Principle 1: Raise awareness of safety education messages and acceptable use policies to users, parents, teachers and carers in a prominent, clear and age-appropriate manner
According to its self-declaration:
	Yes (relevant quote from the self-declaration)	No info provided in the self-declaration	Not applicable¹ to this SNS (relevant quote from the self-declaration)
Does the provider include information on terms of use in their self- declaration?	Yes On joining a Yahoo! service, all users are required to commit to terms of service which set out conditions of use. They also set out the consequences of a user breaching the terms of service, including withdrawal of their access to a particular service or, in some cases, the deletion of their Yahoo! ID (i.e.:withdrawing access to all Yahoo! services). In addition, Yahoo! has developed Community Guidelines which set out standards of behaviour for community-based services (see: http://help.yahoo.com/l/uk/yahoo/safety/keeping_safe/guidelines.html). These may be supplemented with additional guidelines for particular products (e.g.: Yahoo! Answers http://uk.answers.yahoo.com/info/community_guidelines, Yahoo! Video http://uk.docs.yahoo.com/video/guidelines.html and Flickr http://www.flickr.com/guidelines.gne).
Does the provider include information on safety in their self-	Yes

declaration?	This is in several places, so it is best to see the quotes in later sections
Does the provider include information on privacy in their self- declaration?	Yes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Specific guidance on privacy and the posting of information and content on user generated services (e.g.: in the Yahoo! Privacy Policy http://info.yahoo.com/privacy/uk/yahoo/). Yahoo! has a dedicated Privacy Centre for each market outlining the practical steps users can take to manage their privacy and personal information. This includes advise on posting information about themselves and content to Yahoo!’s community-based services. The Privacy Centre is available via a permanent link at the foot of almost every page on Yahoo!. Users may also edit their online profile(s) at any time by clicking on prominent “edit my profile” links.
Does the provider state that the safety information is targeted (info specifically targeted at children)?	Yes Yahoo! expects that young users gain their understanding of safety issues from sharing information and experiences with their peers. For this reason, safety information is increasingly addressed directly to these users rather than parents. There is a range of other tools and sources of information expressly dedicated to help young users increase their awareness of the Internet and the Yahoo! world, and educating them how to use it responsibly.
Does the provider state that the safety information is presented in a prominent way?	Yes Yahoo! has developed a dedicated set of guidelines for young users and carers prominently shown within the on-site help pages.
Does the provider state that the safety information is accessible?	Yes They are widely available within each service, typically via a link in the page footer.

	Online safety is a high priority for Yahoo! in the EU. We offer several mechanisms of raising awareness of safety and acceptable use in our products among users of all ages: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Safety information in Help Central pages (widely available across the site and in particular within social networking products), in-product guidance (notices in the registration flow, pop ups etc) and Customer Care responders. • Permanent footers in community-based services linking to Yahoo!’s Community Guidelines and safety tips.
Does the provider state that the safety information is easy to understand?	Yes These set out in easy-to-understand language the dos and don’ts for users.
Does the provider state that the safety information is presented in a practical format?	The self-declaration implies that by the way it outlines in a systematic manner the various safety elements
Does the provider state that the safety information provides guidance regarding inappropriate content and conduct and information on the consequences of breaching the Terms of Service?	Yes An easily-identifiable “report abuse” flag or button is typically displayed on every page where user generated content can be posted on Yahoo!. Users are encouraged to indicate in their report they type of abuse (e.g.: content breaching terms of service or inappropriate contact from another user) and reports are assigned accordingly in different queues in order to be effectively processed and analyzed by dedicated Customer Care agents. Users receive an automated response from Yahoo! Customer Care confirming the receipt of their complaint. Responses for certain types of reports will contain advice for users and sources of additional information or help (e.g.: sources of emotional support or contacts in law enforcement). Yahoo! also provides information about where else users can report questionable content or

	behaviour (http://help.yahoo.com/l/uk/yahoo/abuse/report_other.html). Yahoo! has in place clear procedures to handle complaints about content or conduct which breaches terms of service. These are typically handled by Customer Care agents. Serious abuses of a Yahoo! service may be escalated internally to a dedicated team within the Legal group which provides professional support and advise on more complex matters and determines an appropriate response. Abuse reports from users are acted upon in a timely way and are typically resolved within 48 hours. More complex reports generally require further investigation and may take longer to resolve.
Does the provider state that the service includes information on links to educational material and technical controls for parents?	Yes Yahoo! has also created targeted advice to help educate and support parents and carers. Yahoo!'s commitment is to provide a wide range of independent sources of educational material to parents and children, via collaboration with child protection charities, youth organizations and parenting bodies.
Does the provider state that the service provides advice/link to advice for teachers?		No	The provider pointed out that the word 'carers' is intended to cover teachers

Principle 2: Work towards ensuring that services are age-appropriate for the intended audience
According to its self-declaration:
Recommendation: Limit exposure to potentially inappropriate content and contact. For example:	Yes (relevant quote from the self-declaration)	No info provided in the self-declaration	Not applicable to this SNS (relevant quote from the self-declaration)
Does the provider outline in the self-declaration how it is made clear to users when services are not appropriate for children and young people?	Yes – by implication all community services The Yahoo! terms of service require users who join a community-based service to have a registered age of over 13 years (i.e.: the age declared in their Yahoo! ID).
Does the provider outline in the self-declaration how it is made clear to users where a minimum registration age applies?			It is made clear that a minimum age applies. To be fair, the self-declaration covers a number of different services and how it is made clear can vary by service

Does the provider in their self-declarations outline the steps taken to deny access under-age users from their services?	Yes Mechanisms are in place to prevent users with a registered age below a certain level from accessing certain services (e.g.: age-verification for online gambling services in the UK) or being presented with age-inappropriate content (e.g.: age-targeting of advertising of alcohol).
Does the provider in their self-declarations outline the steps taken to deleting under-age users from their services?	Yes Where a young user is found to have lied about their age, Yahoo! Customer Care will delete their profile
Does the provider in their self-declarations outline the steps taken to prevent users from attempting to re-register with a different age if they have previously been rejected for being below the minimum age (if their terms require a minimum age)?		No
Does the provider in the self-declaration indicate how compliance with minimum age requirements is promoted (within technical and legal constraints)?	Yes The date of birth provided by the user within their Yahoo! account registration process cannot be modified by the registrant. This helps counter minors' attempts to access +18 contents on the Yahoo! properties – hidden behind an adult wall – by misrepresenting their age.

Does the provider in the self-declaration outline how uptake of parental controls is promoted on the service?	Yes, sort of Yahoo! has also created targeted advice to help educate and support parents and carers. Yahoo!'s commitment is to provide a wide range of independent sources of educational material to parents and children, via collaboration with child protection charities, youth organizations and parenting bodies.
Does the provider in the self-declaration outline what functionality is provided for content providers, partners or users to label, rate or age restrict content that is provided?	Yes Users of this age are not able to access images which are flagged as "restricted" or adult. Specifically it also refers to advertising restrictions. Advertising content running on Yahoo!'s community-based services are regulated by a strict set of internal guidelines and enforced by the Yahoo! Legal Team across Europe. These also reflect good practice and relevant local self regulation (e.g.: Committee of Advertising Practice (CAP) self-regulatory code in the UK and Autocontrol code in Spain). These guidelines set out specific guidance on advertising aimed at children and advertising which may be unsuitable for children or cannot be targeted at children, in line with Yahoo! Brand positioning. Such rules apply, for example, to the advertising of alcohol, some financial services and age restricted services such as cosmetic surgery or tobacco products.
Does the provider in the self-declaration outline that certain professionally produced content is only shown at particular times of the day?			No, but to be fair the self-declaration covers more than one service. The provider noted in response to the test that this is not appropriate given that Flickr is a global service available in all time zones

Does the provider in the self-declaration outline other means they have employed to limiting exposure to potentially inappropriate content?	Yes Users of this age (13-17) are not able to access images which are flagged as “restricted” or adult. Yahoo! employs network level solutions to detect content that violates our terms of service including ‘junk’ filters (e.g. to detect profanities in Yahoo! Answers), randomly select content for human review (e.g.: on Flickr) and traffic flow monitoring.
Does the provider in the self-declaration outline other means they have employed to limit exposure to potentially inappropriate contact?	Yes Users with a registered age of 13-17 years can be presented with a different profile (e.g.: Flickr) with more sensitive fields removed. These profiles are not searchable and are defaulted to ‘private’ (although a user may choose to make their profile visible to their ‘friends’ or all users). Meanwhile, the default user profiles in Yahoo! Answers and Yahoo! Video are not full profiles. They are more like ‘user cards’ and contain a very limited number fields which, by default, do not prompt the sharing of personal details. Users are invited to create an online identity or nickname rather than use their real identities. UK Home Office Task Force good practice on social networking determined the risk to u18s There is specific safety messaging about posting content and accepting ‘connection’ invitations from other users. Users must expressly choose to create a fuller profile e.g.: by sharing their video playlist or share their contact details (i.e.: Mail or Messenger ID) with online friends or other users.

	All visitors to Yahoo! may browse Yahoo! Answers, Yahoo! Video and Flickr content anonymously without being registered or logged in if they wish to remain anonymous, though in this mode they cannot interact with other users. Users of all Yahoo! services may send and receive invitations to be connected with other users in a Yahoo! community. All users can refuse an invitation or simply allow it to expire without responding. Users can also 'ignore' or block another user and are encouraged to report any suspect behaviour to Customer Care for investigation.

Birthday data at the registration process	Yes				If you are totally new to this service, which the test assumes, you have to first register with Yahoo! Then you register for Flickr using just the Yahoo! account details. That is why both stages are included in the assessment. Once you have the Yahoo! ID you do not have to provide it when registering for Flickr

Sign up as a 11 year old child using 06.06.98 as date of birth			No			You first have to get a Yahoo! Account, which in itself is not age restricted. Then you come to create a Flickr account it says 'You have to be at least 13'

Sign up again as a 15 year old child using 06.06.94 as date of birth		Yes				Since I can't change the 11-year old account or make a new one with the same name, I made up a new name and age, chose a different name and it let me into Yahoo and then Flickr. Admittedly it did say 'slow down' and try again because of concerns about spam, but it let me put up photos and start the process of reporting abuse – so I had some functionality. When I signed in a second time, this message disappeared, NB The same applies for adult members signing up.
IF PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS ARE REFUTED: Sign up again as a 15 year old child using 07.07.94 as date of birth
