.

★ “Drink/Drive Campaign” · 2000 - ongoing

A continuous campaign, undertaken in conjunction with private sectors and the Taipei city government, to combat the rising incidence of drinking and driving. Statistics show that following these campaigns, drink-driving incidents appear to have increased but injury and fatal incidents caused by drink-driving have declined. Taipei city has a distinguished descending ratio of drink-driving cases. The national statistics also show that drink-driving has the highest ratio during the Chinese New Year period compared to the remaining months of the year. This period is, therefore, a target for increased campaign activity. In 2006, the campaign was extended geographically to include the cities of Taichung and Kaohsiung in order to broaden the awareness of drink-driving advertising campaigns in southern Taiwan. The campaign is promoted in various media, including posters, bus stops, bus panels, radio interviews and public service announcements together with 30” TVC broadcasting at bus, MRT and national Television stations. The campaign has attracted important media coverage, including interviews with the TBAF chairman, a nationwide English radio program, and articles in two major daily newspapers.

For each year's competition, three winners and five honourable mentions are selected. Winners/Mentions are chosen by an independent group of advertising industry experts compiled by the American Advertising Federation (AAF). The top winner will present their responsibility campaign personally to Heineken USA executives. This is run in cooperation with the AAF and its local chapters.

● "SAFE CALL" · 1999 - ongoing (44)

A unique national partnership with 1-800-TAXICAB that has been effectively utilized with local bars, restaurants and taxi companies. The program allows bartenders or customers to arrange taxi rides home to ensure a safe ride to their home or hotel. SafeCall is designed to encourage people all across America not to drink and drive.

SABMiller Subsidiary – Miller Brewing Company

● "Keys to Responsibility" · 2002 - ongoing (45) (46)

Helps retailers, distributors, community groups, and others to promote transportation alternatives and responsible decision-making by legal-drinking-age consumers. Last Call - Safe Ride posters, banners, and other useful images and tools are available online to make it easy to implement a designated-driver program or community-based 'safe ride home' program to help prevent drunk driving. It is endorsed by the Fraternal Order of Police.

● "Safe Ride Home" · 1991 - ongoing

Promotes the use of designated-drivers at bars, restaurants, and parties at home. Consumers would, typically, receive free non-alcohol beverages, or discounts on food, from an establishment in exchange for being the designated-driver in a group.

● "Free Rides" · 1988 - ongoing (47)

Provide free public transportation on popular holidays such as New Year's Eve and St. Patrick's Day. This drunk-driving-prevention and community-service program helps keep roads safe by encouraging adults to use public transport when returning from national/public holiday celebrations. The brewers team up with public transport companies, law enforcement agencies, and community organisations to provide this program.

● “Si Tomaste, no Manejes. Te lo Recuerda Cervecería Polar” (“If you Drink, do not Drive. Cervecería Polar Reminds You”) · 2005 - ongoing ⁽⁴⁹⁾

A campaign developed for consumers of “legal age” to bring about conscious behavioural changes in connection with ‘Drinking with Responsibility’ and, specifically, the risks associated with drinking and driving. The sentence ‘Si tomaste, no manejes’ is the slogan of all campaigns relating to responsible consumption.

Consumer research has shown that spontaneous awareness of the Cervecería Polar Responsible Consumption campaign among all drinkers (beers and liquors) is 20% at national level and 50% in Caracas.

Europe

The Brewers of Europe

● “The European Road Safety Charter” · 2005 ⁽⁵⁰⁾

The Brewers of Europe signed the Charter and made a number of commitments regarding drinking and driving. These commitments included the publication of this document, and also an update to the Worldwide Brewing Alliance Drinking and Driving Report - see page 81. There is also a commitment to promote the Charter as best-practice and encourage other brewing associations and companies to sign up to the Charter, as well as making their own commitments - see www.paueducation.com/charter.

By 2007, all 5 commitments have, or are in the process of being, fulfilled. Brewers, brewing associations and brewer-funded SAOs in 7 countries are currently signatories to the Charter.

★ The Amsterdam Group (TAG) (EFRD since 2006)

★ “Informal Coordination of Designated-Driver (EuroBOB) Campaigns” · 2001 - 2006

Based on the designated-driver concept and covering 15 countries in 2006, namely Austria, Belgium, the Czech Republic, Denmark, France, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, the Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and the UK. The target is to contribute to halving the number of road deaths by 2010. The implementation of this concept varies from country to country to reflect local situations and cultures.

A press conference, on the eve of the 2004 WHO road safety day, presented the campaigns across Europe. 2004 figures indicate that: in the Netherlands, 69% always designate a driver; in Ireland, 25% use a designated-driver, and 45% a taxi; and, in Portugal, positive blood-alcohol content results have decreased to 2% and alcohol is now the fifth factor contributing to road accidents. The “EuroBOB” campaign is part-funded by the European Commission and coordinated by IBSR with the support of The Amsterdam Group for SAO led campaigns.

★ “Global Road Safety Partnership (GRSP)” · 1999 - ongoing

Brings together governments and governmental agencies, the private sector and civil society organisations to address road-safety issues in low- and middle-income countries. GRSP is an hosted program of the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC), based in Geneva. ICAP is a founding member of GRSP. A GRSP good-practice guide on alcohol-impaired driving will be published in 2007. ICAP will support the implementation of the guide through training, facilitation of private sector involvement in alcohol-impaired driving projects, and monitoring and evaluation inputs to the implementation of the guide – see (www.grsproadsafety.org). This is an initiative of the World Bank, the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, governments, private sector, and international and non-governmental members of the GRSP Steering Committee (e.g., ICAP).

Responsible retailing initiatives

This section includes programs for the education and training of managers and staff who serve/sell alcoholic drinks to help them comply with the local regulations and prevent problematic situations. It also includes social hygiene, design of premises and other responsible retailing campaigns to minimise the possibility of antisocial behaviour. Responsible retailing is a growing area for initiatives, some of which appear in this section and some in the section which focuses on preventing underage drinking.

Argentina

Cervecería y Maltería Quilmes

- "I Take it Seriously, I Don't Sell to the Underaged" · 2004 - ongoing ① ②

A campaign, directed at owners of retail outlets which deploys the slogan at the point-of-sale. Displaying the slogan on stickers provided by the Company, this point-of-sale campaign has joined the Company's initiative that endorses a responsible commercial attitude by selling alcoholic beverages only to those who are 18 years-old, or older. 100,000 coasters with the slogan "If you have drunk, don't drive" were distributed in bars and discotheques throughout the country to enhance the message of responsible consumption. In supermarkets, to reinforce teamwork with the other key players in the retail network, a campaign was conducted with leading supermarket chains in Buenos Aires City and Greater Buenos Aires, with the slogan: 'It is everybody's responsibility that the underaged do not drink alcohol. To buy alcoholic beverages, you have to be of legal drinking age.' To that end, the Company created promotional materials and posters that were placed at the checkouts.

The company has also printed several advertisements: 'When in doubt, ask for the I.D. document: Avoiding alcohol consumption by the underaged is a responsibility we all share - the industry, government, family and retailers.' To raise awareness, at the point-of-sale, about the need to prevent the underaged from purchasing and/or drinking alcohol, the Company launched a print campaign reminding retailers to sell only to those who produce evidence of being of legal drinking age (18 years of age, or older).

★ "Trygt Natteliv" ("Safe Nightlife") · 2004 - ongoing ③

Educational courses for people working in bars, cafés and nightclubs on how to handle risk. A group of professionals - focusing on the psychological, social and judicial aspects - provide information on how to handle difficult situations that may occur, and information on how to ensure safety at bars, cafés and nightclubs. Combined with initiatives targeted at young people, the project has raised awareness amongst youth and adult networks about the potential risks. The project is carried out in cooperation with the Danish Crime Prevention Council, local police, authorities and Licence Holders.

Evaluation of "Safe Nightlife" gave the following conclusions:

- There are significantly less minors in nightclubs;
- Young people say they feel the atmosphere has improved considerably; and
- Members of staff say they feel more confident to handle situations and report a general drop in violent incidents inside night clubs.

★ "Responsible Serving of Alcohol Program" · 2003 - ongoing

Helps licence holders develop policies and procedures about serving alcohol so as to minimise the risk of alcohol-related problems as a result of inappropriate alcohol consumption. The program is delivered in the form of interactive workshops using 'real situations' or case studies to help reinforce skills and encourage full discussion amongst participants. It has been developed by the Department of Health and Children's Health Promotion Unit, with input and cooperation from the Drinks Industry Group of Ireland, including the Vintners' Federation of Ireland and the Licensed Vintners' Association. Fáilte Ireland, the national body responsible for training and development in the Irish tourism and hospitality industry, has been appointed to coordinate delivery of the program to hotel, club and bar staff, and to assure its quality. The principles of Responsible Serving have also been incorporated into third-level hospitality programs. MEAS continues to work closely with Fáilte Ireland and the Health Promotion Unit on the further development of the program.

★ "BIIAB Accredited Staff Induction Program" · 2005 - ongoing

This recognises that the licensed retail industry carries out valuable training, which is of a high standard and worthy of national recognition. BIIAB has researched this area of training and has identified that many organisations would value BIIAB accreditation. There is also evidence that high-quality staff-induction training can have a major impact on staff retention. The program provides a low cost method for licensed retail companies to obtain accreditation for their existing induction training, which not only gives them competitive advantages, but also offers employees a genuine opportunity to obtain a nationally recognised BIIAB award. It will provide organisations with the opportunity to gain national recognition for the individual programs. BIIAB will consider Staff Induction Programs from established organisations from within the hospitality, retail and education sectors, to include training providers.

Coors Brewing Company

● “Support for the BARS (Being an Alcohol Responsible Server) Program” · 1996 - ongoing 9

A “secret shopper” program that helps keep servers and sellers vigilant about checking I.D.s. Participating establishments pay the BARS program to be monitored by BARS checkers (usually ages 21 to 25), who make random visits to their stores and purchase alcohol beverages. At the point-of-sale, the server is issued either with a green card for a positive check or with a red card for a negative check. The red card reminds the employee to check I.D.s; the green card congratulates and, where legal, rewards the server for checking the buyer’s I.D.

● “We I.D. Legal Drinking Age Calendars” · 1995 - ongoing

Developed because of a need for retailers, both on- and off-premise to have their employees readily identify whether the birthdates of those showing I.D.s prove that they are of legal drinking age or not.

★ "Good Practice Guidebook on Responsible Hospitality"

· January 2006 - planned to be published December 2007

A guide being developed by Alcohol Focus Scotland (AFS) will form the foundation of advice on good practice. It is intended for use as the basis for capacity-building and training programs for the hotel and tourism industries. It will address alcohol serving, training modules for all hotel staff, course curriculum for hotel and hospitality management schools, retailing (on- and off-license) of alcoholic beverages and a policy tool for the many facets of the hospitality industry. ICAP and the European Forum for Responsible Drinking (EFRD) will initiate the piloting of the Guidebook in 2007, with EFRD leading pilot-schemes in Europe. ICAP will take the lead in other regions. The piloting process will tailor the generic guide to local circumstances, by translation and preparation of the trainers. Based on feedback from the pilot-sessions, these multiple guides will be reviewed by ICAP, EFRD and AFS. Before the end of 2007, the final guides will be printed and disseminated. The guides will be available on the EFRD and ICAP websites. This is an initiative of ICAP with expertise from EFRD (Europe), AFS (Scotland), Horeca Branche Instituut (the Netherlands), Responsible Hospitality Institute (USA) and others.

Workplace Initiatives

This section includes initiatives designed to help companies to educate their workforce about responsible consumption and identify and help employees with an alcohol problem. Most brewing companies have had policies on alcohol in the workplace for many years. The following information gives some examples of good practice, but should not be considered as comprehensive.

Belgium

InBev ①

- "Worldwide Workplace Initiatives" - since 2000

A range of policies on alcohol in the workplace directed at the company's employees in all its different operations around the world. For example, in Belgium, alcohol is banned at work; and a fund for employees provides support for treatment for problems related to alcohol. Belgium also operates a program for employees on careful driving. In Canada, the Labatt company operates a "Responsible Use Program" which includes a section for those who suffer from addiction to alcohol and provides transport for those who choose to drink at events held in the workplace. The employee policy operated by Borsodi Sörgyar (InBev's Hungarian operation) prohibits alcohol consumption before, or during, work and allows for random testing to enforce the policy.

Brazil

Ambev ②

- "Gente Do Bem", ("People Who Care") - August 2006 - annual

A campaign which includes an open day, for every AmBev unit in Brazil, to discuss responsible consumption of alcohol. These events aim to engage employees and local communities in social-responsibility issues. In the first year, about 45,000 people participated and watched the "How to talk to your children about the use of alcohol" video, developed by AmBev's "Center for Information on Health and Alcohol".

Bulgaria

Union of Brewers in Bulgaria (UBB) ③

- "Rules for Breweries" - since 1997

All brewing companies that are united by UBB forbid alcohol consumption in the workplace. Every beer producer has its own internal rules regulating this matter. Tasting is permitted only in laboratories.

Since February 2005, when the UBB Code for Responsible Commercial Communication (see page 64) was adopted, alcohol consumption in the workplace was officially prohibited.

Chili

Compañía Cervecerías Unidas S.A. (CCU)

- "Responsible Alcohol Consumption Program" - since 2004

In addition to external initiatives, CCU promotes this program internally for its employees through a special e-learning program, based on "Educating within the Family". From 2004 until 2006, all CCU employees have been tested on this program.

Dominican Republic

Cervecería Nacional Dominicana (CND) ④

- "Speeches and Presentations in the Framework of Retail Convention"

- 2005 - annual

A convention hosted every year by the Dominican National Brewery for its sales team and executives. It reinforces the commitment of the company regarding non-sale to minors, responsible consumption, and drinking and driving.

Basic Policy

The Kirin Group contributes to the health, enjoyment, and comfort of people around the world through activities designed to educate people about responsible drinking and to prevent the various problems associated with inappropriate drinking.

Guiding Principles for Conduct

1. They acknowledge that moderate drinking of appropriate amounts of alcohol (responsible drinking) has benefits, and broadens the scope of human communication, and they will endeavour to expand people's understanding of the proper way to drink alcoholic beverages.
2. They acknowledge the intoxicating effect of alcoholic beverages and the dependency resulting from excessive drinking, and will continue educational activities to teach correct knowledge and prevent the various problems associated with inappropriate drinking, including:
 - Underage drinking;
 - Driving under the influence of alcohol; and
 - Binge-drinking.
3. In marketing activities, they will abide by the law, by the Kirin Group's own standards and by industry standards; and they will also work for education about appropriate drinking and the prevention of inappropriate drinking.
4. They will actively support community efforts aimed at preventing inappropriate drinking.
5. They have a Moderate Drinking Awareness Month during which the whole company is involved in staff training and self-development.

Codes of Practice for Responsible Commercial Communications

This section includes details of voluntary self-regulatory codes and compliance mechanisms relating to different forms of commercial communications for either beer specifically, or for all alcoholic drinks. These include schemes, run by brewers or brewers' trade associations, to complement or reinforce national schemes where applicable and to give details of the self-regulatory mechanisms. They include compliance systems, pre-clearance, and promotions of consumer awareness. The section includes Codes for all forms of advertising and marketing including naming, packaging and promotion. In addition to the Codes themselves, material designed to give guidance on setting up a code and compliance with codes is also included together with examples of global policies designed to ensure that international companies reach the same high standard wherever the company operates, while still respecting different cultures. These are listed under the heading for the country in which the parent company is situated.

Argentina

Cervecería y Maltería Quilmes

- "The Quilmes Code" · since 2003

A code that strictly regulates the general principles, standard communication guidelines and the conduct of marketing actions. It provides procedures for using: the various communication and promotion tools of the company's beer brands; institutional communication; advertising; sponsorship activities; events; and promotions for consumers and for the sales and merchandising chain. The Company endeavors to direct all its messages and campaigns at those who are of legal drinking age, reinforcing responsible consumption of alcohol products. Moreover, the Company encourages adherence to responsible communication policies by all persons – including employees, suppliers, distributors, retailers and institutions - involved in the marketing and promotion of its beer brands, consistent with its strong commitment to ensuring compliance with legislation on the sale and consumption of alcohol. Some of the principles endorsed by the Quilmes Code are: do not show situations portraying excessive or irresponsible consumption of beer; do not advertise in programs whose main target audience are people under 18 years-old; always use advertising models who not only look, but also are, older than 23 years; and never use any language or symbols or images that would mainly appeal to children or teenagers.

Australia

Australian Associated Brewers Inc.

- "The Alcohol Beverages Advertising Code (ABAC) Scheme"

- July 1998 - revised 2005 ^①

A co-regulatory scheme for alcohol advertising in which Australia's brewers participate with other associations in the industry and governments. The ABAC sets standards for advertising. Belgium

Arnoldus Group

- ★ "Covenant on Practice and Advertising for Alcoholic Beverages"

- 1992 - revised and expanded 2005

The auto-disciplinary rules for publicising beer which were adopted by the Belgian brewers became applicable to other alcoholic beverages in 2005. On May 12th 2005, the Federation of Belgian Brewers, the Belgian Wine and Spirits Confederation, the Federation of the wholesalers (Fedis) and all Hotel and Catering Federations signed the "Covenant on practice and advertising for alcoholic beverages", together with the Minister of Health, Rudy Demotte, the Advertising Ethics Committee and the consumer organisations, Crioc and Test Achats. The Covenant came into force on May 20th 2005, replacing the former auto-disciplinary code of conduct of the Arnoldus Group - "Code of practice and advertising – beer". The Covenant demonstrates that all professional organisations representing the interests of the beer, and the other alcoholic-drink sectors, have accepted their social responsibilities. Together with the authorities, an efficient self-regulation system has been adopted. This applies to all producers. It includes sanctions and efficiently protects all consumers, especially young ones. The form and scope of this covenant are unique and more effective than a classic framework of laws. Information can be found on www.arnoldus.be.

InBev

- "Global Commercial Communications Code" · 2003 - revised 2006

A code which establishes a minimum standard which all InBev commercial communications worldwide need to respect. The company organises regular training programs in different markets, and awareness and respect of the Code are checked as part of the company's internal audit program.

Bulgaria

Union of Brewers in Bulgaria (UBB)

- "Code for Responsible Commercial Communications and Ethical Standards" · since 2005

A code adopted and publicly undersigned by the brewing companies in Bulgaria which are united by the UBB. The UBB established this system of self-regulation in response to the publication of the "Guidelines on Responsible Commercial Communication" by The Brewers of Europe, see page 72. UBB members stand united on the following key elements in the system of responsible commercial communications:

- Establishment of the Code for Responsible Commercial Communications and Ethical Standards;
- Implementation of a means of ensuring compliance with commercial communications with the standards set forth in the Code; and
- Establishment of a communications strategy.

These guidelines for responsible advertising, sponsorship and promotions of beer brands guarantee the dedication of Bulgarian brewers to applying self-regulatory rules and mechanisms effectively. By endorsing the Code, the brewers acknowledge that they can contribute effectively to the education of a culture of moderate beer consumption. In order to put the Code into effect, and to ensure compliance with the standards set forth in the Code, the members of the UBB established a "Self-Regulatory Council of Beer Producers", where all brewing companies have representatives - see www.pivovari.com.

Canada

Brewers Association of Canada

- Support for "Pre-clearance of Advertising" · since 1997

Czech Republic

Czech Beer and Malt Association (CBMA)

- "Code of Responsible Brewers" · since 2003

Formerly the "Ethical Code and Self-Regulation in Commercial Communication", this Code includes the position of the CBMA, concerning: beer and health; drink-driving; juvenile drinking (underage drinking); beer sales regulations; beer at work; beer and sport; and beer and pregnancy. The CBMA regularly organises training which is focused on self-regulation and the Ethical Code.

The CBMA is in charge of monitoring the commercial activities of its members and helping to resolve those activities that might be in dispute. In 2005, at least five advertising projects were changed or stopped because of conflict with the Ethical Code. The Code was renamed in 2005 and was adopted by all Czech Brewers at a meeting of their General Assembly.

Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Ltd (MEAS)

- ★ “MEAS Code of Practice on the Naming, Packaging and Promotion of Alcoholic Drinks” · since 2004

A Code of Practice to ensure that alcohol is sold only to persons over 18 years of age, and that alcohol is promoted and sold in a socially responsible way. It was developed by MEAS in consultation with the drinks industry and other relevant bodies. The Code is overseen by a five-person Independent Complaints Panel representing key stakeholders. Decisions of the Complaints Panel are publicised by way of press statements as well as being published on the MEAS website, www.meas.ie. All subscribing organisations have agreed to comply with the decisions made to date by the Independent Complaints Panel.

★ “Guidelines on Point-of-sale Promotions and Materials and Serving of Multiple Drinks” · since 2004

Guidelines designed to supplement the MEAS Code of Practice, providing pointers on the responsible and effective management of promotions in both the on- and off-trade, as well as on multiple servings of products. In addition, a free confidential Advisory Service is provided by MEAS to help industry marketing personnel check whether new promotions comply with the MEAS Code or not. Throughout 2005, the Advisory Service Executive made presentations to marketing personnel in the industry to inform them of the MEAS Code of Practice and the supporting Guidance Notes. These meetings have been well received by the industry and have resulted in a steady increase in the number of queries to the Advisory Service to ensure that new, and existing, alcoholic-drinks promotions comply with the MEAS Code of Practice.

● “Heineken’s Alcohol Policy Statement (HAPS)” · since 1996

A policy which sets the standard and parameters for judgement on alcohol. It lists 7 ruling principles, promoting responsible consumption of alcohol amongst all consumers of beer, within and without the brewing industry.

The following principles are to form the basis of local policies of all affiliated companies worldwide:

1. Responsible consumption of beer can be consistent with the maintenance of a balanced and positive lifestyle;

2. The informed individual is deemed responsible for his/her own behaviour;
3. The company is committed to raising awareness regarding responsible consumption;
4. It demands responsible behaviour of all employees worldwide;
5. It will ensure its commercial activities meet legal requirements and do not encourage irresponsible consumption;
6. It wants to help prevent misuse and misuse through dialogue and action; and
7. It will report on its actions related to the Heineken Alcohol Policy and the “Rules on Responsible Commercial Communication” (see page 70) that apply to all of the company’s brands and must be strictly adhered to.

Russia

The Union of Russian Brewers

- “The Code of Honour of the Union of Russian Brewers” · established 2003 ^⑤

A self-regulatory mechanism. This is a unique document for Russia. It obliged the brewers to abide by principals of fair competition and to respect beer consumers. The brewers also promised to strive for constant improvement in the quality of their products. A civilized market dictates that sound, ethical business rules should be adhered to and, to this end, presumes that a self-regulatory system should be developed. These are the two main directions of the Union’s activities. Both the first and second Social Reports produced by the brewing companies have certified that. The members of the Union are striving for harmony in governing relationships between their industry and Russian society.

The Code represents an agreement on rules of professional conduct and sets standards of business ethics in the brewing industry. These exceed the requirements of the laws of the Russian Federation. Union members believe that questions of communication between producers and consumers should be regulated by cooperation from within the professional brewing community. Consequently, the Code of Honour assumes that the brewing industry will voluntarily constitute and adopt Rules, and will control their execution. An Ethics Committee and a Disciplinary Committee were founded within the Union. Members of the public sit on the Ethics Committee, but not on the Disciplinary Committee. Together, they have worked out appropriate recommendations. Decisions of the Ethics Committee are forwarded to the Disciplinary Committee, which may take the most severe disciplinary measures [including expulsion from the Union].

Amendments to the Code [establishing the more severe measures] were accepted during the fifth All-Russia Conference of Beer and Non-Alcoholic Drink Producers.

In 2004, the Union of Russian Brewers and the Association of Communication Agencies of Russia signed a joint partnership agreement on social understanding. This was the first time that the representatives of two industries had agreed on self-regulation in the area of beer advertising.

The Code of Honour regulates the following areas of professional brewing activity and of the production of beer:

Manufacturing and Quality of Production

The brewers have pledged to produce and supply high quality beer to satisfy the demands of the State and its sanitary standards, based on the assumption that the consumer should have a safe, high quality product.

Consumer Relations

The brewers have pledged never to mislead consumers on health issues, nor to infringe their basic rights.

Beer contains alcohol, and excessive consumption may result in health problems. It is excessive consumption that causes problems, not the product itself. The general principle of moderate consumption is, therefore, based on informing the individual of the consequences of excessive consumption of beer.

Advertising and Distribution in the Market

The brewers guarantee that advertisements will not be directed towards those younger than eighteen years old. They will not imply any direct relationship between consumption of beer and social status. They will not imply any direct relationship between beer consumption and physical or mental ability.

“Excessive beer consumption may damage your health” is the formal slogan used by the brewers to warn beer consumers.

Sponsorship and Welfare

The brewers want to contribute to the increasing prosperity of the country. They want to collaborate in the social development of the Regions through proper and full taxation, as well as by encouraging the revival of traditional Russian welfare.

As sponsors, they acknowledge their responsibility to society.

Corporate Activity and Relationships with Competitors

The brewers are aiming to increase the prestige of the brewing industry and are aiming to establish fair competition between competing brewers who have agreed to apply considered ethical regulation in their competitive activities. This is notwithstanding any lesser obligations in current competition law. The brewers have undertaken to follow the norms of a well-founded ethical society, and thereby accept that this may enforce on them a higher level of requirement than that which may be required by the current Russian Federation’s legislation.

74 brewing companies that work in the Russian market have accepted the rules of this Code of Honour.

If the company disagrees with the decisions of the "Scrutineer", appeal to the "Council on Market Ethics" is possible.

The Netherlands

Heineken N.V.

- "Rules for Responsible Commercial Communication" · since late 1960's

Rules and guidelines covering all the company's brands that are marketed worldwide. It first set rules and guidelines for responsible commercial communication almost forty years ago. Company policy has emphasised that advertisements should not encourage the misuse of alcohol, and should only target those above the legal drinking age. An internal manual containing the rules was produced in 2004. In the past two years, understanding of, and compliance with, the rules has been strengthened through presentations to management teams, and through workshops for marketing and sales departments. At the end of 2005, around 80% of their operating companies had trained their marketing and sales management.

- "E-learning Tool on Responsible Commercial Communication" · available since 2004

An interactive tool to train and test those people who are part of, or related to, the commercial area on their knowledge and understanding of their rules.

STIVA - Dutch Foundation for the Responsible Use of Alcohol

- ★ "The Advertising Code for Alcoholic Beverages"

1982 - reviewed 1990, 2005 and 2006

A self-regulatory code for advertisers of alcoholic drinks in the Netherlands. In 1990, a compliance mechanism was added. Non-compliance is controlled by the independent Reclame Code Commissie (Advertising Code Committee), which can withdraw campaigns, issue public notices on infringement and impose fines up to €45,000. Full information (in English) is available under the "Advertising Code" at www.stiva.nl. Since May 2005, pre-vetting of radio and TV commercials is obligatory. In May 2006, a new slogan for beer and wine commercials was introduced - see page 31.

United Kingdom

British Beer & Pub Association (BBPA)

- "Social Responsibility Standards for the Production and Sale of Alcoholic Drinks in the UK" · November 2005

The "Standards" bring together all the Codes and recommendations that apply to the production and sale of alcoholic drinks. They address responsible advertising, marketing and retailing of drinks throughout the chain of supply in both the on- and off-trade sectors. They were developed by the drinks industry in partnership with the Government to improve good practice in the advertising and sale of alcoholic drinks. Sixteen national bodies have signed up to the Standards, namely: Advertising Association, Association of Convenience Stores, Association of Licensed Multiple Retailers, Bar Entertainment and Dance Association, BBPA, British Hospitality Association, BII, British Retail Consortium, Federation of Licensed Victuallers Associations, Gin and Vodka Association, Guild of Master Victuallers, National Association of Cider Makers, Scotch Whisky Association, Society of Independent Brewers, The Portman Group and the Wine and Spirit Trade Association.

- "Standards for the Management of Responsible Drinks Promotions, Including Happy Hours" · 2001 - updated 2005

The Standards replaced the previous BBPA guidance in 2005. All BBPA's members are signatories to these standards, are committed to ensuring that irresponsible promotions (as identified by the document) are not run within their businesses and that their brands are not identified with such promotions.

The revised standards have been well received by industry and Government in the UK, and are also reflected in the "Social Responsibility Standards for the Production and Sale of Alcoholic Drinks in the UK" (above). They recognise that well-managed promotions are a legitimate way of maintaining and developing business, but at the same time identify those more high-risk promotions that could lead to alcohol misuse and anti-social behaviour.

Diageo

- "Code of Marketing Practice for Alcoholic Beverages" · since 2003

A code which sets the minimum global standards of practice for all Diageo marketing activities around the world including advertising, promotions, brand innovation activities, consumer PR and the development and content of websites. It applies, in addition to industry codes and government regulations. This forms part of the company's approach to leading in responsible drinking, the key principals of which are: to set world-class standards for responsible marketing and innovation; to combat alcohol misuse, working with others on initiatives to reduce alcohol-related harm; and to seek to promote a shared understanding of what it means to drink responsibly.

- "Digital Code of Practice" · updated 2007

A code to provide guidance to the marketing teams. It reflects current industry voluntary and self-regulatory codes and applicable law and regulations, and sets the standard of practice for all Diageo digital marketing activities around the world. It provides detailed guidelines to ensure all digital advertising and marketing activity maximises the opportunities these new channels present and applies the Diageo Marketing Code principles across new areas of activity. It governs three key considerations across all digital channels - content, placement and permission marketing. The company is committed to creating world-leading campaigns in this new environment.

Scottish & Newcastle plc

- "Responsible Marketing Code" · since 2005

A code developed to ensure that all employees and agencies understand the importance of responsible marketing and the responsible use of their products.

The Portman Group (TPG)

- ★ "The Portman Group Code of Practice on the Naming, Packaging, and Promotion of Alcoholic Drinks" · since 1996 ⑩

A self-regulatory code which seeks to ensure that alcoholic drinks are marketed responsibly only to adult audiences. An independent panel reviews complaints and a pre-launch advisory service helps companies to take steps to ensure that their products meet the requirements of the Code. Products found to be in breach of the Code are withdrawn or amended to comply with the Code. Retailer alerts ensure that non-compliant products are not stocked by retailers. Since the Code was first introduced, over 70 products have been withdrawn from the market. A review of the third edition of the Code started in late 2006 resulted in a fourth edition being issued in June 2007.

⑫

- ★ "Annual Code Report" · 1996 ⑪

An annual report on complaints about products and marketing practices made under The Portman Group's Code of Practice. The Code Report 2006 featured eight complaints, two of which were upheld. The report noted that over 200 requests for advice under the code were received from industry over the year – a record number. Further information on the code and complaints is available at www.portmangroup.org.uk.

USA

Beer Institute

- "Beer Institute Code Compliance Review Board (CCRB)" · established 2006

An independent panel to review the complaints about the content and placement of beer advertisements. The members of the CCRB are individuals who are: financially independent from the industry, have demonstrated integrity, are experienced in different aspects of advertising, and understand the complexities of alcohol policy issues. As in the past, once Beer Institute receives a complaint, it is automatically forwarded to the member brewer in question. From January 2006, companies responding to complaints must inform consumers that they have the ability to seek additional review from the CCRB if they are not satisfied with the company's response. The CCRB judgments are posted on the Institute's website, and an annual report of judgments is published.

- "Beer Institute Advertising and Marketing Code" · since 1943 ⑫

Voluntary guidelines adopted by the brewing industry more than 60 years ago to help members to market beer responsibly. While those guidelines have evolved over time to reflect changes in technology, advertising media, and societal concerns, the premise of the guidelines remains unchanged. Today, these voluntary guidelines are embodied in the Beer Institute Advertising and Marketing Code, and serve as the baseline for many Beer Institute members' self-regulatory efforts. The Code includes a provision allowing for independent review of advertising complaints. Some Beer Institute members choose to further supplement the Beer Institute Advertising and Marketing Code with additional, company-specific, protocols and policies.

Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.

- "Advertising and Marketing Codes" - since 2001

The company is committed to the voluntary advertising and marketing guidelines as subscribed to by members of the Beer Institute. The company has its own College Marketing Code - see below. Additionally, it has an International Advertising and Marketing Code that covers its worldwide operations which is made available to all brewery employees, wholesale distributors, and outside agencies with responsibility for advertising and marketing beer.

- "College Marketing Code" - since 1991

A code which offers guidelines for beer-branded advertising and marketing in the college environment, helping to ensure that all marketing efforts on campus are in accordance with all applicable college regulations, as well as the Beer Institute's Advertising and Marketing Code. Copies of both codes are sent to the presidents of all colleges and universities to affirm the commitment to responsible marketing and advertising practices in the college environment

Heineken USA

- "Independent Advertising Complaint Review Panel and Advisory Board" - 2004

In 2004, the company created a three-member Independent Advertising Complaint Review Panel and Advisory Board to add an independent voice to the company's existing process in addressing public concerns that may arise over its printed or broadcasted advertising. Having access to a panel of experts from such professions as advertising, public policy and advocacy, provides one more avenue to fully address any arising concerns of consumers.

Europe

The Brewers of Europe

- "Responsible Commercial Communications: Guidelines for the Brewing Industry" - 2003

The guidelines provide practical advice to help brewing companies and brewing trade-associations ensure that commercial communications for beer are effectively self-regulated. The Guidelines are not intended to replace existing national codes, but rather to provide a common basis for incorporation into codes and to fill gaps where necessary - see www.brewersofeurope.org. They were adopted unanimously by the Members of The Brewers of Europe and have also been used as a template for codes developed by non-members.

- "Manual to Accompany the Guidelines for Commercial Communications for Beer" - published in 2004

An internal tool, designed to facilitate understanding of the Guidelines, e.g. by giving examples of non-compliant advertisements, presenting effective tools and raising questions that should be raised before launching a communication. It was launched at the 2nd self-regulation workshop - see page 86.

Self-regulatory systems have continued to improve, as demonstrated by the 2nd Canadian Report and independent analyses of self-regulation in Europe - see page 80.

- "Self-Regulation Road Map for Europe - 2007-2008"

Adopted by The Brewers of Europe General Assembly, this roadmap sets out the actions planned until spring 2008. This will ensure that, by then, the European brewing sector will have established robust, transparent and accountable national self-regulatory systems across Europe.

Further Corporate Social Responsibility Initiatives

This section includes those examples of brewing company policy and corporate social-responsibility (CSR) programs that either cover too wide a spectrum to be placed logically in one individual section above, cover issues not addressed in the other sections (such as respect for the environment), or are global policies whereby a company may reach the same high standards wherever it operates.

Brazil

Ambev

- "Gente que Vende" ("People who Sell") · 2000 - annual

An annual event in Brazil and all Latin American countries where the company operates. Approximately 80% of employees in Brazil, from all areas of the company, go out into the street to sell or serve the company's products directly to consumers. This event serves two functions: to promote responsible consumption directly to consumers and to allow employees to learn about the business by accompanying sales representatives and supervisors on sales calls. In 2006, employees throughout the organisation participated. This included the Latin American Zone-President, Luiz Fernando Edmond, who led by example, serving consumers at the Mercado Municipal in São Paulo, Brazil. All participating employees wore T-shirts with the responsible-consumption boomerang-logo on the back, encouraging consumers to go out and have fun while drinking responsibly and getting home safely afterwards. As 2006 was a World Cup year, Ronaldo, one of Brazil's leading soccer players, helped to publicise the campaign.

Costa Rica

Cerveceria Costa Rica

- "CSR Programmes" · since 1992

The company has an active CSR programme which has included the largest post-consumption can and bottle recycling program in Costa Rica. In 2001, a partnership with small farmers to protect water sources was instigated, and, in 2005, a beach cleaning and school painting project with volunteers, etc.

Czech Republic

Czech Beer and Malt Association (CBMA)

- "Joint Responsible Brewers Initiative" · 2003 - ongoing

Aims to coordinate and manage the efforts of the Czech producers and sellers of beer in supporting responsible consumption of beer and discouraging its misuse. It has been responsible for creating and revising the Code of Responsible Brewers and is working with the Advertising Council on a compliance system. It is supported by the five largest brewers in the Czech Republic and has four major precepts, namely that: Beer is a natural part of the Czech lifestyle, traditions and national pride; Beer producers are responsible for informing consumers in line with current legislation; Informed consumers are responsible for their own actions; and All the activities of the brewers that participate in the Initiative are in compliance with the responsible beer-drinking project.

Denmark

Carlsberg

- "www.carlsberg.com"

A website containing a specific section on alcohol-policy, and beer and society. Under "Company", "Society and Environment" there is a complete section on "Corporate Social Responsibility" where the company sets out a series of policies to which all subsidiary companies are expected to adhere. This includes a Code of Responsible Management Beer Awareness Statement. This acknowledges the fact that extreme and excessive consumption of beer may have adverse personal, social and health consequences. It includes a policy statement, recommendations, a commitment to fighting misuse, and the company's Code of Marketing Practice.

- "The Foundation for the Prevention of Underage Drinking"

- established 2005 - ongoing

Provides funding to supervise and/or undertake social activities and research into the prevention of underage drinking. It awards a total of 10 million yen to groups, individuals and establishments, etc.. This was established by the company as part of its CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) program to promote responsible drinking.

Malta

Farsons Brewery

- "The Corporate Day" · March 2006 - annual

Involves the participation of employees of the brewery who undertake a voluntary day of work in a children's home, or institute, with the aim of upgrading the establishment. The company pays for all the materials that are required to carry out the works. This is one way that the brewery's management and employees give back something to the community. This is conducted in cooperation with other large companies outside the beverage sector.

- "The Farsons Foundation" · 1995 - ongoing

An independent body within the Brewery with the aim of assisting philanthropic and cultural causes. The Board of the Foundation is given an annual budget to administer in a way in which it feels that the objectives of the foundation can best be achieved. At the moment, for example, a project is being undertaken to set up a national archive.

● "Support for Research on Hazardous Drinking Behaviour in Young Adults" · 2006

Support for a three-year study being undertaken at University College Dublin's Geary Institute. The independent scientific research will collect evidence on the motivations behind risky drinking patterns in 18-25 year-olds in Ireland. The findings will contribute to the public debate and help policymakers develop effective science-based interventions to reduce alcohol misuse. Early results indicate that four in ten students regularly binge-drink.

★ Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Ltd (MEAS)

★ "National Opinion Survey" · 2007

A survey conducted by Lansdowne Market Research found that the drinkaware.ie campaign achieved very high levels of penetration and awareness, as well as highlighting a growing awareness of the effects of excessive drinking. 91% of respondents agreed that getting drunk is embarrassing. 86% agreed that you should not drink to get drunk, and 77% felt the campaign will make people think twice about drinking excessively.

★ "Participation in the "Sustaining Progress Special Initiative" · 2005

A special initiative in the area of misuse of alcohol and drugs, undertaken by the Government and the Social Partners in Ireland under the Sustaining Progress Social Partnership Agreement. A Working Group on Alcohol Misuse was established in July 2005 with drinks industry representation from the Drinks Manufacturers of Ireland. The Working Group was requested to examine the three specific areas: "Underage Drinking"; "Harmful (binge) Drinking"; and "Drink-driving". The Working Group presented its report, in late 2005, entitled: "Working Together to Reduce the Harm Caused by Alcohol Problems". A major recommendation of the report concerns the need for local community responses and the need for multi-agency and multi-faceted approaches. The report concluded that "community action needs to be multi-agency and involve multiple actions combined and delivered through an integrated approach with real participation with all relevant stakeholders". The Social Partners included Government, Industry, Trade Unions, Community and Voluntary Sectors.

★ "Proof of Age - Research and Surveys" · 2005

This research highlighted that initiatives being undertaken to tackle underage drinking are being hampered by widespread use of borrowed and fake ID. It also indicated overwhelming support, by parents and teenagers, for a proper national age-card. The research was undertaken by the market research company, Behaviour & Attitudes Marketing.

It found that nearly half (44%) of 16-17 year old teenagers acknowledge that most of their peers use fake or borrowed ID cards to get into places where alcohol is available. The study also found that 97% of parents agreed with, or strongly supported, a proper national ID card system, while 87% of teenagers agreed generally or strongly that there should be a "proper national identity card scheme to control access to places selling alcohol".

★ "Underage Drinking is Rarely Black and White" · 2004

A unique study on underage drinking in Ireland undertaken with the support of The Amsterdam Group (now EFRD). The study was undertaken to gain a better understanding of the nature of the problem of underage drinking in Ireland, and to inform the content and direction of MEAS's work in seeking solutions to the issue. The study was undertaken by Behaviour & Attitudes Marketing.

The study found that parents of under-18s play a vital role in determining the attitude of their underage children to alcohol consumption, but underestimate their influence. The research found that many are allowed to drink by their parents, once they reach the age of 15 or 16 years. However, the research also makes it very clear that few parents know "what is the right thing to do" in relation to underage drinking, that they are reluctant to discuss the issue with other parents and are worried about being too dogmatic on the topic. The research is informing MEAS's current advertising campaign, entitled "Is Your Drinking Affecting Their Thinking?" - see page 22.

★ "Awareness of, and Attitudes Towards, the MEAS Christmas Designated-driver Campaigns" · 2003 - 2006

Research was carried out each year by Behaviour & Attitudes Marketing. The research findings indicate that in 2005, 32% of respondents used a designated non-alcohol-drinking driver to get home during the Christmas period (27% in 2004; 24% in 2003). The research has also indicated that 89% of respondents had heard of the idea of designating a driver when going out for the night (90.5% in 2004; 90.6% in 2003) and that 85% of respondents considered it "very important" to designate a non-drinking driver when going on a night out (75% in 2004; 73% in 2003).

A 2006 survey found that 70% of people strongly endorse widespread random breath-testing of motorists, and 86% of people strongly believe that individuals must take more responsibility in relation to drinking and driving. The survey of 1,109 adults also found that 85% of the public strongly agree with the concept of a designated-driver, and that 70% strongly feel that rural transport services are inadequate to facilitate those who want to avoid drinking and driving.

★ "A Chain of Responsibility: Engaging with the Retail Sector"

· January 2007 - December 2007

A project to explore patterns and issues relevant to the retail sector and establish principles on which to build a chain of responsibility throughout the alcoholic beverage industry. Research on how, and by whom, alcohol is sold around the world is currently underway. Recognizing that practices in the retail arena are likely to vary significantly by region (and even within a region), this research will include an analysis of data on global and regional trends, as well as culturally specific case-studies. At the end of this exploratory phase (late 2007), ICAP will publish a report on the retail sector. Impact will be measured by the uptake of the ideas of the ICAP Report and their incorporation into continuing dialogue with the retail sector.

The Brewers of Europe

- "Briefing Document on Beer Advertising in Europe" · published 2007

In order to assess the level of adherence of European brewers to self-regulatory codes, The Brewers of Europe asked independent, national, self-regulatory organisations to retrospectively monitor the 2,131 press and television advertisements for beer, issued in 13 EU countries over the period of a year, regardless of whether any complaints had been received. The monitoring showed that 97.5% of these beer advertisements had content complying fully with the appropriate codes or standards, which represented a slight increase over the previous year (2004), when 96.4% of beer advertisements complied. These results were incorporated into a publication that also explained the role of advertising and of self-regulation.

International Center for Alcohol Policies (ICAP)

★ "Drinking in Context: Patterns, Interventions, and Partnerships" published December 2006 (Routledge) ④

Intended to complement existing volumes dealing with international policy on alcohol by focusing on three main themes: drinking patterns; targeted interventions; and partnership development. It is argued: that patterns of drinking are the best way to describe drinking behaviour and predict both positive and negative outcomes; that targeted interventions are vital in maximizing the benefits and minimizing the harms related to drinking; and that partnerships of multi-stakeholders offer an excellent opportunity to promote the complex mixture of measures required by each society. Finding sustainable alcohol policies is a collective responsibility to be shared alike by the public and private sectors and civil society. It gives special emphasis to three issues that are of great concern worldwide: alcohol-impaired driving; alcohol misuse amongst young people; and public disorder. This book was commissioned by the International Center for Alcohol Policies (ICAP), with assistance of experts from the International Harm Reduction Association (IHRA), World Federation for Mental Health (WFMH), and the Institut de Recherches Scientifiques sur les Boissons (IREB). The volume was edited by Gerry V. Stimson, Marcus Grant, Marie Choquet, and Preston Garrison.

ICAP Series on Alcohol in Society consists of scholarly books published by the Taylor & Francis Group since 1998. Below are the latest volumes in the Series.

★ "Swimming with Crocodiles: The Culture of Extreme Drinking"

• published December 2007

Edited by Marjana Martinic and Fiona Measham, the ninth volume in the ICAP Book Series on Alcohol in Society examines "drinking to extremes" amongst young people around the world. The authors explore the factors that motivate extreme-drinking behaviour, cultural contexts, prevention and policy. It also includes results of focus groups - see page 37. This is an initiative of ICAP with expertise from Lancaster University (UK), IREB (France), Osservatorio Permanente (Italy), ARA (South Africa), DINAMO (Brazil), Kurihama Hospital (Japan), Research Institute on Addictions (Russia), University of Washington (USA), INSERM (France), Alcohol Focus Scotland (UK), University of Ibadan (Nigeria), Alcohol and Drug Services South Australia (Australia), University of Nebraska (USA), Fundación Alcohol y Sociedad (FAS, Spain) and others.

★ "Corporate Social Responsibility and Alcohol: The Need and Potential for Partnership" • published 2005 (Routledge) ⑤

Edited by Marcus Grant and Joyce O'Connor, this book explores the potential impact of alcohol-beverage-industry partnerships and how they could contribute to a reduction in the negative health impacts of harmful drinking patterns. The book addresses the following themes: corporate values and collaboration; definition of corporate social responsibility (CSR); CSR in the context of product safety and risk; perspectives on CSR and partnership in the beverage alcohol industry; and CSR and partnership in practice. It is the eighth volume in the ICAP Book Series on "Alcohol in Society". This is an initiative of ICAP, with expertise from National College of Ireland (NCI), SABMiller, Diageo, Coors Brewing Company, DISCUS, Tufts University, The Corporate Citizenship Company, ALAC (New Zealand), WHO, and National Centre for Education and Training on Addiction (Australia).

★ “Reasonable Risk: Alcohol in Perspective”
 • published 2004 (Brunner-Routledge) ⑥

Written by Marjana Martinic and Barbara Leigh, this book examines the risks surrounding the consumption of alcohol. In many ways, the risks inherent in drinking are no different from those we willingly encounter as part of many other activities. The authors explore what it is that shapes our perceptions of risk, including the influence of culture, and how we assess and manage the risks around us, especially those relating to alcohol. The book discusses how these risks are communicated to the public and how they are addressed through policy. It is the seventh volume in the ICAP Book Series on “Alcohol in Society”. This is an initiative of ICAP, with expertise from University of Washington (USA), University of Oregon (USA), University of California (USA), University of Zimbabwe, and the International Food Information Council (USA).

★ “Moonshine Markets: Issues in Unrecorded Alcohol Beverage Production and Consumption” • published 2004 (Brunner-Routledge) ⑦

It is estimated that “local alcohol” - sometimes called “moonshine”, or non-commercial, illicit, illegal or unrecorded alcohol - may account for as much as 50% of total alcohol consumption worldwide. This area of studies of alcohol has been neglected in the research community, due, in part, to the difficulty in collecting data for a product that is largely illegal. Edited by Alan Haworth and Ronald Simpson, this book presents data from six countries in which local alcohol is widely produced and consumed, namely: Brazil, India, Mexico, Russia, Tanzania and Zambia. Each country-study provides a rich review of the varied customs and rituals surrounding non-commercial alcohol, its history, cultural significance, legal and socioeconomic framework of its production and consumption and implications for public health policy, and the alcohol beverage industry. The book also examines the common themes emerging from the collected data, including commentary from experts in the fields of toxicology, economics, and anthropology. It is the sixth volume in the ICAP Book Series on “Alcohol in Society”. This is an initiative of ICAP, with expertise from CONADIC (Mexico), Fundación de Investigaciones Sociales A.C. (FISAC, Mexico), Institute of Psychiatry and Human Behaviour (India), Institute of Psychiatry of the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (Brazil), Medical College of Virginia (USA), Ministry of Health (Russian Federation), Muhimbili Medical Center (Tanzania), University of Zambia (Zambia), and the Sangath Centre (India), Single & Associates.

ICAP Reports and ICAP Reviews are periodic publications. Semi-annual ICAP Reports (issued since 1996) summarize current scientific information on a given topic, including comparative policy information where possible, whereas annual ICAP Reviews (issued since 2005) are independently authored and peer reviewed and offer an opinion on key issues in the field.

★ “ICAP Review 2: Drinking in Context: A Collective Responsibility”
 • published 2006 ⑧

In selecting policies on alcohol, societies must decide how to encourage some behaviours and discourage others while maintaining what they perceive as an appropriate balance between the respective policies of the state and individuals. Authored by Gerry Stimson, this review proposes a fresh approach to tackling this process in a way that respects the multiplicity of drinking cultures existing around the world and is responsive to the varying needs and resources in different communities, countries or regions.

★ “ICAP Review 1: Beverage Alcohol Availability Controls” · published 2005

Authored by Lucia Antalova and Marjana Martinic, this review focuses on policy measures designed to make alcohol available at limited times and in a limited number and type of locations. The rationale behind such controls is relatively simple - by making physical access to alcohol more difficult, it is assumed that consumption will be decreased and, with it, the incidence of problems. This paper provides an introductory overview of controls over alcohol availability and examines case studies of state-run monopolies, policy harmonization and opening times in several countries. It is concluded that measures implemented around policies on alcohol can only be effective if backed by proper enforcement, education of the general public about drinking patterns and outcomes, the implementation of adequate prevention, and the involvement of the broader community.

★ “ICAP Report 18: Alcohol Taxation” · published 2006 9

Explores the concept of an excise tax on beverage alcohol. The main purpose of taxation is to generate revenue for the government. However, governments also use taxes on beverage alcohol for several other purposes, namely: to attempt to reduce misuse and harm by making alcohol less accessible; to create barriers to trade; and, to encourage the purchase of domestic rather than imported products. It provides an overview of the debate on the effectiveness of taxation on alcohol and/or policies on pricing as public health and social tools for reducing consumption, misuse and other problems.

★ “ICAP Report 17: The Structure of the Beverage Alcohol Industry” · published 2006 10

Provides a summary description of the alcohol beverage industry, and nature and scope. It identifies a range of the industry's bodies and industry-supported bodies, such as trade associations and social aspects organisations, which contribute to addressing social and public health aspects of alcohol. There have been considerable changes in the industry over the past 25 years, particularly with developments in commercial versus non-branded local production, the internationalisation of brands, and the consolidation of several multinational producers. These trends are not unique to the industry but have significantly affected all areas of domestic and international trade throughout this period. Yet, despite these changes, most of the alcohol that is produced and consumed around the world continues to be non-commercial and goes largely unrecorded. While this overview of the industry and its structure may help in understanding the commercial sector, it is important to bear in mind the huge diversity of the market when addressing public health, social and trade issues around the world.

★ “ICAP Report 16: Alcohol Education and its Effectiveness” · published 2004 11

Considerable debate exists over whether education on alcohol is an effective approach to preventing problems that may arise from certain drinking patterns and whether it can be viewed in isolation from other measures on policy and prevention. This issue describes the debate and provides an overview of various approaches to education on alcohol that target the general public, particular groups (young people and other at-risk populations), and certain behaviours (drinking and driving and the sale or service of alcoholic beverages).

★ “ICAP Report 15: Drinking Patterns: From Theory to Practice” · published 2004 12

A review of current literature on drinking patterns. It focuses on such issues in research on alcohol as health outcomes, social outcomes, individual variables and international comparisons. It also addresses drinking patterns and alcohol policy.

★ “ICAP Report 14: International Drinking Guidelines” · published 2003 ⁽¹³⁾

This report offers a comparison of guidelines on drinking in a number of countries. It examines the rationale behind recommendations on drinking issued by governments and quasi-governmental organisations.

The Table on International Drinking Guidelines is continuously updated and made available on the website - see www.icap.org “Policy Issues” section. The table includes information on the entity that developed the guidelines, specific recommendations for men and women, size of the standard drink in grams of ethanol, and other recommendations or notes.

★ “ICAP Blue Book: Practical Guides for Alcohol Policy and Prevention Approaches” · launched 2005 - ongoing

A series of practical guides addressing specific issues related to the consumption of alcohol. It is intended as a tool to assist all those seeking guidance in developing approaches to policy and prevention at both national and local levels. The Blue Book includes a list of targeted interventions that have been implemented around the world with the common goal of reducing alcohol-related harm. The topics addressed by the “ICAP Blue Book” are being continuously updated and expanded. This publication is available in printed and electronic formats (www.icap.org). This is an initiative of ICAP, with expertise from IHRA, Quest4Quality (the Netherlands), Medical University of Silesia (Poland), Stefan Batory Foundation (Poland), Industry Association for Responsible Alcohol Use (ARA, South Africa), University of Limpopo (South Africa) and others.

★ “Alcohol Policies in Context: International Perspectives – 1995 to 2015” · published in June 2005 ⁽¹⁴⁾

Policy on alcohol has long been an arena of great activity, controversy and change, perhaps because it most accurately reflects the evolving social, cultural, political and public health perspectives of communities, cultures, countries, and governments. This Just-drinks.com management-briefing presents an informed look forward at this evolving policy-landscape. Based on a survey marking the International Center for Alcohol Policy’s tenth anniversary, this briefing presents the views of ICAP’s senior consultants around the globe on alcohol policy over the last ten years, a look forward to 2015, and presents examples of progress across the world.

★ “What Drives Underage Drinking? An International Analysis” · published in 2004

★ “Health Warning Requirements in Labelling and Advertising: Table” · published on the website (www.icap.org)

An update of the table in the 1997 ICAP Report 3: “Health Warning Labels”. It presents a survey of recent developments pertaining to health-warnings on beverage alcohol containers and in advertising. It has also been extended to list the requirements regarding health-warning message incorporation into advertisements. ICAP Report 3 found that nine countries had legislated Health Warning Labels (HWL) on beverage alcohol containers; this number has grown considerably since 1997. The messages on labels vary between countries. The extent of the continuing debate on health-warning policies is reflected in the number of countries that do not require HWLs and in the variety of policies among those that do. This table was created using data from individual government sources and policy surveys conducted by the World Health Organisation.

★ “Minimum Drinking and Purchasing Age Laws” · published on the website (www.icap.org “Policy issues” section)

An update of the table in the 2002/1998 “ICAP Report 4: Drinking Age Limits” showing age limits in various countries around the world.

GODA

★ "Forebyggende Forældre-netværk" ("Parent Network") · September 2006

GODA has hosted a number of conferences where the focus has been on the prevention of misuse of alcohol and risk behaviour among young people. The aim was to empower and encourage parents to form networks related to their own teenagers' behaviour. Currently, the experiences and inputs from the conferences are being collected in a 'white paper' that will be distributed to key persons working with young people on prevention.

★ "Young People and Alcohol - New Initiatives for Prevention in a World of Social and Cultural Changes" · October 2003 (Copenhagen)

GODA celebrated its 10th anniversary with a conference at the Danish Parliament. A report, including summaries of all the presentations, is available.

Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Ltd (MEAS)

★ "Annual Seminar: Cultural and Social Aspects of Alcohol" · October 2006 (Dublin)

Anne Fox, social scientist and internationally respected expert on alcohol and drug misuse, led the seminar which explored a range of cultural and social aspects of alcohol, focusing on how to better understand the impact of alcohol on people with a view to lessening its misuse. The seminar considered the drink-related beliefs, behaviours, patterns, rituals, rules and idiosyncrasies that form both distinct and universal drinking cultures worldwide. The particularly western-style of drinking, characterised by a ritualised, transformational social-bonding experience, was 'deconstructed' to firstly examine why human beings act in this way, and secondly, to assess what, if anything, could be changed in order to minimize the harm that may result.

★ "Annual Conference: Alcohol in the Community" · October 2005 (Cork)

National and international speakers outlined how communities can make a difference in addressing problems surrounding alcohol. Key themes included the need, in Ireland, to identify exactly what is the problem with alcohol that needs to be solved: the importance of emerging styles of drinking; the need for initiatives to be culturally intuitive; the evidence that successful interventions were characterised by cooperation between the various interests and the avoidance of apportioning blame; building a consensus required considerable preparation and persuasion; and there is a need for a framework in Ireland for understanding and developing community interest and input into problems relating to alcohol.

The report, "Working Together to Reduce the Harm Caused by Alcohol Problems", recommended that about 4-6 community mobilisation projects be established in 2006. In June 2006, MEAS published a detailed summary of the proceedings of its 2005 conference on 'Alcohol and the Community'. Examples and studies presented at the 2005 conference did show that communities can make a difference in addressing problems surrounding alcohol. The proceedings provided helpful guidelines for the conduct of such projects. The full conference report can be found on the MEAS website, www.meas.ie.

★ "Annual Conference: Young People and Alcohol" · October 2004 (Dublin)

Irish and overseas experts explored a range of issues, including whether Irish teenagers are different from other European teenagers, whether the Irish drinking culture is different, and whether parents should allow their teenage children to drink alcohol and, if so, in what circumstances and to what extent. The conference also examined the most effective strategies to prevent problems with alcohol among young people.

A summary of the main themes that emerged at the conference was published in July 2005 and widely circulated. There was acceptance that: there is an underage drinking problem in Ireland; addressing the problem will require a number of lines of action; no single measure will solve the problem; and the development of a national policy should involve consultation and involvement of the relevant parties, with parents and young people having a central role. The need to take a comprehensive look at the social needs of young people, with the provision of suitable alternative activities, was also highlighted as a priority.

★ "Annual Conference: The Alcohol Issues - A Partnership Approach" · October 2003 (Dublin)

The first of a series of annual conferences hosted by MEAS concerning alcohol and society. The conference explored the contribution of on-the-ground initiatives supported by the principal stakeholders to the resolution of public-order issues. The social norms approach to alcohol misuse was also explored, and information was provided on relevant best-practice partnership-initiatives within and beyond Ireland. The conference prompted activation of the 'Sustaining Progress' special initiative, which produced the 'Working Together to Reduce the Harm Caused by Alcohol Problems' report. It also prompted establishment of the 'Cork City Cares' initiative which is modelled on the 'Manchester City Safe' initiative which was described at the conference.

Examined the available scientific data on the health-effects of moderate drinking and its implications for further research, public health and alcohol policy. The two-day symposium consisted of five sessions: (1) Moderate Drinking and Cardiovascular Disease, (2) Moderate Drinking and Other Health Outcomes, (3) Influences at the Population Level, (4) Implications for Future Research, and (5) The Message for Moderate Drinking. It was organized jointly by ICAP and the Institute on Lifestyle and Health of the Boston University School of Medicine. Proceedings were published in a special issue of the “Annals of Epidemiology” journal in April 2007. The conference program and abstracts are also available at www.icap.org. The conference was an initiative of ICAP together with the Institute on Lifestyle and Health of the Boston University School of Medicine.

★ “Responsible Drinks Marketing – Shared Rights and Responsibilities. Report of an ICAP Expert Committee” · May to November 2006 ②

An important aspect of multi-stakeholder partnerships in the alcohol field is the development of improved mechanisms for the self-regulation or co-regulation of alcohol advertising and promotion. To that end, in May 2006, ICAP convened an expert committee on the responsible marketing of drinks, which has recommended a number of specific ways in which government, industry and consumers might all be better served through enhanced cooperation. The Report of this meeting presents these recommendations, discusses perspectives of various players in the field and lists recent examples of self- and co-regulation activities on advertising alcohol from around the world. This was an initiative of ICAP, with expertise from The Marketing Society (UK), University of Colorado at Boulder (USA), FireHorses Ltd. It concluded with the unanimous adoption of a final declaration, the “Cape Town Declaration”, in which ICAP and participants made commitments to develop alcohol-policy and strengthen self-regulation in the Africa Region. A report of the workshop summarizes the key issues arising and identifies the steps ICAP will take, for its part, to initiate implementation of these commitments.

★ “Harm Reduction and Alcohol: Time for a Paradigm Shift”

• March 2005 (Belfast)

A session at the 16th International Conference on the Reduction of Drug Related Harm (ICDRH). The session, organised at the invitation of the International Harm Reduction Association (IHRA), offered a general overview of the relationship between drinking patterns, health and social outcomes and harm-reduction. It provided insight into how harm-reduction can be integrated into future approaches to policies on alcohol and prevention. Papers presented at this session, along with other contributions, were published in the special issue of the International Journal of Drug Policy (IJDP) - issue 17, 2006 - entitled “Harm Reduction and Its Application to Alcohol Policy” and guest-edited by Godfrey Robson, former Director of Health Policy at the Scottish Executive, and Alan Marlatt, Director of the Addictive Behaviours Research Center at the University of Washington. ICAP provided logistical assistance with the production of this IJDP issue (links to the special issue are available online at www.icap.org, www.sciencedirect.com and www.ijdp.org).

★ “Alcohol Policy Seminars” - 2005 - ongoing

Materials for implementing the “ICAP Blue Book” (see page 84) at the local and community levels were developed during 2005. These are the Alcohol Policy Seminars (APS), which rely on rapid assessment and the implementation of appropriate approaches to policy. APS are intending to offer training to individuals who are developing policy and prevention measures, particularly where information about alcohol-issues is scarce and interventions are needed. In 2006, the APS have been piloted in South Africa in cooperation with the International Harm Reduction Association (IHRA). In the course of 2007, further APS will be conducted in Thailand and China, as well as in Europe and Latin America (in countries to be determined).

★ “Sharing Best Practice in Self-Regulation: An International Workshop”

• October 2004 (London) ③

The meeting report summarises the key issues arising from the workshop. It includes an overview of self-regulation and illustrations of activities undertaken by the alcohol industry internationally.

★ “Young People’s Drinking – An International Perspective”

• October 2004 (Kobe)

Part of the XVIIIth. World Congress of the World Association for Social Psychiatry (WASP). ICAP brought together experts and practitioners from various regions and disciplines to contribute to this symposium which aimed to contribute to the cross-cultural discussion of the nature and extent of young people’s drinking. The symposium’s agenda, presentations and abstracts are available on www.icap.org.

● Initiatives of Brewers and Brewers Trade Associations
 ★ Initiatives of organisations part funded by the brewing industry such as SAO’s

Social Aspects Organisations and other organisations funded by the industry

This section includes details of Social Aspects Organisations (SAOs), that are wholly, or partly, funded by brewing companies. SAO's are industry-funded organisations that promote the responsible consumption of beer or alcoholic beverages through education and communication programs, as well as promoting specific measures, such as those against drinking and driving. It also includes other organisations, funded by brewers, whose aims and objectives include databases and the funding of research.

Australia

DrinkWise Australia · 2005

DrinkWise Australia is an SAO designed to foster responsible drinking in Australia. Details are available at www.drinkwise.com.au. The Drinkwise board includes an equal number of industry and non-industry representatives. The industry representatives include the Chairman of the Australian Associated Brewers as well as nominees of the wine, spirits, hotels and liquor stores associations. The initial funding was underwritten by three major alcohol companies: Foster's Australia, Lion Nathan Australia, and Diageo.

Belgium

Arnoldus Group · 1992

The Arnoldus Group is the Belgian SAO, founded as an initiative of the Belgian Brewers. Apart from Belgian breweries, the Arnoldus Group's members comprise hotel, restaurant and cafés (HORECA) associations, beer wholesalers and distribution associations. More information is available on www.arnoldus.be.

Its principal objectives are to:

- promote moderate beer consumption;
- contribute to the prevention of alcohol misuse;
- spread information on moderate beer consumption;

- favour discussion and collaboration with all the organisations involved both at regional and international level;
- do research that might contribute to better information for consumers; and
- elaborate a code on the marketing techniques in general that is binding on all members of the Group.

Denmark

GODA · 1993

GODA is a Danish SAO founded by:

- The Danish Brewers Association;
- Danish Distillers Association; and
- The Wine and Spirits Organisation: V.S.O.D

GODA's objectives are:

To promote the use of alcohol in moderation in order to reduce, and work against, misuse.

Finland

Nuorten Akatemia (Youth Academy) · 1994

Youth Academy is a service organisation for all organisations that work with young people. It was established by all the major youth and sport organisations in Finland. Youth Academy's services are open to all young people; one doesn't have to be a member of any particular organisation. The organisations founded Youth Academy to support their own youth activities. With the help of the Academy the organisations wish to:

- increase the appreciation of voluntary activities;
- offer the chance to take part in self-determined voluntary activities and projects to more and more young people; and
- increase cooperation between the different organisations that work with young people.

France

Entreprise & Prévention (E&P) · 1990

Entreprise & Prévention is the French SAO. Its principal objectives are to:

- address excessive alcohol consumption and its social consequences;

- promote self-regulation while applying the existing legislation responsibly;
- ensure dialogue with public authorities and partners; and
- address prevention-related matters with public authorities.

Its Corporate Members include:

- Bacardi-Martini,
- Brasseries de Bourbon
- Brasseries Kronenbourg
- Heineken Entreprise
- CBH Trading
- CMM/ UDV
- Distillerie Châtel
- MASCARIN
- Société Michel Picard
- Moët Hennessy Diageo
- Société des Produits Marnier Lapostolle
- SOREBRA
- Pernod Ricard
- Rémy Cointreau
- Rhums Réunion
- Vranken Pommery
- William Grant & Son.

IREB - Institut de Recherches Scientifiques sur les Boissons · 1971

IREB is an NGO created by producers of alcoholic beverages including brewers. These producers are concerned by the misuse which is made of their products. This concern has led them to try to improve knowledge of different causes of excessive consumption and to inform prevention.

Its members are:

- Bacardi Martini
- Brasseries Kronenbourg
- Cusenier
- Diageo
- Heineken France
- Moët Hennessy
- Pernod
- Rémy Cointreau
- Ricard

Ireland

Mature Enjoyment of Alcohol in Society Limited (MEAS) · 2003

MEAS, the Irish SAO, became operational in order to reduce alcohol misuse and related harm.

The organisation promotes:

- social responsibility among producers, marketers, distributors and retailers of alcohol in Ireland; and
- mature enjoyment of alcohol amongst consumers in partnership with Government and other appropriate bodies.

MEAS is committed to the promotion of the highest ethical standards within the Drinks Industry and does not condone any abuse or misuse of alcohol. MEAS has no economic purpose and is operationally independent from drinks-industry companies.

Its members are:

- Drinks Industry Group of Ireland (DIGI)
- Edward Dillon
- InBev
- Diageo
- Irish Distillers Group
- C&C Wholesale
- Heineken Ireland
- Beamish & Crawford
- Licensed Vintners Association
- Vintners Federation of Ireland

Italy

Osservatorio Permanente sui Giovani e l'Alcool · 1991

The Osservatorio Permanente sui Giovani e l'Alcool (The Permanent Observatory on Youth and Alcohol) was founded for the purpose of scientifically studying alcohol consumption and its related problems amongst Italy's youths. Since its inception, The Observatory's mission has been to promote research in a manner which will help it achieve global awareness and cooperation in combating alcohol-related problems amongst young people.

Starting from a psycho-sociological standpoint, The Observatory wanted to integrate its research with a widened focus on the "health" related dimensions of alcohol consumption and misuse. In doing so, it attempted to take into consideration psycho- sociological and anthropological aspects of individual and collective behaviours, as well as economic and political aspects.

The Observatory's firm commitment to "Social Alcoholology" and to research on alcohol-related problems has helped to place it amongst the leading organisations in Europe who are socially sensitive to alcoholism and its effects. Together, The Observatory and its European counterparts continue to develop strategies for identifying effective and culturally adequate means to prevent the misuse of alcohol. Since 2006, The Osservatorio has been a non-profit association, funded by a group of associate members, namely Assobirra, The Federation of the Italian Wine Producers, the University of Perugia and the Cesar Foundation.

Malta

The Sense Group (TSG) · 1997

The Sense Group is the Maltese SAO, and it aims to promote moderate, sensible and responsible drinking. TSG is autonomous from its members who include the major producers and importers of alcoholic beverages in Malta. The organisation hopes to cultivate a better understanding of alcohol-related issues in Malta, as well as conducting awareness campaigns.

Other functions of the group include assisting local authorities to prevent alcohol misuse, encouraging ethical responsibility in serving alcoholic beverages, establishing and maintaining contacts with international institutions, and informing the general public about developments regarding the consumption of alcohol.

New Zealand

Beer Wines & Spirits Council (New Zealand) (BWSCNZ) · 1989 - 2006

The Council was active for over 15 years, becoming the mouthpiece for the industry in all matters relating to alcoholic beverages as they relate to society and the legislative and economic environment.

The Council had a range of partnerships with related organisations and interest groups, both nationally and internationally, promoting the moderate consumption of alcohol, responsibility and consideration in all aspects of society.

The Council was proactive in addressing areas of concern and actively supported education programs and youth initiatives. This often meant correcting misconceptions and myths about the industry and about the links between alcohol, health and the welfare of society.

It also tracked the trends relating to, and conducted research into, the industry and the communities it operated in, including commissioning independent medical opinion on the main issues on health (Medical Advisory Group).

The Council was the established touchstone for the news media, sourcing reliable information and research about the drinks sector and making comment on the trends.

Membership:

Lion Nathan Limited

DB Breweries Limited

BWSCNZ was closed at the end of 2006. Its programs will be taken forward independently by New Zealand's brewers.

South Africa

ARA – Association for Responsible Alcohol Use · 1989

The Industry Association for Responsible Alcohol Use, formerly the Social Aspects of Alcohol Committee (SAAC), was established by the major producers of alcohol beverages in South Africa to coordinate and direct activities which counter and reduce the misuse of their products. Its activities are based on principles and data developed and obtained through sound scientific research. Most of ARA's activities are captured under one of the following headings: self-regulation, research, primary prevention through education, and participation in public policy development.

The members of ARA include SABMiller plc.

South Korea

Korea Drinking Culture & Alcohol Research (KDCAR) · 2000

KDCAR was established as a partnership between the drink manufacturers of South Korea with the aim of protecting consumers by fostering and promoting a responsible drinking culture. Members include InBev Korea.

Taiwan

Taiwan Beverage Alcohol Forum (TBAF) · 2000

TBAF was founded to promote the responsible consumption of alcohol beverages in Taiwan with financial assistance from major alcohol companies from Europe and the States. The aim is to promote responsible decision making about drinking alcohol, coordinate efforts to promote a responsible drinking culture, and engage in alcohol policy debates in a way which satisfactorily addresses social concerns.

The following companies are members of TBAF:

- Anheuser-Busch
- Bacardi
- Cottingham & Co
- Diageo
- Heineken
- Miller
- Moët-Hennessy
- Pernod Ricard

The Netherlands

STIVA - the Dutch Foundation for the Responsible Use of Alcohol

• 1982

STIVA is the Dutch SAO. Its objective is to reduce alcohol misuse and to encourage the responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages through:

- self-regulation of advertising;
- information, including awareness campaigns in a variety of fields such as youth, transports, the workplace and sports; and
- research.

Its members include:

- Centraal Brouwerij Kantoor
- Commissie Gedistilleerd van het Productschap Dranken
- Productschap Wijn

SAR – Foundation for Alcohol Research • 1981

The foundation consists of the Dutch Brewers Association (Centraal Brouwerij Kantoor (CBK)) and the spirits and wine organisations. Its objective is to contribute to a balanced, scientific view on the moderate consumption of alcohol in society and the beneficial effects of moderate consumption of alcohol.

United Kingdom

BII • 1981

The BII is a professional membership organisation within the licensed retail sector with over 17,500 licensees as members and a large number of corporate members - mainly brewers and pub operators. It also has an associated body, BIIAB, which awards a full range of qualifications related to licensed retailing.

The Portman Group (TPG) • 1989

The Portman Group is the UK's SAO. It is a pan-industry organisation, set up by the UK's leading drinks manufacturers whose purpose is: to encourage and challenge the industry to market products responsibly, principally through administering its Code of Practice on the Naming, Packaging and Promotion of Alcoholic Drinks; to provide best-practice leadership in this area through the actions of its members; and to speak on behalf of its members on alcohol-related social issues, thereby informing policy and public opinion. TPG is funded by the following companies which recognize the importance to their own commercial freedom in tackling the social problems associated with alcohol misuse.

- Bacardi Martini
- Beverage Brands
- Brown Forman Brands UK
- Carlsberg UK
- Coors Brewers UK
- Diageo Great Britain
- InBev UK Ltd
- Pernod Ricard UK
- Scottish & Newcastle

The Drinkaware Trust • 2006 (formerly The Portman Group Trust) • 2002

The Drinkaware Trust is a unique partnership between industry, health professionals and the voluntary sector. It is an independent charity, voluntarily funded by industry (with target-funding of £12 million over the first three years) but with a board comprising a range of stakeholders. The Trust's aim is to positively change public behaviour and the UK's drinking culture through education. The Trust became operationally independent from The Portman Group in January 2007.

The Drinkaware Trust is a registered charity founded in 2002. The Trust's work complements that of its sister organization, The Portman Group, which works to help reduce alcohol misuse and promote responsible drinking. The Drinkaware Trust's charitable purpose is "the preservation, protection and promotion of public health through the provision of education and research on alcohol-related matters."

In 2006, a Memorandum of Understanding was signed with Caroline Flint, Health Minister, confirming the new status of the Trust as the alcohol producers' fund identified in the National Alcohol Harm Reduction Strategy. Currently, it is in the process of being established on a completely independent footing from The Portman Group; and it is envisaged that it will assume many of its consumer facing activities in 2007.

In 2005, the Trust gave £100,000 of grants to 55 local projects. Its 2006 budget has been augmented by a grant from The Big Lottery Fund of £358,000 over three years to develop alcohol peer-education programs, including 'The Drinkaware Challenge' a Youth Achievement Award designed in conjunction with another charity, UK Youth.

AIM-Alcohol in Moderation · 1991

AIM-Alcohol in Moderation is a non-profit organisation funded by subscription to its on-line journals which are dedicated to promoting the moderate and responsible use of alcohol. AIM promotes a better understanding and balance of the key issues relevant to the responsible use and the reduction of misuse through its independent Council of Professors and Specialists, and its peer-review and summarising of emerging research and salient issues.

The following Brewers and Associations are members of AIM:

- Beer Institute
 - The Brewers of Europe
 - Brewers Association of Canada
 - British Beer & Pub Association
 - Scottish & Newcastle
 - InBev
 - SABMiller
 - Anheuser Busch
- plus many smaller ones.

Europe

The Amsterdam Group (TAG) · 1990 - 2005 (EFRD since 2006)

The Amsterdam Group (TAG) was an alliance of some of Europe's leading producers of beers, wines and spirits. The aim of this Group was to work with governments and other interested groups to address social problems related to the excessive or inappropriate consumption of alcoholic beverages.

International

International Center for Alcohol Policies (ICAP) · 1995

ICAP is a non-profit organisation funded by leading producers of alcoholic beverages. ICAP is dedicated to promoting understanding of the role of alcohol in society and to helping reduce the misuse of alcohol worldwide through dialogue and partnerships involving the alcohol-beverage industry, the public health community and others with an interest in alcohol-policy.

ICAP sponsoring companies are:

- Asahi Breweries, LTD
- Bacardi-Martini
- Beam Global Spirits & Wine
- Brown-Forman Corporation
- Diageo PLC
