

Hello,

I would like to express my meaning that net neutrality is important! I do not think an ISP should be able to limit my Internet usage. It's the same as public roads that do not limit wich cars, bikes, buses and the likes make use of the road. Governments might limit old and broken cars to make use of the road, but that is something completely different to limiting the Internet usage. The Internet should be a free network where it's users decide how to use it. This is what made the Internet the big and beautiful network that it is today and that is what will keep the Internet alive and useful!

Thank you for you time and I sure do hope you listen to this, making the right decision.
