Important Notice

By K.U.Leuven, Jönköping International Business School, Central European University and Ernst & Young Consultancy Belgium

The country reports are not in any way intended to be an implementation of the Media Pluralism Monitor in the Member States. They were drafted during the initial stages of the study, with the intention of obtaining a better view of regulatory measures in the broad sense – including co- and self-regulatory measures – adopted in the Member States to promote or safeguard, directly or indirectly, pluralism in the media. The intention was to obtain a high-level snapshot of possible implementation problems and not to express any value judgements on existing rules. The resulting overview facilitated the development of methods for assessing the effective implementation of regulatory safeguards, which had to be, according to the Terms of Reference for the study, an intrinsic element of the legal indicators. We strongly recommend that you also download the file containing our Introduction as it sets out our approach to the initial stages of the project in detail and includes a short manual on how to read the country reports. We draw your attention to the Overview file as well.

Please note that the country reports were finalized in the middle of 2008 and do not therefore reflect progress made with the transposition of the Audiovisual Media Services Directive or any subsequent initiative by Member States. They are made available not as final deliverables of the study, but as interim deliverables, intended to illuminate part of the route taken by the study team and thereby to contribute towards the full transparency of the MPM project.

TABLE 1. Constitutional protection of press and communication freedoms

Measure	Source	Scope of application	Key features
1.1. Freedom of expression	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland ¹	applies generally, including: PM AAVM	Article 14 “The Republic of Poland shall ensure freedom of the press and other means of social communication.” Article 54 “1. The freedom to express opinions, to acquire and to disseminate information shall be ensured to everyone. 2. Preventive censorship of the means of social communication and the licensing of the press shall be prohibited. Statutes may require the receipt of a permit for the operation of a radio or television station.” Article 213 (1) “The National Council of Radio Broadcasting and Television shall safeguard the freedom of speech, the right to information as well as safeguard the public interest regarding radio broadcasting and television.”
Implementation problem: Limitations: Penal Code of 6 June 1997²: Art. 135: "anyone who in public insults President of the Republic is liable to up to three years' imprisonment" Art. 226 § 1 states that "anyone who insults a civil servant or a person officially assisting him during or in connection with carrying out of his official duties is liable to a fine, to restriction of personal liberty or up to two years' imprisonment". During the pre-accession negotiations, regular reports from the Commission on Poland's progress towards accession expressed repeatedly concerns about the slander laws offering politicians a higher level of the protection than that afforded to the general public.³ Broadly reported cases involved f.i. Kwaśniewski v. Życie Other limitations: Art. 196 penalizes anyone who offends others' religious beliefs by publicly reviling an object of religious reverence or a public place of worship. Art. 256 makes liable anyone who publicly propagates fascist or other totalitarian regime as well as incites to hatred on account of national, racial, ethnic or religious differences. According art. 257 liable is also anyone who publicly defames a person or a group of people because of their national, racial, ethnic and religious origins. Civil Procedure Code: Article 730 provides rules for interim injunction that prevents journalists from publishing materials being the subject matter of civil actions for libel.

³ 1999 and 2000 Regular Reports from the Commission on Poland's Progress towards Accession; 2001 Regular Report on Poland's Progress towards Accession, SEC (2001) 1752; 2002 Regular Report on Poland's Progress towards Accession, COM (2002) 700 final.

	1984 Press Law ⁴	PM AAVM	Article 1 The press, according to the Constitution, enjoys freedom of expression and fulfils citizens' right to be accurately and reliably informed, the right to transparency of public life as well as the right to control and social criticism.
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended ⁵	AAVM	Article 6 (1) “The National Council shall safeguard freedom of speech in radio and television broadcasting, protect the independence of broadcasters and the interests of the public, as well as ensure an open and pluralistic nature of radio and television broadcasting.”
1.2. Freedom of/right to information	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	applies generally, including PM AAVM	Article 61 “1.A citizen shall have the right to obtain information on the activities of organs of public authority as well as persons discharging public functions. Such right shall also include receipt of information on the activities of self-governing economic or professional organs and other persons or organizational units relating to the field in which they perform the duties of public authorities and manage communal assets or property of the State Treasury. 2.The right to obtain information shall ensure access to documents and entry to sittings of collective organs of public authority formed by universal elections, with the opportunity to make sound and visual recordings.”
Implementation problem: Limitations: Article 61 (3) of the Constitution: “3. Limitations upon the rights referred to in paras. 1 and 2 above, may be imposed by statute solely to protect freedoms and rights of other persons and economic subjects, public order, security or important economic interests of the State.”
Is there – besides constitutional provisions – a specific act dealing with citizens’ or journalists’ access to public sector information?	2001 Law on Access to Public Information ⁶	applies generally, including PM AAVM	The Act allows anyone to demand access to public information (Article 2), public data and public assets held by public bodies, private bodies that exercise public tasks, trade unions and political parties (Article 4). The requests can be oral or written (Article 10). The bodies must respond within 14 days (Article 13).
Implementation problem: Exemptions include state secrets and confidential information as protected by a law, personal privacy and business secrets (Article 5). Appeals of denials of access are made under the Code of Administrative Procedure initially internally and then to a court. ⁷
Are there specific rules dealing with journalists’ access to events for news reporting?	1984 Press Law ⁸	PM AAVM	Article 4 (1) states that entrepreneurs from a non-profit sector are obliged to provide information to the press about their activities. Article 6 (2) states that state organs, units and companies are obliged to respond to the criticism of the press.

⁴ Press Law (Ustawa Prawo Prasowe) adopted on 26 January, 1984, Official Journal 1984 No 5, item 24, as amended.

⁵ Broadcasting Act (Ustawa o Radiofonii i Telewizji) adopted on 29 December, 1992, Official Journal 1993, No 7, item 34, 1993, as amended.

⁶ Official Journal, 2001, No 112, item 1198.

			Article 11 provides rules for information provision by administration units, heads of administration units and spokespersons.
1.3. Explicit recognition of media pluralism
1.4. Protection of journalistic sources	Penal Procedure Code ⁹	applies generally, including: PM AAVM	Article 180 entitles journalists, doctors and advocates to not disclose professional secrets. Article 180 (2) states that members of the three professions "can be heard as witnesses about facts which are covered by professional confidentiality only when it is indispensable for the good of the administration of justice and when certain circumstances cannot be established by other evidence (...)". Article 180 (3) specifies that "exemption of the journalist from the obligation to keep professional secrets is not applicable to information which could enable to identify the author of a press material, a letter to the editor or other material of this kind, as well as to identify persons who provided information which was published or designed for publication, if these persons have reserved their right of non-disclosure the above data".
Implementation problem: Exceptions: The protection given by Article 180 (3) does not apply in cases of serious crimes including: genocide, high treason, espionage, assassination or attack on life of the President, terrorist attack on military forces or a military object, murder, causing danger to life, health of a substantial number of persons or to a property of huge size, hi-jacking and kidnapping.
	1984 Press Law PM	AAVM	Article 15 (1) specifies that an author of the article has a right not to disclose his name. Article 15 (2) states that a journalist is obliged not to disclose data on an author of the article, letter or other press item, and data on other sources providing information, if persons listed above required such protection.
Implementation problem: Exceptions specified by Article 16 include articles and other press materials which concern crime as described by Article 254 of the Penal Code.
	Code of Journalistic Ethic (Kodeks etyki dziennikarskiej) adopted by The Polish Journalists Association (SDP)	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 7 A journalist is obliged to protect confidentiality of his/her source of information if required by this source.
	Journalistic Code of Conduct (Dziennikarski Kodeks Obyczajowy) adopted by the Association of Journalists of the Republic of Poland (SDRP)	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article II A journalist is obliged to protect anonymity of his/her source, if required by this source.
1.5. Right of reply	1984 Press Law	PM AAVM	Article 31 provides for the publication of a reply to false or untrue facts, or incomplete information or to statements endangering personal goods. Article 32 and 33 concern conditions under which a reply is published

⁸ Press Law (Ustawa Prawo Prasowe) adopted on 26 January 1984, Official Journal 1984 No 5, item 24, as amended.

⁹ Penal Procedure Code (Ustawa Kodeks Postępowania Karnego) adopted on 6 June 1997, Official Journal 1997, No 89, item 555, as amended.

1.6. Ratification of international instruments: - CoE's Framework Convention For The Protection Of National Minorities - UNESCO Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions (Oct 2005)	International legal instruments: CoE's Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities CoE's European Charter for Regional and Minority Languages UNESCO Convention on the Protection of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions	applies generally, including PM and AAVM	or denied publishing. -signed (1.02.1995) -ratified (20.12.2000) -entered into force (1.04.2001) -signed (12.05.2003) -accession by European community (18.12.2006) -accession by Poland (17.08. 2007)

TABLE 2. Editorial independence

Measure	Source	Scope of application	Key features
2.1. Journalists	1984 Press Law	PM AAVM	Article 10 (2) obliges a journalist to fulfil internal policy (as expressed in the statute or internal code) of a news room or editorial office in which he/she is employed.
	Code of Journalistic Ethic (Kodeks etyki dziennikarskiej) adopted by The Polish Journalists Association (SDP)	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Articles 17 – 21 describe conflict of interests including acceptance of gifts, hidden advertising and political activity. Article 23 states that a journalist may refrain from carrying out his/her professional tasks which stay in the conflict with journalistic ethics, law or his/her grounded opinions and beliefs.
Implementation problem: The Association set up the Supreme Journalistic Court consisting of seven members. The Court concludes judgments on basis of the statute of the Association and the Code of Journalistic Ethics. In its judgment of 20.06.2006 the court stated that Andrzej Krajewski infringed Article 4 of the Code.
	Journalistic Code of Conduct (Dziennikarski Kodeks Obyczajowy) adopted by Association of Journalists of the Republic of Poland (SDRP)	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM The Association set up the Supreme Journalistic Court consisting of seven members. The Court concludes judgments on basis of the statute of the Association and the Journalistic Code of Conduct.	Article I A fundamental task of a journalist is searching for the truth and publication of truthful information.
Note: Institutional landscape of journalist associations and unions is relatively rich in Poland. Two main competitive organisations include Polish Journalists' Association (Stowarzyszenie Dziennikarzy Polskich) and Polish Republic Journalists' Association (Stowarzyszenie Dziennikarzy RP). SDP was established in 1951. In 1980 – 1981, SDP has co-operated closely with the Solidarity movement. During the Martial Law in 1981 the Association was illegally dissolved and all its property was handed over to the newly established Association of Journalists of the People's Republic of Poland (now SDRP). In 1989, SDP has been legally re-established and the Association of Journalists of the People's Republic of Poland changed its name into the Association of Journalists of the Republic of Poland. There are several minor journalists' organizations operating either continuously or interrupted intervals: Catholic Association of Journalists (Katolickie Stowarzyszenie Dziennikarzy), Polish Journalists Syndicate (Syndykat Dziennikarzy Polskich), Trade Union of Journalists (Związek Zawodowy Dziennikarzy) and Trade Union of Polish Television employees (Związek Zawodowy Pracowników TVP). Other professional institutions with self-regulatory powers include: Press Publishers Chamber (Izba Wydawców Prasy), National Chamber of Audiovisual Producers (Krajowa Izba Producentów Audiowizualnych), Association of Advertising Agencies (Stowarzyszenie Agencji Reklamowych), Polish PR Association (Polskie Stowarzyszenie PR) and Interactive Advertising Bureau Polska.
	The Media Charter of Ethics	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	The Charter covers following principles: -Principle of the truth -Principle of objectivity -Principle of division of the information and commentary -Principle of honesty -Principle of respect and tolerance -Principle of superiority of recipients' good -Principle of freedom and responsibility

Note: The Media Charter of Ethics was adopted by existing journalists' associations and major media organisations. On 29.03.1995 the parties established the Media Council of Ethics - a body composed of broadly respected media professionals whose aim is to guard the principles of the Charter and initiate an opinion, interpretation or further action in cases of Charter standards violation.

2.2. News / information programmes	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	The document covers following areas: -Polish Television and its viewers -Polish Television and politics -Polish Television and culture -Polish Television and education -Finances of Polish Television -Employees of Polish Television The section on 'Polish Television and politics' states that a duty of the Polish Television is to provide for information and perform an impartial analysis of events and processes undergoing in the society and the world in such a way, that viewers can consciously participate in the life of the nation and fulfill their citizen's rights.
2.3. Other media content	Code of Good Practices (Kodeks dobrych praktyk) adopted in 2005 by the Association of Advertising Agencies (Stowarzyszenie Agencji Reklamowych – SAR) Good practices in the internet adopted by SAR	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	The Code covers such areas as: -fair competition -protection of intellectual values -dumping -head-hunting -corruption practices, etc.
	Code of Conduct – based on SEO Code of Conduct (Kodeks etyczny w zakresie przygotowania stron internetowych) adopted by the Interactive Advertising Bureau Polska	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	The Code covers areas of conduct of SEO (Search Engine Optimization) practitioners and their clients and lists a number of non-ethical practices.
2.4. Subsidies/ Training of journalists (independence, ethic, recruitment, etc.)

TABLE 3. Cultural pluralism

Measure	Source	Scope of application	Key features
3.1. Structural rules (guaranteeing or promoting access by the various cultural groupings to media companies’ bodies, structures...)
3.1.1. Special representation requirements in media company structures
Note: There are no such representation requirements in current media-related or general laws.
3.1.2. Special representation requirements in media advisory bodies	For advisory bodies to public service broadcasters: 1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 30 (4a): “When appointing Programme Councils of branches broadcasting programme services in the languages of national and ethnic minorities and in regional languages, branch directors shall take into account candidates put forward by social organizations of national and ethnic minorities and communities speaking regional languages.”
Note: The programme councils advise to public service broadcasters.
3.1.3. Legal or policy measures either prohibiting discrimination in recruitment or promoting equal opportunities (ethnic minorities, gender, age, disabled...)	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 32: “1.All persons shall be equal before the law. All persons shall have the right to equal treatment by public authorities. 2.No one shall be discriminated against in political, social or economic life for any reason whatsoever.”
	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 33 (2): “Men and women shall have equal rights, in particular, regarding education, employment and promotion, and shall have the right to equal compensation for work of similar value, to social security, to hold offices, and to receive public honours and decorations.”
	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 35 (1): “The Republic of Poland shall ensure Polish citizens belonging to national or ethnic minorities the freedom to maintain and develop their own language, to maintain customs and traditions, and to develop their own culture.”
	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	In addition, Article 60 states that Polish citizens enjoying full public rights shall have a right of access to public services based on the principle of equality.
Note: Constitution addresses protection against discrimination in general. Article 32 of the Constitution establishes the provisions of equality and non-discrimination, but does not specifically refer to racial, ethnic, national, religious, linguistic or cultural grounds of discrimination:
Article 33 ensures equal rights for men and women, in particular regarding education, employment and promotion and thus, also provide a basis for equal opportunity policy.
Article 35 ensures the right of members of national and ethnic minorities to use minority language, maintain customs and perform their culture, but does not refer specifically to the employment, recruitment of equal opportunities.
Regarding Article 60, access to public service includes also access to public service broadcasting. This provision does not however explicitly provide for specific equal opportunity or promotion policies

to ensure that equal access is enjoyed by citizens regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, religion, language, sexual orientation, disability, etc..
	Labour Code ¹⁰	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 11 (2): Employees have equal rights stemming from equal fulfillment of the same duties; it refers in particular to equal treatment of women and men in labour relations. Article 11 (3): “Any form of ethnic discrimination in labour relations, direct or indirect, in particular on the grounds of sex, age, disablement, race, religion, nationality, political opinion, membership in trade unions, ethnic origin, belief, sexual orientation and on the grounds of fixed-term or non fixed-term, full-time or part-time employment, cannot be admitted”.
Note: Under this provision, media as institutions employing journalists and communication professionals “cannot admit” discrimination on grounds listed in the Article 11. The need to implement anti-discrimination legislation was noticed in the 2000 EC Regular Report: “Legislation transposing the EC directive based on Article 13 of the Treaty relative to discrimination on the grounds of race or ethnic origin will have to be introduced and implemented.”¹¹
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 18: 1. Programmes or other broadcasts may not encourage actions contrary to law and Poland's raison d'Etat or propagate attitudes and beliefs contrary to the moral values and social interest. In particular, they may not include any discrimination on grounds of race, sex or nationality.”
	2005 Act on National and Ethnic Minorities and on a Regional Language ¹²	Applies generally	Article 6: 1. Discrimination on grounds of ethnic origin shall be forbidden. 2. Public administration shall be obliged to take appropriate steps to: 1) support the full and effective equality in a sphere of economic, social, political and cultural life, among the persons belonging to minorities and a majority. 2) protect persons who are discriminated or who are victims of hate or violence on grounds of their belonging to a minority. 3) strengthen an intercultural dialogue
3.2. Representation of the various cultural groupings in the media	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – The Polish Television	Polish Television and Culture: The programmes of the Polish Television should represent a wide range of significant ethical and value orientations and conventions, present in the pluralistic Polish culture, including cultures of national minorities.
3.2.1. Access to airtime for cultural groupings	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 21 (1a) “The tasks of public radio and television arising out of the implementation of the mission referred to in paragraph 1 shall include in particular: (...) 8a) paying due regard to the needs of national and ethnic minorities and communities speaking regional languages, including broadcasting news programmes in the languages of national and ethnic minorities and in regional languages; 9) production of educational programmes and ensuring access by people of Polish descent and Poles living abroad to such programmes.”

¹⁰ Labour Code (Kodeks Pracy) adopted on 26 June 1974, Official Journal 1998, No 21, item 94, as amended.

¹¹ 2000 Regular Reports from the Commission on Poland's Progress towards Accession, pp. 56-57.

¹² Act on National and Ethnic Minorities and on a Regional Language (Ustawa o Mniejszościach Narodowych i Etnicznych oraz o Języku Regionalnym) adopted on 6 January 2005, Official Journal 2005 No 17, item 141.

	2005 Act on National and Ethnic Minorities and on a Regional Language	Article 18 (3)	Article 18 (1) Public administration is obliged to take appropriate steps to support an activity aimed at the protection, maintaining and development of cultural identity of a minority group. 2. Means described in the para. 1 may involve purpose-related or institutional subsidies for: (...) 3) the publication of books, magazines, periodicals and other printed materials in minority languages or Polish, in print or other sound and image recording techniques 4) the support of TV and radio programmes carried out by minorities.
Note: Subsidies described in the para. 2 allocated from the part of the state budget disposed by the minister with competencies to deal with religions, national and ethnic minorities may be allocated without an open grant competition scheme. The minister announces each year procedural rules regarding grant allocation. A common commission of the Government and National and Ethnic Minorities provides opinions on subsidy schemes and grant distribution.
3.2.2. Content obligations	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 18 (2) “Programmes or other broadcasts shall respect the religious beliefs of the public and especially the Christian system of values.”
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 45: “2. The registering authority shall impose a ban upon the cable network operator to retransmit programme services or a particular programme service, if: 1) contents inciting hatred on the grounds of race, sex, nationality or religion (...)”
3.2.2.1. Promotion of European works	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 15: “3. Television broadcasters shall reserve more than 50% of their quarterly transmission time for European works, excluding news, advertising, teleshopping, sports events, teletext services and games.”
Note: The National Council may determine, by a regulation, a lower share of programmes referred to in paragraphs 1 and 3 in radio and television programme services for: Article 15 (4) (...) 1) broadcasters during the first year of transmission of their programme service, 2) thematic programme services, for which the number of available programmes referred to in paragraphs 1 and 3, is insufficient, 3) programme services transmitted solely via satellite or cable which in their entirety are available against payment of a fee (...)”
3.2.2.2. Promotion of European independent works	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 15a: “1. Television broadcasters shall reserve at least 10% of their quarterly transmission time for European works produced by independent producers, excluding news, advertising, teleshopping, sports events, teletext services, and games. Programmes produced not later than 5 years before their transmission in the programme service shall constitute at least 50 % of the time reserved for European works produced by independent producers.”
Note: The National Council determines, by a regulation, with regard to the programmes and works referred to in Article 15 paragraphs 1 and 3 and paragraph 1: 1) the manner in which the broadcaster keeps record of the transmission time, 2) the duration of storage period of such records, however, not less than 1 year, 3) the scope of recorded information, including information about the date of transmission of a programme, actual duration of the programme, title and producer of the programme.
3.2.2.3. Promotion of national/regional works	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 15: “1. Television broadcasters shall reserve at least 33% of their quarterly transmission time to programmes originally produced in the Polish language, excluding news, advertising, teleshopping, sports events, teletext services and games. 2. Radio and television broadcasters shall reserve at least 33% of their quarterly transmission.”

3.2.2.4. Language requirements	See as above	See as above	See as above
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 18 (7): “Broadcasters shall ensure the proper quality of the Polish language in their programme services and shall counteract its vulgarisation.”

	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	Public service TV and R	Article 21 (1a): “The tasks of public radio and television arising out of the implementation of the mission referred to in paragraph 1 shall include in particular: 1) production and transmission of national and regional programme services, programme services for reception abroad in the Polish language and in other languages as well as other programme services meeting the democratic, social and cultural needs of local societies.”
3.2.3. Representation of minorities on the screen (e.g. presenting the news, in drama, movies...; can be engagement in an internal charter or can be imposed statutory)
3.2.4. Subsidies (apart from general PSB funding)	Direct subsidies: 2005 Act on National and Ethnic Minorities and on a Regional Language	Applies to minority periodicals and TV and R programmes carried out by minorities	Article 18 (1) Public administration is obliged to take appropriate steps to support an activity aimed at the protection, maintaining and development of cultural identity of a minority group. 2. Means described in the para. 1 may involve purpose-related or institutional subsidies for: (...) 3) the publication of books, magazines, periodicals and other printed materials in minority languages or Polish, in print or other sound and image recording techniques 4) the support of TV and radio programmes carried out by minorities.
Note: Article 18 (3) Subsidies described in the para. 2 allocated from the part of the state budget disposed by the minister with competencies to deal with religions, national and ethnic minorities may be allocated without an open grant competition scheme. The minister announces each year procedural rules regarding grant allocation. A common commission of the Government and National and Ethnic Minorities provides opinions on subsidy schemes and grant distribution. Direct subsidies are, in the case of Poland, provided for a relatively modest number of periodicals. The Ministry of Culture, Ministry of Scientific Research and Information Technology and Ministry of Environment Protection supply financing for cultural magazines, academic periodicals and environmental magazines, a few with an ongoing support and the rest through competitive grants. National minority press is subsidised from the Department of National Minority Cultures at the Ministry of Culture. For instance, in 2003, 34 national minority periodicals were assigned subsidies totalling PLN 2,484,000 (€ 552,000).

Article 146 (4): The specialised periodicals are defined as periodicals focused on cultural, creative, educational, scientific, social, professional and methodical activities, regional and local issues, and periodicals designed for sightless people. They may not be published more often than once a week and their circulation cannot exceed 15 000 copies. Under the 2004 Act on Commodity and Service Tax (2004) delivery and import of specialised periodicals is exempted from VAT (Article 148.1.3.a,b).
Note: The list of specialised periodicals does not include periodicals with a general content; publications containing pornography, hate speech on grounds of national, ethnic, racial or religious differences or publications promoting fascism or other totalitarian systems; publications which devote at least 33 per cent of their surface to paid and unpaid commercial announcements, advertising or advertising texts; periodicals which contain mainly a novel or other literary work; periodicals with at least 20 per cent of their surface devoted to cross-word puzzles or other games or publications containing information about celebrities and publications which do not publish circulation data.
	Indirect subsidies: 1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 4 (1a) „social broadcaster” shall mean a broadcaster who: a) propagates learning and educational activities, promotes charitable deeds, respects the Christian system of values, being guided by the universal principles of ethics, and strives to preserve national identity in the programme service, b) does not transmit programmes or other broadcasts referred to in Article 18 paragraph 5 within the programme service, c) does not transmit advertising or teleshopping, sponsored programmes or other sponsored broadcasts, d) does not charge any fees for transmission, retransmission or reception of the programme service.”
Note: 1992 Act exempts social broadcasters from fees payable for awarding or altering the licence (Article 39b) Following subjects may apply to the National Council to be granted the status of social broadcasters: (Article 39b): 1) an association, within the framework of implementing its statutory objectives, 2) a foundation, within the framework of implementing its statutory objectives, 3) a church or a religious legal person of a given church, or a religious organisation whose status is regulated by an Act of Parliament.

4.1. Structural rules (relating to the organization and structures of media companies/advisory bodies)
4.1.1. Restrictions to politicians' ownership/control of media (avoid one dominating voice)
4.1.2. Requirements of independence from political parties / politicians	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	The Polish Television and Politics (page 3-4): The Polish Television shall safeguard its autonomy and independence. The Polish Television's legal statute, mode of appointment and composition of its management and advisory bodies guarantee fulfillment of social interests and expectations through the Polish Television's activities. The Polish Television shall not favor or promote any orientation, but shall create possibilities to express all legally acceptable views in its programming structure as a whole.
4.1.3. Incompatibility of political mandate with membership in media advisory or regulatory bodies	The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 214 (2): “A member of the National Council of Radio Broadcasting and Television shall not belong to a political party, a trade union or perform public activities incompatible with the dignity of his function.”
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 8(3) “During the term of office of members of the National Council, their membership in: 2) governing bodies of associations, trade unions, employers' associations, as well as church or religious organisations, shall be suspended.” Article 8(4): “It is prohibited to combine the service of a member of the National Council with holding an interest or shares, or with any other involvement, in an entity which is a radio and television broadcaster or producer, as well as with any other gainful employment, save for educational or academic positions of an academic tutor or lecturer or performing creative work.”
4.1.4. Representation requirements in media companies' bodies (board of directors...)	There are no such requirements formally set by law.
4.1.5. Representation requirements in media advisory bodies and/or regulators	For a regulatory body: The 1997 Constitution of the Republic of Poland	Applies generally, including PM and AAVM	Article 214 (1) “The members of the National Council of Radio Broadcasting and Television shall be appointed by the Sejm, the Senate and the President of the Republic.”
	For a regulatory body: 1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 7 (1): “The National Council shall consist of 5 members, of which 2 shall be appointed by the Sejm1, 1 by the Senate and 2 by the President from amongst persons with a distinguished record of knowledge and experience in public media.”

5.1. Licensing policy fostering local/regional types of media	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	Public service R and TV	Article 26 (6): “Acting in agreement with the Chairman of the National Council, the President of the Office of Electronic Communications shall allocate to companies producing and transmitting: 1) national television programme services - the frequencies required to cover the territory of the country by the programme services transmitted by the „Polish Television I” and „Polish Television II” channels,2) national radio programme services - the frequencies required to cover the territory of the country by programme services transmitted on the first, second, third and fourth channels and frequencies needed to transmit radio programme services for listeners abroad, 3) regional television programme services - the frequencies required to transmit regional television programme services, 4) regional radio programme services - the frequencies required to transmit regional radio programme services.”
Note: Television landscape in Poland has been fundamentally shaped during the first licence-granting process (1993 – 1994) aiming at setting up the model, that would provide initial pluralism of broadcasters complementary addressing different audiences and their needs. As a result, licences were granted to 11 domestic broadcasters (one national – Polsat, one supra-regional – Telewizja Wisla and nine local) and one foreign broadcaster (pay TV – Canal Plus). Ideally, this could have balanced the dominance of the public broadcaster offering two national channels (TVP I, TVP II), 11 regional channels and 1 satellite channel (Polonia). However due to irregularity in transmission and financial problems, private regional and local TV channels did not prove to offer alternative content production of good quality. Also, the reform of PSB structure (transformation of regionally-based 3 channel into 24 hours news channel) weakened the position of regional branches, leaving the broadcasting landscape heavily centralized.
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	Cable operators	Article 43: “1. TABLE 6. Pluralism of ownership/control

Measure	Source	Scope of application	Key features
6.1. Sector specific rules limiting media ownership	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended 2007 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection ¹⁶	AAVM Applies generally	Limits on concentration of broadcasting ownership were set up in the 1992 Broadcasting Act within the procedural frame of granting and revoking broadcasting licences. A broadcasting licence may not be awarded if transmission of a programme service by the applicant could result in the applicant's achievement of a dominant position in mass media in the given area (Article 36). Also, the broadcasting licence may be revoked on the same grounds (Article 38). Yet, the Broadcasting Act does not explicitly define “a dominant position in mass media in the given area”. It is the 2000 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection, which provides for interpretation of such a position. This is understood as a position of the undertaking which allows it to prevent the efficient competition within a relevant market thus enabling it to act in a significant degree independently of competitors, contracting parties and consumers. It is assumed that the undertaking holds a dominant position if its market share exceeds 40%. (Art. 4.10, 2007 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection).
Note: In compliance with the Broadcasting Act, the National Broadcasting Council (Krajowa Rada Radiofonii i Telewizji - KRRiT) evaluates, whether an applicant may achieve a dominant position considering above all the main goals of the Broadcasting Act, open and pluralistic nature of broadcasting. It should be added in this respect, that media sector markets are treated separately, because the Polish competition law gives a possibility to divide markets according to criterion of consumers' ability to regard products as substitutes.¹⁷ For example, in the merger case Polskapresse¹⁸, the Office for Competition and Consumer Protection (OCCP) held that daily newspapers belonging to the so-called yellow-press formed together a relevant market of their own for reason of their sensational character. Moreover, according to OCCP, free of charge newspapers also have to be excluded and treated as a different category when defining a homogenous product market for (regional) daily newspapers. As regards the geographic dimension of the markets, the key factor for distinguishing between national and local newspapers is the limited area of distribution of the latter.¹⁹
	2004 Tele-communications Law ²⁰	Tele-communication sector	Article 24 (1): “Where the President of UKE finds that the relevant market is not effectively competitive, he/she shall initiate proceedings aimed at designating a telecommunications undertaking or undertakings with significant market power and impose regulatory obligations provided for in the Act.”

The 2007 Act replaced 2000 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection adopted on 15 December 2000, Official Journal 2000, No 122, item 1319. The 2000 was preceded with 1990 Act on Combating Monopolistic Practices and Protection of Consumer Interests which introduced specific provisions on antitrust and merger control. Already in 1987, Poland adopted its previous Act on Combating Monopolistic Practices in the National Economy.

6.1.1.2. At the moment of mergers & acquisitions	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 38(2): “The broadcasting licence may be revoked if: (...) 3) by transmitting the programme service the broadcaster gains a dominant position in mass media on the given relevant market as defined in regulations on protection of competition and consumers; 4) another person takes over direct or indirect control over the activity of the broadcaster.” Article 38a Article 38a(3): “In case of a merger, division or other transformations of commercial companies, the rights referred to in paragraph 1 may transfer onto another entity upon consent of the National Council expressed in the form of a resolution. The consent shall be refused if: 1) the broadcaster gains a dominant position in mass media on the given relevant market as defined in regulations on protection of competition and consumers; 2) another person takes over direct or indirect control over the activity of the broadcaster.”
Note: The print press has not been subject to limitation according to the 1992 Broadcasting Act. Mergers and acquisitions in the print press sector may be limited under the 2007 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection in the sense of protecting competition through preventing a company from acquisition of a dominant position on the press market.
6.1.1.3. Other (constant monitoring/supervision)	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	There are several monitoring and supervisory competencies concerning collection of information and transparency of broadcaster’s activities: Article 20a 1. At the written request of the President of the Office for Competition and Consumer Protection, the broadcaster shall: 1) disclose the data allowing to identify the person who ordered a programme or advertisement, 2) deliver, free of charge, the recording of the programme or advertisement within 7 days from the date of the request.
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 37a A broadcaster shall on an annual basis deliver to the National Council its financial statements prepared in the form specified in the Accounting Act of September 29, 1994.
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 54 1. If a person who directs the broadcaster’s activity fails to carry out the decisions issued under Article 10 paragraph 4, the Chairman of the National Council may, by a decision, impose a fine upon such a person; however, such fine shall not exceed the person’s

6.1.2.2. Crossmedia	no media specific rules
Note: In 2002, National Broadcasting Council and Ministry of Culture in Poland proposed the Draft Amendment to the 1992 Broadcasting Act, publicly advertised as a set of measures to protect media pluralism and limit cross-media concentration. The initiative ended with a disclosure of a corruption scandal widely referred as Rywingate and ultimately resulted in the resignation of Leszek Miller's government in 2004. Following amendments did not address an issue of cross media ownership or diagonal media concentration.
6.1.2.3. Vertical integration with networks	no media specific rules
6.1.2.4. Integration with advertising sector	no media specific rules
6.1.2.5. Integration with other (e.g. energy) sectors	no media specific rules

This is understood as a position of the entrepreneur which allows him to prevent the efficient competition on the relevant market, while his market share exceeds 40% (Art. 4).
	2004 Tele-communications Law	Tele-communication sector	Article 24 (2): “A telecommunications undertaking with significant market power is a telecommunications undertaking individually holding an economic position equivalent to dominance within the meaning of the Community law provisions.”

6.1.3.4. Capital shares			Article 38(4): “The broadcasting licence may be revoked if: (...) 4) another person takes over direct or indirect control over the activity of the broadcaster.”
			Article 38a(3): “In case of a merger, division or other transformations of commercial companies, the rights referred to in paragraph 1 may transfer onto another entity upon consent of the National Council expressed in the form of a resolution. The consent shall be refused if: 1) the broadcaster gains a dominant position in mass media on the given relevant market as defined in regulations on protection of competition and consumers; 2) another person takes over direct or indirect control over the activity of the broadcaster.”
6.1.3.5. Voting shares			Article 38(4): “The broadcasting licence may be revoked if: (...) 4) another person takes over direct or indirect control over the activity of the broadcaster.”

6.1.3.6. Advertising revenues	no media specific rules
6.1.3.7. Involvement in number of media sectors	no media specific rules
6.2. Sector specific rules preventing cooperation between media companies	only general competition rules

6.3. (Sector specific or general) rules preventing foreign (non-EU) ownership	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 35 “1. Broadcasting licences may be awarded to natural persons of Polish nationality who permanently reside in Poland or to legal persons having their permanent seat in Poland. 2. Companies having foreign shareholders may be awarded a broadcasting licence if : 1) the stake held by foreign persons in the share capital of the company does not exceed 49% (...)”
			Article 35(3): “3. The licence may also be awarded to: 1) a foreign person, or 2) a subsidiary, as defined by the Code of Commercial Companies and Partnerships, of a foreign person, - having a seat or permanent residence in a member state of the European Economic Area, with exclusion of restrictions imposed by virtue of paragraph 2.”
			Article 40a(1): “ Purchase or acquisition of shares or interest, or acquisition of rights in shares or interest in a company holding a broadcasting licence to transmit a programme service, by a foreign person, shall require a consent of the Chairman of the National Council (...)”
			Article 40a(5): “The provisions of paragraphs 1 - 3 shall not apply to foreign persons or subsidiaries, as defined by the Code of Commercial Companies and Partnerships, to foreign persons having a seat or permanent residence in a member state of the European Economic Area.”
Note: Under the 1992 Broadcasting Act (before 2004 Amendment), foreign investors were allowed to hold only minority shares (up to 33%) in the Polish broadcasting media. After the 2004 amendment and since Polish accession to EU, limits on EU-based ownership have been removed and new provisions inserted allowing for a higher share of the foreign capital for the investors from other (non EU) countries - up to 49%. Different regulatory schemes for the print press and broadcasting sector influenced ownership patterns: an unbalance between the deficit of domestic capital and extensive foreign investment in the print press sector resulted in a dominant presence of foreign owners, unlike in the case of broadcasting safeguarded by legal barriers.

Note: F.i. case RWR 7/2004 of 11 February 2004, Polskapresse: In September 2003, Orkla company sold two of its Wrocław dailies – Słowo Polskie and Wieczór Wrocławia to Polskapresse. In consequence, Wrocław and Dolnośląskie province became largely dominated by Polskapresse. In December 2003, all Wrocław dailies were consolidated into one daily appearing under the title Słowo Polskie /Gazeta Wrocławska (Polish Word/ Wrocław Newspaper) with a 12 pages supplement Wieczór Wrocławia (Wrocław Evening). The Office of Competition and Consumer Protection charged the publisher with penalties amounting to € 100,000 as the company failed twice to notify the intention of concentration on the market of regional daily newspapers. However, the Court of Competition and Consumer Protection abolished the decision of UOKiK.

7.5. Public service media	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	Public service media	Articles 21-32
	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	The document covers following areas: -Polish Television and its viewers -Polish Television and politics -Polish Television and culture -Polish Television and education -Finances of Polish Television -Employees of Polish Television
7.5.1. Structural rules - organization
7.5.1.1. Independence (from government, political powers, economic powers; is this explicitly guaranteed, how?)	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	The Polish Television and Politics (page 3-4): The Polish Television shall safeguard its autonomy and independence. The Polish Television’s legal statute, mode of appointment and composition of its management and advisory bodies guarantee fulfillment of social interests and expectations through the Polish Television’s activities. The Polish Television shall not favor or promote any orientation, but shall create possibilities to express all legally acceptable views in its programming structure as a whole.
	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 13 (relevant for all broadcasters, not only PSB) “1. The broadcaster shall enjoy full independence in determining the content of the programme service with a view to fulfilling the tasks referred to in Article 1 paragraph 1 and shall be responsible for its contents.”
Note: An independence of public service broadcasters (both from the State and party politics) was a principal normative expectation during the first phase of media reform in Poland after 1989. However, the structure of interdependencies concerning the nomination of the chief regulatory body – National Broadcasting Council (appointed by Sejm, Senate and President), the PSB supervisory councils (appointed by National Broadcasting Council) and PSB management boards (appointed by Supervisory Council) has not ensured sufficient guarantees of independence from party politics. The practice over the last 12 years has shown that the hierarchy of subservience influenced a number of decisions and appointment choices both in the National Broadcasting Council and PSB management bodies, many of which proved to result from complicated political negotiations within the Polish Parliament and Presidential Office. Moreover, subsequent changes in central administration were accompanied by changes of relevant laws in order to influence a composition of regulatory, supervisory and management bodies. In December 2005, the right wing government prepared the Act on transformations and modifications to the division of tasks and powers of state bodies competent for communications and broadcasting,²² which reduced nine KRRiT members to five. Although a rationale behind the Amendment was the establishment of a new regulatory body – the Office of Electronic Communications, most critics of the project underlined that the Law merely changed the composition of National Broadcasting Council, Supervisory Councils of the Polish Television and Radio, and in consequence, management boards of both PSB institutions. In a similar vein, current government in force prepared 2008 Draft Act amending the Broadcasting Act.²³ The draft Act was adopted by the Parliament, but most likely will be vetoed by the President. The Draft Act again proposes the change of number (7) and competencies of KRRiT, as well as other bodies.
7.5.1.2. Election of management, composition of board members...(government? Parliament? Other?)	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 27 1. The Board of Management shall consist of one to five members. 2. Members of the Board of Management, including the President, shall be appointed and dismissed by the Supervisory Board by two-thirds majority of votes cast in the presence of at least three fourths of the Board’s members.” Article 28 1. Note: The 2008 Draft Act amending the Broadcasting Act brought following changes: Article 27 (1): The Board of Management shall consist of one to three members. Article 27(2): Members of the Board of Management, including the President, shall be appointed and dismissed by the National Broadcasting Council (...) Article 28 (1): The Supervisory Board shall consist of three to seven members. Members of the Supervisory Board shall be appointed by the National Council (...)
7.5.1.3. Specific representation requirements for board of directors, other bodies
7.5.1.4. Advisory bodies: ensured broad representation of cultural, political and geographic groupings	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 28a: “1. Programme councils of public radio and public television shall consist of 15 members appointed by the National Council, of which 10 members shall represent parliamentary groups. The remaining 5 members shall be appointed from amongst persons with a record of experience and achievement in culture and mass media. (...)” 3. The programme councils shall adopt resolutions evaluating the level and quality of current programming as well as of the programme schedule. The Supervisory Board shall be obliged to consider and act upon resolutions concerning programme matters which are adopted by a majority of votes cast in the presence of at least half of the members of the programme council.” Representation requirements concerning cultural, ethnic, linguistic diversity are embodied in the Article 30 (4a): “When appointing Programme Councils of branches broadcasting programme services in the languages of national and ethnic minorities and in regional languages, branch directors shall take into account candidates put forward by social organizations of national and ethnic minorities and communities speaking regional languages.”
Note: The 2008 Draft Act amending the Broadcasting Act brought following changes in Article 28a: “Programme councils of public radio and television shall consist of nine members appointed by the National Council amongst persons with a record of experience and achievement in culture and mass media. 6 members shall represent parliamentary groupings and in the case of the regional media, groupings represented in geographically relevant province councils.
7.5.1.5. Employment: ensured broad representation of cultural, political and geographic groupings	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	Employees of the Polish Television (p. 5): Journalists employed in the Polish Television cannot perform agitation or political propaganda. (...)” The Polish Television creates conditions for workshops and improvement of its employees, and ensures a possibility of advancement and career building based on a fair and impartial evaluation of their professional achievements.
7.5.2. Structural rules - funding
7.5.2.1. Source of funding (state / tax money, public / licence fees, advertising, merchandising...)	1992 Broadcasting Act, as amended	AAVM	Article 31 “1. The revenues of companies referred to in Article 26 paragraphs 2 and 3 shall be the proceeds from:

			1) (23) licence fees, default interest for delay in their payment and fines for the use of unregistered radio and television sets, as defined in the provisions of the Licence Fees Act of April 21, 2005, subject to the reservation of Article 8 paragraph 1 thereof, 2) trade in programme rights, 3) advertising and sponsorship, 4) other sources. 2. The revenues of these companies may also include grants from the State budget (...).”
Note: Financing of PSB solely from licence fee appeared unaffordable in Poland. For example, licence fee revenue has oscillated around 30% in total revenues of the Polish Television (TVP) during the last ten years. Thus, most of the activities of the Polish Television were financed from advertising, sponsoring and other commercially related sources.
	2008 Act amending the Act on licence fees	Applies generally	The act exempts retired citizens from paying the licence fees.
Note: The current government and PM announced plans to abolish financing of the public service media from licence fees provided that costs of public service programming will be covered directly by the state budget.
	The Mission of the Polish Television as a Public Broadcaster (Misja Telewizji Polskiej jako Nadawcy Publicznego) adopted in June 1994	Public service broadcaster – the Polish Television	Finances of the Polish Television (p. 5): The Polish Television defines forms and scope of the programming and other activities on a basis of available resources. 9.2.2. Sufficient resources
9.2.3. Credibility
9.3. Competition Authority	2007 Act on Competition and Consumer Protection	Applies generally	The central administrative body responsible for the enforcement of the Competition Act is the President of the Office of Competition and Consumer Protection (Urząd Ochrony Konkurencji i Konsumentów - OCCP). (http://www.uokik.gov.pl/)
Note: The Court of the Competition and Consumer Protection (Sąd Ochrony Konkurencji i Konsumentów - CCCP), functionally integrated into the Warsaw District Court, is exclusively competent for complaints against all decisions issued by the President of the OCCP on the basis of the Competition Act.
9.3.1. Structure/ organization (What this row should learn is whether there is a problem for media pluralism because NCA does not function properly; it should not contain an in-depth analysis of functioning of NCA!)
Note: The cases monitored by the Office of Competition and Consumer Protection have proved that the Office paid due attention to issues of media concentration and pluralism (f.i. Polskapresse case, etc.). At the same time, the competition law does not provide sufficient measures to protect media pluralism. Relevant provisions tackle a partial scope of the problem, basically because they neither address diagonal and vertical media concentrations, nor sustainability of non-profit and community media. The need to secure media pluralism stems from different conditions and it is a different policy rationale than ensuring appropriate functioning of the market through competition.
