EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. CONTEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

European society is ageing. Pension systems across the European Union (EU) have to adapt in order to ensure adequate, safe and sustainable pensions. This is not a simple matter. Effectively addressing these challenges requires closely coordinated action by Member States. The proposed revision of Directive 2003/41/EC on the activities and supervision of institutions for occupational retirement provision (IORPs)¹ will make those institutions better governed, more transparent and increasing their cross-border activity, thereby strengthening the internal market.

In a number of respects the Directive's review is long overdue.

First, higher governance standards reflecting best practices at national level following the economic and financial crisis are needed to protect scheme members and beneficiaries, and facilitate safe cross-border provisioning. Some IORPs are large financial institutions, and their failure could impact on financial stability and have significant social consequences. This is particularly relevant as more and more occupational pensions are defined-contribution (DC) schemes. The pensions of the members of these schemes are at risk in case of possible insufficient risk governance or mismanagement.²

Second, regulatory divergences, overlapping requirements, and excessively burdensome cross-border procedures must be reduced. Commission's consultations have shown that these are one of the obstacles to develop cross-border occupational pensions markets, and reducing those obstacles would help companies, including SMEs and multinationals, to organise their pension provision on a European scale more efficiently.³ Cross-border IORPs, such as the pan-European pension fund for mobile researchers⁴ or a planned cross-border scheme for Austrian employers⁵ are limited today. But the increasing pressure on the occupational pensions sector is likely to grow significantly in view of increasingly limited public pensions systems, and cross-border IORPs have the potential to represent an increasing share in occupational pension provision. In ² Schemes where the level of contributions, not the final benefit is pre-defined. Individual members bear the investment and longevity risks and often make decisions about how to mitigate these risks.

fact, new legislation has been introduced in several Member States aimed at positioning them as locations of choice for cross-border IORPs.⁶

Third, there is evidence of significant gaps in the level of information provided to scheme members and beneficiaries across the EU. Many scheme members are not aware that their pension rights are not guaranteed or even if accrued that they could be cut by IORPs, contrary to other financial contracts.⁷ They are also often not aware that charges have a significant impact on pension rights.

This proposal builds on a number of initiatives launched in recent years such as the White Paper on pensions⁸ and the Green Paper on long-term financing of the European economy.⁹ Following on from this last Paper, the revision of the Directive also aims to strengthen the capacity of IORPs to invest in assets with a long-term economic profile and support the financing of sustainable growth in the real economy.

The IORP sector is being developed in many Member States where occupational pensions so far play a limited role, including by setting up regulatory frameworks. Failing to provide an up-to-date EU regulatory framework now entails the risk that Member States continue to develop diverging solutions, thereby exacerbating regulatory fragmentation. Furthermore, improvements to the performance of occupational pensions require long periods of time to materialise. Failing to act now would lead to lost opportunities in terms of cost savings and investment returns, and inadequate financial planning by millions of Europeans. It would also increase the burden disproportionately for younger generations and undermine inter-generational solidarity.

This proposal does not consider the introduction of new solvency rules, which are in any event not relevant for DC schemes. Moreover, a quantitative impact study¹⁰ conducted by the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (EIOPA) in 2013 indicated that more complete data on solvency aspects are necessary before a decision can be taken on those aspects.

1.1. Objectives of the proposal

The general objective of this proposal is to facilitate the development of occupational retirement savings. Safer, more efficient occupational pensions will contribute to pension adequacy and sustainability by enhancing the contribution of complementary retirement savings to retirement incomes. It will also reinforce IORPs' role as institutional investors in the EU's real economy and enhance the capacity of the European economy to channel long-term savings to growth-enhancing investment.

⁶ Examples include Luxembourg's SEPCAV (Société d'épargne-pension à capital variable) and ASSEP (Association d'épargne-pension), Belgium's OFP (Organization for Financing Pensions), or the Netherlands' PPI (Premium Pension Institutions).

⁷ For example, the Dutch central bank reported that since the outbreak of the crisis 68 IORPs were compelled to curtail accrued pension rights in April 2013; this affected 300,000 individuals (DNB, 2013, Five years in the pensions sector: curtailment and indexation in perspective). In the UK, IORPs that fail can be taken over by the Pension Protection Fund but in that case the pension rights are cut by 10%.

⁹ COM (2013) 150 final, 25.3.2013.

¹⁰ EIOPA, "Report on QIS on IORPs", 4.7.2013

This proposal has four specific objectives: (1) removing remaining prudential barriers for cross-border IORPs, notably by requiring that the rules on investment and disclosure of information to members and beneficiaries are those of the home Member State, as well as by clarifying procedures for cross-border activities and clearly defining the scope of action of home and host Member State; (2) ensuring good governance and risk management; (3) providing clear and relevant information to members and beneficiaries; and (4) ensuring that supervisors have the necessary tools to effectively supervise IORPs.

1.2. Consistency with other policies and objectives of the Union

The objectives of this proposal are consistent with the policies and objectives pursued by the Union. The Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU) provides for action to ensure the establishment and functioning of the internal market with a high level of consumer protection, as well as the freedom to provide services.

This proposal is in line with the White Paper on pensions. At the same time it is consistent with the Europe 2020 strategy, which calls for fiscal consolidation and long-term financial sustainability to go hand in hand with structural reform of pension systems in Member States.¹¹ Finally, this proposal is consistent with other initiatives in the field of financial services, such as Solvency II¹², AIFMD¹³ and MiFID II¹⁴. As such it falls well within the scope of the Commission's agenda towards a stronger financial sector to support growth.¹⁵

The proposal promotes human rights by protecting retirement provision. It is in line with Article 25 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU which calls for recognition and respect for the rights of the elderly to lead a life of dignity and independence. The proposed actions would have a positive impact on consumer protection under Article 38 and freedom to conduct business under Article 16, in particular by ensuring a higher level of transparency of retirement provisioning, informed personal financial and retirement planning as well as facilitating cross-border business of IORPs and their sponsors. The general objective justifies certain limitations on the freedom to conduct a business (Article 16) as the proposal aims at ensuring the market integrity and stability.

2. RESULTS OF CONSULTATION WITH INTERESTED PARTIES AND IMPACT ASSESSMENT

This proposal builds on multiple public consultations regarding requirements on quantitative aspects, governance and information disclosures. Given the specific nature of the IORP activities, the consultations consistently included the social partners (employers and trade unions). In July 2010, the Commission consulted on its Green Paper on pensions in which it outlined a number of its ideas regarding this review.¹⁶ The consultation drew almost 1700 responses from across the EU, including 350 from Member States, national parliaments, business and trade union organisations, civil society and industry representatives.¹⁷

Taking into account the feedback on the Green Paper on pensions, the Commission Services asked EIOPA in April 2011 to provide technical advice on how to change the Directive. EIOPA recommended that - taking into account the principle of proportionality - the governance framework set out in the Solvency II Directive should apply to IORPs. The publication of the draft advice¹⁸ was followed by an extensive consultation.¹⁹ EIOPA delivered its final advice in February 2012, on the basis of which Directorate-General for Internal Market and Services organised an exchange of views amongst stakeholders during a public hearing on 1 March 2012. Subsequently, the Commission Services conducted a Quantitative Impact Study on the quantitative requirements, as well as a study on administrative burden for aspects relating to governance and information disclosures. Both studies built on the contributions from the industry and social partners.

This proposal is accompanied by an impact assessment report that considers a range of policy options and sub-options. The report was first submitted to the Impact Assessment Board on 4 September 2013. The Board asked for resubmission with additional information on the views of the different stakeholder groups, problem definition, subsidiarity and proportionality aspects, options and expected impacts. The report was revised accordingly and the main changes were: (i) a more comprehensive description of the views of the Member States and different stakeholder categories; (ii) a more detailed explanation of the problems being addressed by the proposed action; (iii) as regards subsidiarity, a more detailed description of the case for EU action; (iv) a clarification that further harmonisation of supervisory reporting is not being proposed; (v) a new section on the impact of the initiative on small and medium-sized enterprises; and (vi) a more detailed description of the assumptions used in the calculation of the expected benefits and costs of the various options. The impact assessment was resubmitted on 16 October 2013. On 6 November the Board stated it could not issue a positive opinion and requested some further amendments.

3. LEGAL ELEMENTS OF THE PROPOSAL

3.1. Legal basis

This proposal recasts Directive 2003/41/EC. It simultaneously codifies its unchanged provisions and amends it. The legal bases of Directive 2003/41/EC are ex-Articles 47(2), 55 and 95 EC (currently Articles 53, 62 and 114(1) TFEU).

The proposal maintains the legal bases of the Directive. It seeks both to establish the internal market by means of freedom to provide services and freedom of establishment when regulating the taking-up and pursuit of activities as self-employed persons and when establishing a high level of protection for consumers.

Directive 2003/41/EC regulates areas such as the conditions of operations of IORPs, including a common approach to registration or authorisation, rules and procedures to be followed when IORPs wish to offer their services in other Member States, quantitative solvency rules, investment rules based on the prudent person principle, requirements on the effective management, including fit and proper requirements, the use of internal audit and actuarial services, risk management requirements, the use of depositories, information to be disclosed to members and beneficiaries and supervisory powers and reporting obligations.

This proposal further builds on these elements. As to the information to be disclosed by the IORP it, for example, introduces an EU-wide pension benefit statement. With regard to effective management of IORPs it lays down more detailed rules on fit and proper and key functions including risk management. The proposal also aims to facilitate cross-border activity.

The two objectives of Directive 2003/41/EC are retained. Neither of the objectives is secondary or indirect in relation to the other. For example, the professionalization of IORP management by defining the tasks and responsibilities of key management staff and the introduction of a forward-looking self-risk assessment strengthens consumer protection. Conversely, better information through the pension benefit statement empowers members and beneficiaries to hold IORP management more accountable. A higher level of harmonisation of those requirements facilitates cross-border activity by reducing transaction costs and stimulating market innovation.

3.2. Subsidiarity and proportionality

EU level action in this field adds value because action by Member States alone will not: (i) remove obstacles to cross-border activities of IORPs; (ii) ensure a higher EU-wide minimum level of consumer protection; (iii) lead to scale economies, risk diversification and innovation inherent to cross-border activity; (iv) avoid regulatory arbitrage between financial services sectors; (v) avoid regulatory arbitrage between Member States; and (vi) take into account the interests of cross-border workers.

Under the proposed action, Member States retain full responsibility for the organisation of their pension systems. The revision does not call this prerogative into question. Neither does the revision cover issues of national social and labour, fiscal or contract legislation.

The proposal complies with the principle of proportionality, as enshrined in Article 5(4) of the Treaty on European Union (TEU). The selected policy options seek to strike a balance between public interest, the protection of members and beneficiaries, as well as the costs for institutions, sponsors and supervisors. The options have been carefully considered, crafted as minimum standards and tailored taken into account different business models. This is why, overall, the proposal will stimulate occupational retirement provision.

3.3. References to other directives

This proposal is a recast exercise and refers to Directives 2003/41/EC, 2009/138/EC, 2010/78/EU²⁰, 2011/61/EU and 2013/14/EU²¹. Directive 2003/41/EC will be repealed by this Directive.

3.4. Detailed explanation of the proposal

As this is a recast of Directive 2003/41/EC, the detailed explanation below focusses solely on new provisions or provisions that are to be amended.

Title I – GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 6 now includes new and/or clarified definitions of "sponsoring undertaking", "home Member State", "host Member State", "transferring" and "receiving" institutions, "regulated market", "multilateral trading facility", "organised trading facility", "durable medium" and "key functions".

Article 9, in conjunction with Article 10, no longer list the conditions of operation separately but give responsibility to Member States to ensure that every institution is registered or authorised and that they have properly constituted rules for the pension scheme.

Article 12 is amended in three ways. First, it specifies that an institution carries out cross-border activity when it operates a pension scheme that is subject to the social and labour law of another Member State, including in situations where the institution and the sponsoring undertaking are located in the same Member State.²² Second, paragraph 4 requires a reasoned decision by a competent authority of the home Member State, should the authority ban cross-border activity. Moreover, where a competent authority of the home Member State does not notify a competent authority of the host Member State, it shall give reasons for its refusal. Third, the host Member State may no longer impose additional information requirements on institutions carrying out cross-border activities. This is because the proposal introduces a standardised pension benefit statement (see Articles 40 to 54).

Article 13 lays down new rules for the cross-border transfer of pension schemes which must be subject to prior authorisation by a competent authority of the home Member State of the receiving institution. Unless national social and labour law on the organisation of pension systems provides otherwise, the transfer and its conditions shall be subject to prior approval by members and beneficiaries concerned or, where applicable, their representatives. Article 13 also includes rules on exchange of information concerning the applicable social and labour law under which the pension scheme must be operated. Should, following the transfer, the receiving institution carry out a cross-border activity, Article 12(8) and (9) apply. The institution will operate the pension scheme in accordance with the social and labour law of the host Member State²³, thereby not changing the level of protection of the members and beneficiaries concerned by the transfer.

Title II – QUANTITATIVE REQUIREMENTS

Article 20 on investment rules is modified in three ways. First, the host Member State may no longer impose additional investment rules on institutions carrying out cross-border activities. This facilitates the organisation of investment management, in particular for defined contribution schemes. This does not undermine the protection of members and beneficiaries because it is matched by strengthened governance and supervisory rules. Second, Article 20(6)(a) has been updated to reflect the terminology used in Regulation (EU) No .../... [MiFIR]. Third, it replaces the ambiguous term 'risk capital markets' (Article 20(6) (c)) with a terminology that better reflects the original meaning of this provision, namely that Member States cannot restrict institutions from investing in long-term instruments that are not traded on regulated markets. Moreover, investment rules should not restrict investment in non-listed assets that finance low carbon and climate resilient infrastructure projects.

²² For example, the institution and the sponsoring undertaking are located in Member State A and the social and labour law applicable to the pension scheme is that of Member State B.

²³ The home Member State before the transfer becomes the host Member State after the transfer.

A further harmonisation of rules relating to the financial solvency situation of the institution is not being proposed.

Title III – CONDITIONS GOVERNING ACTIVITIES

For small IORPs, the proposal maintains the possibility for Member States to exclude institutions managing schemes which together have less than 100 members in total. For other IORPs, specific measures, for instance on the key functions and risk evaluation, ensure that governance requirements are proportionate.

CHAPTER 1 – System of governance

Except for Articles 31 and 32 (ex Articles 10 and 12), this Title is new to the Directive and lays down new detailed governance requirements for IORPs.

Article 21 sets out that the administrative, management or supervisory body of the IORP is ultimately responsible for the IORP's compliance with the laws, regulations and administrative provisions adopted pursuant to this Directive. The rules on governance of IORPs are without prejudice to the role of social partners in their management.

Article 22 establishes that institutions need to have in place an effective system of governance which provides for sound and prudent management of their activities. This system shall be proportionate to the nature, scale and complexity of the activities of the IORPs so as to ensure that the governance requirements will not be too burdensome for example for small institutions.

Article 23 requires IORPs to ensure that all persons who effectively run the IORP or have key functions have professional qualifications, knowledge and experience which are adequate to enable sound and prudent management of the IORP or to properly perform their key functions (fit) and that they are of good repute and integrity (proper).

Article 24 sets out that institutions must have a sound remuneration policy and that this policy is disclosed publicly. The article also proposes to empower the Commission to adopt a delegated act.

Article 25 sets out the general principles on key functions. IORPs may allow a single person or organisational unit to carry out more than one key function, but shall at all times allocate the risk management function to a different person or organisational unit than the internal audit function.

Article 26 states that IORPs need to have in place an effective risk-management system which is necessary to identify, monitor, manage and report on a continuous basis all risks, including those related to outsourced or subsequently re-outsourced activities, to which they are or could be exposed, and their interdependencies. The risk management should be proportionate to the size, internal organisation and the nature, scope and complexity of the institution's activities.

Article 27 provides for an effective internal audit function which evaluates the adequacy and effectiveness of the internal control system and other elements of its system of governance, including outsourced or subsequently re-outsourced activities. The internal audit function is to be assumed by at least one independent person, inside or outside of the institution.

Article 28 requires an effective actuarial function to co-ordinate and oversee the calculation of technical provisions as well as to assess the appropriateness of the methodologies and underlying models, where members and beneficiaries do not bear all the risks.

Article 29 sets out that institutions need to produce a risk evaluation for pensions regularly and without delay following any significant change in the institution's risk profile. The evaluation needs to demonstrate the compatibility of a number of elements in line with national requirements. The evaluation should include new or emerging risks relating to climate change, use of resources and the environment. The risk evaluation for pensions should be proportionate to the size, internal organisation and the nature, scope and complexity of the institution's activities.

Article 30 proposes to empower the Commission to adopt a delegated act with regard to the risk evaluation for pensions.

CHAPTER 2 – Outsourcing and investment management

Article 33 lays down the rules for contracting to third parties (outsourcing), including re-outsourced activities.

CHAPTER 3 – Depositary

Articles 35 to 37 set out that IORPs need to appoint a single depositary for safe-keeping of assets and oversight duties if members and beneficiaries fully bear the investment risk.

Title IV – INFORMATION TO BE GIVEN TO THE PROSPECTIVE MEMBERS, MEMBERS AND BENEFICIARIES

CHAPTER 1 – General provisions

This Chapter lays down the details of the information to be provided to members, prospective members, and after retirement, beneficiaries and building on former Article 11.

Article 38 sets out the general principle for information disclosures.

Article 39 lays down the type of information that members (and beneficiaries) need to receive, such as the rights and obligations of the parties, the risks and investment options and whether these are default or not. The conditions of the particular pension scheme must be published on a website by the institution concerned.

Article 40 places an obligation on IORPs to provide, every twelve months, a pension benefit statement ('PBS') for the individual in the clearest possible way, also as a basis to feed information into a potential pension tracking service as described in the White Paper on pensions.²⁴ Where Member States already provide for comprehensive information to individuals covering one or more pension pillars, they will maintain the flexibility to design their pension information systems, as long as they comply with the requirements of this proposal.

CHAPTER 2 – Pension Benefit Statement

Articles 40 to 44 lay down general provisions for the PBS - which is intended for active members of the pension scheme. The idea of the PBS is based on EIOPA's Advice to the European Commission on the review of the IORP Directive, draws on national best practices in several Member States and international work developed by the OECD²⁵. The PBS ensures comparability with information required by legislation in other financial sectors such as the key investor document for open investment funds (UCITS), while taking into account the specificities of the occupational pensions sector. Moreover, the PBS leaves sufficient leeway for Member States to introduce more specific requirements and integrated systems allowing for comparability between different pillars of the pension system.

The standardisation of the PBS should enable automatised production of the PBS and its potential outsourcing, thereby keeping costs low in particular for smaller institutions.

Articles 46 to 53 lay down the components of the PBS which shall be read together with Article 45. The components are as follows:

- personal details of the member;
- identification of the institution;
- guarantees;
- balance, contributions and costs;
- pension projections;
- investment profile;
- past performance; and
- supplementary information.

Article 54 proposes to empower the Commission to adopt a delegated act with regard to the PBS.

CHAPTER 3 – Other information and documents to be provided

This Chapter relates to information that should be provided by IORPs to members and beneficiaries in different pension stages such as just before enrolment, just before retirement or during the pay-out phase.

²⁴ Initiative 17 states that "[t]he Commission will promote the development of pension tracking services allowing people to keep track of their pension entitlements acquired in different jobs. It will consider, in the context of the revision of the IORP directive and the proposal for a portability directive, how the provision of the required information for pensions tracking can be ensured, and it will support a pilot project on cross-border tracking."

²⁵ OECD Roadmap for the good design of defined contribution pension plans, June 2012.

Article 55 lays down specific rules for IORP to provide information to prospective members prior to joining the IORP 's pension scheme.

Article 56 lays down the information to be given to members before retirement. This should be provided in addition to the PBS, at least two years before retirement, whether that is predefined or not.

Article 57 details the information to be given to beneficiaries during the pay-out phase. This information to beneficiaries should replace the PBS.

Article 58 lays down information to be given on request by members and beneficiaries.

Title V - PRUDENTIAL SUPERVISION

CHAPTER 1 – General rules on prudential supervision

Article 59 designates the protection of scheme members and beneficiaries as the main objective of prudential supervision.

Article 60 defines which areas are to be understood as belonging to prudential supervision in the context of this Directive. This Article takes away the legal uncertainty for IORPs caused by differences in scope of Member States' prudential regulation.

Article 61 sets out the general principles of prudential supervision. It, for example, lays down that the competent authority of the home Member State has the sole responsibility for the prudential supervision of all IORPs authorised or registered in its jurisdiction. The article furthermore establishes the principle that supervision of IORPs needs to be prospective and risk-based, as well as timely and proportionate.

Article 63 introduces the supervisory review process which aims to identify IORPs with financial, organisational or other features susceptible to producing a higher risk profile.

Article 64 ensures that all the new requirements introduced by this proposal are reflected in the power attributed to competent authorities with regard to the provision of information.

Article 65 sets out that competent authorities need to conduct their tasks in a transparent and accountable manner.

CHAPTER 2 – Professional secrecy and exchange of information

Articles 66 to 71 make provisions and lay down the conditions for the exchanges of information between competent authorities and authorities and bodies which help to strengthen the stability of the financial system.

Title VI – FINAL PROVISIONS

Articles 73 to 81 lay down cooperation and reporting obligations, conditions for the processing of the personal data. They include evaluation and review of the Directive, amendment of the Solvency II Directive 2009/138/EC, the implementation deadline of the Directive, repeals and addressees.

4. BUDGETARY IMPLICATIONS

Specific budgetary implications are assessed in the legislative financial statement and relate to tasks allocated to EIOPA.

~~The action plan for financial services stresses as an urgent priority the need to draw up a directive on the prudential supervision of institutions for occupational retirement provision, as these institutions are major financial institutions which have a key role to play in ensuring the integration, efficiency and liquidity of the financial markets, but they are not subject to a coherent Community legislative framework allowing them to benefit fully from the advantages of the internal market.~~

²⁷ See Annex I, Part A.

↓ new

- (3) Directive 2003/41/EC represented a first legislative step on the way to an internal market for occupational retirement provision organised on a European scale. A genuine internal market for occupational retirement provision remains crucial for economic growth and job creation in the European Union and for tackling the challenge of an ageing European society. The Directive, dating from 2003, has not been substantially amended to introduce a modern risk-based governance system also for institutions for occupational retirement provision.

- (4) ⇒ Action is needed to further develop complementary private retirement savings such as occupational pensions. This is important since social-security systems are coming under increasing pressure, which means that citizens will increasingly rely on occupational retirement pensions as a complement in the future. ~~↳ Since social security systems are coming under increasing pressure, occupational retirement pensions will increasingly be relied on as a complement in future.~~ Occupational retirement pensions should therefore be developed, without, however, calling into question the importance of social-security pension systems in terms of secure, durable and effective social protection, which should guarantee a decent standard of living in old age and should therefore be at the centre of the objective of strengthening the European social model.

- (5) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, notably, the right to protection of personal data, the right to conduct a business and the right to a high level of consumer protection, in particular by ensuring a higher level of transparency of retirement provisioning, informed personal financial and retirement planning as well as facilitating cross-border business of institutions for occupational retirement provision and businesses. This Directive must be implemented in accordance with these rights and principles.

- (6) Despite the entry into force of Directive 2003/41/EC important prudential barriers remain which make it more expensive for institutions to operate pension schemes across borders. Moreover, the current minimum level of protection for members and beneficiaries needs to be increased. This is all the more important as the number of Europeans relying on schemes that shift longevity and market risks from the institution or the undertaking offering the occupational scheme ("sponsoring undertaking") to the individual has increased significantly. In addition, the current minimum level of information provision to members and beneficiaries needs to be increased. Those developments warrant an amendment of the Directive.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital

- (7) The prudential rules laid down in this Directive are intended both to guarantee a high degree of security for future pensioners through the imposition of stringent supervisory standards, and to clear the way for the efficient management of occupational pension schemes.

- (9) In accordance with the principle of subsidiarity, Member States should retain full responsibility for the organisation of their pension systems as well as for the decision on the role of each of the three "pillars" of the retirement system in individual Member States. In the context of the second pillar, they should also retain full responsibility for the role and functions of the various institutions providing occupational retirement benefits, such as industry-wide pension funds, company pension funds and life-assurance companies. This Directive is not intended to call this prerogative into question.

- (10) National rules concerning the participation of self-employed persons in institutions for occupational retirement provision differ. In some Member States, institutions for occupational retirement provision can operate on the basis of agreements with trade or trade groups whose members act in a self-employed capacity or directly with self-employed and employed persons. In some Member States a self-employed person can also become a member of an institution when the self-employed person acts as employer or provides ~~his~~ professional services to an undertaking. In some Member States self-employed persons cannot join an institution for occupational retirement provision unless certain requirements, including those imposed by social and labour law, are met.

- (11) Institutions managing social-security schemes, which are already coordinated at Community Union level, should be excluded from the scope of this Directive. Account should nevertheless be taken of the specificity of institutions which, in a single Member State, manage both social-security schemes and occupational pension schemes.

12

- (12) Financial institutions which already benefit from a Community Union legislative framework should in general be excluded from the scope of this Directive. However, as these institutions may also in some cases offer occupational pension services, it is important to ensure that this Directive does not lead to distortions of competition. Such distortions may be avoided by applying the prudential requirements of this Directive to the occupational pension business of life-assurance companies. The Commission should also carefully monitor the situation in the occupational pensions market and assess the possibility of extending the optional application of this Directive to other regulated financial institutions.

13

- (13) When aiming at ensuring financial security in retirement, the benefits paid by institutions for occupational retirement provision should generally provide for the payment of a lifelong pension. Payments for a temporary period or a lump sum should also be possible.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
14

- (14) It is important to ensure that older and disabled people are not placed at risk of poverty and can enjoy a decent standard of living. Appropriate cover for biometrical risks in occupational pension arrangements is an important aspect of the fight against poverty and insecurity among elderly people. When setting up a pension scheme, employers and employees, or their respective representatives, should consider the possibility of the pension scheme including provisions for the coverage of the longevity risk and occupational disability risks as well as provision for surviving dependants.

- (15) Giving Member States the possibility to exclude from the scope of national implementing legislation institutions managing schemes which together have less than 100 members in total can facilitate supervision in some Member States, without undermining the proper functioning of the internal market in this field. However, this should not undermine the right of such institutions to appoint for the management of their investment portfolio and the custody of their assets investment managers and custodians established in another Member State and duly authorised.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital

- (16) Institutions such as "Unterstützungskassen" in Germany, where the members have no legal rights to benefits of a certain amount and where their interests are protected by a compulsory statutory insolvency insurance, should be excluded from the scope of the Directive.

- (17) In order to protect members and beneficiaries, institutions for occupational retirement provision should limit their activities to the activities, and those arising therefrom, referred to in this Directive.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
18

- (18) In the event of the bankruptcy of a sponsoring undertaking, a member faces the risk of losing both his/her job and his/her acquired pension rights. This makes it necessary to ensure that there is a clear separation between that undertaking and the institution and that minimum prudential standards are laid down to protect members.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
19

- (19) Institutions for occupational retirement provision operate and are supervised with significant differences in Member States. In some Member States, supervision can be exercised not only over the institution itself but also over the entities or companies which are authorised to manage these institutions. Member States should be able to take such specificity into account as long as all the requirements laid down in this Directive are effectively met. Member States should also be able to allow insurance entities and other financial entities to manage institutions for occupational retirement provision.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
20

- (20) Institutions for occupational retirement provision are financial service providers which bear a heavy responsibility for the provision of occupational retirement benefits and therefore should meet certain minimum prudential standards with respect to their activities and conditions of operation.

- (21) The huge number of institutions in certain Member States means a pragmatic solution is necessary as regards prior authorisation of institutions. - (23) The exercise of the right of an institution in one Member State to manage an occupational pension scheme contracted in another Member State should fully respect the provisions of the social and labour law in force in the host Member State insofar as it is relevant to occupational pensions, for example the definition and payment of retirement benefits and the conditions for transferability of pension rights. ⇒ The scope of prudential rules should be clarified in order to ensure legal certainty for the cross-border activities of the institutions. ⇐

- (24) Institutions should be able to transfer pension schemes to other institutions across borders within the Union in order to facilitate the organisation of occupational retirement provision on a Union scale, subject only to authorisation from the competent authority in the home Member State of the institution receiving the pension scheme (the "receiving institution"). Unless national social and labour law on pension systems provides otherwise, the transfer and its conditions should be subject to prior approval by members and beneficiaries concerned or, where applicable, their representatives.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
26

- (25) A prudent calculation of technical provisions is an essential condition to ensure that obligations to pay retirement benefits can be met. Technical provisions should be calculated on the basis of recognised actuarial methods and certified by qualified persons. The maximum interest rates should be chosen prudently according to any relevant national rules. The minimum amount of technical provisions should both be sufficient for benefits already in payment to beneficiaries to continue to be paid and reflect the commitments that arise out of members' accrued pension rights.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
27

- (26) Risks covered by institutions vary significantly from one Member State to another. Home Member States should therefore have the possibility of making the calculation of technical provisions subject to additional and more detailed rules than those laid down in this Directive.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
28

- (27) Sufficient and appropriate assets to cover the technical provisions protect the interests of members and beneficiaries of the pension scheme if the sponsoring undertaking becomes insolvent. In particular in cases of cross-border activity, the mutual recognition of supervisory principles applied in Member States requires that the technical provisions be fully funded at all times.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
29

- (28) If the institution does not work on a cross-border basis, Member States should be able to permit underfunding provided that a proper plan is established to restore full funding and without prejudice to the requirements of Council Directive 80/987/EEC of 20 October 1980 on the approximation of the laws of the Member States relating to the protection of employees in the event of the insolvency of their employer.²⁸

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
30

- (29) In many cases, it could be the sponsoring undertaking and not the institution itself that either covers any biometric risk or guarantees certain benefits or investment performance. However, in some cases, it is the institution itself which provides such cover or guarantees and the sponsor's obligations are generally exhausted by paying the necessary contributions. In these circumstances, the products offered are similar to those of life-assurance companies and the institutions concerned should hold at least the same additional own funds as life-assurance companies.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
31

- (30) Institutions are very long-term investors. Redemption of the assets held by these institutions cannot, in general, be made for any purpose other than providing retirement benefits. Furthermore, in order to protect adequately the rights of members and beneficiaries, institutions should be able to opt for an asset allocation that suits the precise nature and duration of their liabilities. These aspects call for efficient supervision and an approach towards investment rules allowing institutions sufficient flexibility to decide on the most secure and efficient investment policy and obliging them to act prudently. Compliance with the "prudent person" rule therefore requires an investment policy geared to the membership structure of the individual institution for occupational retirement provision.

6 (adapted)

- (31) ~~This Directive thus represents a first step on the way to an internal market for occupational retirement provision organised on a European scale.~~ By setting the "prudent person" rule as the underlying principle for capital investment and making it possible for institutions to operate across borders, the redirection of savings into the sector of occupational retirement provision is encouraged, thus contributing to economic and social progress.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital

- (32) Supervisory methods and practices vary among Member States. Therefore, Member States should be given some discretion on the precise investment rules that they wish to impose on the institutions located in their territories. However, these rules ~~must~~ ☒ should ☒ not restrict the free movement of capital, unless justified on prudential grounds.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital

(33) As very long-term investors with low liquidity risks, institutions for occupational retirement provision are in a position to invest in non-liquid assets such as shares as well as in ⇒ instruments that have a long-term economic profile and are not traded on regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities or organised trading facilities ⇐ ~~risk capital markets~~ within prudent limits. They can also benefit from the advantages of international diversification. Investments in shares, ~~risk capital markets~~ and ☒ in ☒ currencies other than those of the liabilities ⇒ and in instruments that have a long-term economic profile and are not traded on regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities or organised trading facilities ⇐ should therefore not be restricted except on prudential grounds.

↓ new

(34) The understanding of what constitutes instruments with a long-term economic profile is broad. These instruments are non-transferable securities and therefore do not have access to the liquidity of secondary markets. They often require fixed term commitments which restrict their marketability. These instruments should be understood to include participations, debt instruments in non-listed undertakings and loans provided to them. Non-listed undertakings include infrastructure projects, unlisted companies seeking growth, real estate or other assets that could be suitable for long term investment purposes. Low carbon and climate resilient infrastructure projects are often non-listed assets and rely on long term credits for project financing.

~~However, if the institution works on a cross-border basis, it may be asked by the competent authorities of the host Member State to apply limits for investment in shares and similar assets not admitted to trading on a regulated market, in shares and other instruments issued by the same undertaking or in assets denominated in non-matching currencies provided such rules also apply to institutions located in the host Member State.~~

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
35 (adapted)

~~Restrictions regarding the free choice by institutions of approved asset managers and custodians limit competition in the internal market and should therefore be eliminated.~~

- (35) Institutions should be allowed to invest in other Member States in accordance with the rules of their home Member States in order to reduce the cost of cross-border activity. Therefore the host Member States should not be allowed to impose additional investment requirements on institutions located in other Member States.
- (36) Some risks cannot be reduced through quantitative requirements reflected in the technical provisions and funding requirements but can only be properly addressed through governance requirements. Ensuring an effective system of governance is therefore essential for the adequate management of risk. Those systems should be proportionate to the nature, scale and complexity of the activities.
- (37) Remuneration policies which encourage excessive risk-taking behaviour can undermine sound and effective risk management of institutions. Principles and disclosure requirements for remuneration policies applicable to other types of financial institutions in the Union should be made applicable also to institutions, bearing in mind, however, the particular governance structure of institutions in comparison to other types of financial institutions and the need to take account of the size, nature, scope and complexity of the activities of institutions.
- (38) A key function is an internal capacity to undertake particular governance tasks. Institutions should have sufficient capacity to have a risk-management function, an internal audit function and, where applicable, an actuarial function. The identification of a particular key function does not prevent the institution from freely deciding how to organise that key function in practice save where otherwise specified in this Directive. This should not lead to unduly burdensome requirements because account should be taken of the nature, scale and complexity of the activities of the institution.
- (39) All persons that perform key functions should be fit and proper. However, only the key function holders should be subject to notification requirements to the competent authority.
- (40) Furthermore, with the exception of the internal audit function, in smaller and less complex institutions it should be possible for a single person or organisational unit to carry out more than one key function. However, the person or unit performing a key function should be different from the one performing a similar key function in the sponsoring undertaking; although the competent authority should be authorised to grant an exemption taking into account the size, nature, scope and complexity of the activities of institutions.
- (41) It is essential that institutions improve their risk management so that potential vulnerabilities in relation to the sustainability of the pension scheme can be properly understood and discussed with the competent authorities. Institutions should, as part of their risk management system, produce a risk evaluation for their activities relating to pensions. That risk evaluation should also be made available to the competent authorities. In that evaluation institutions should provide among others a qualitative description of key elements determining their funding position in accordance with national law, the effectiveness of their risk-management system and the ability to comply with the requirements regarding technical provisions. This risk evaluation should include new or emerging risks, such as risks related to climate change, resource use or the environment.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
22

- (42) Each Member State should require that every institution located in its territory draw up annual accounts and annual reports taking into account each pension scheme operated by the institution and, where applicable, annual accounts and annual reports for each pension scheme. The annual accounts and annual reports, reflecting a true and fair view of the institution's assets, liabilities and financial position, taking into account each pension scheme operated by an institution, and duly approved by an authorised person, are an essential source of information for members and beneficiaries of a scheme and the competent authorities. In particular, they enable the competent authorities to monitor the financial soundness of an institution and assess whether the institution is able to meet all its contractual obligations.

↓ 2003/41/EC recital
24

- (43) The investment policy of an institution is a decisive factor for both security and affordability of occupational pensions. The institutions should therefore draw up and, at least every three years, review a statement of investment principles. It should be made available to the competent authorities and on request also to members and beneficiaries of each pension scheme.

- (44) Institutions should be allowed to entrust their management, in whole or in part, to other entities operating on their behalf. Institutions should remain fully responsible for discharging all of their obligations under this Directive when they outsource key functions or any other activities.
- (45) The safe-keeping and oversight duties related to the assets of institutions should be strengthened by clarifying the depositary's roles and duties. Only institutions operating schemes where members and beneficiaries bear all the risks should be required to appoint a depositary.

~~Proper information for members and beneficiaries of a pension scheme is crucial. This is of particular relevance for requests for information concerning the~~

~~financial soundness of the institution, the contractual rules, the benefits and the actual financing of accrued pension entitlements, the investment policy and the management of risks and costs.~~

↓ new

- (46) Institutions should provide clear and adequate information to prospective members, members and beneficiaries to support their decision-making about their retirement and ensure a high level of transparency throughout the various phases of a scheme comprising pre-enrolment, membership (including pre-retirement) and post-retirement. In particular, information concerning accrued pension entitlements, projected levels of retirement benefits, risks and guarantees, and costs should be given. Where members bear an investment risk, additional information on the investment profile, any available options and past performance are also crucial.
- (47) Before joining a scheme, prospective members should be given all the necessary information to make an informed choice such as possibilities to opt out, contributions, costs and investment options, where applicable.
- (48) For the institution's members that have not yet retired, institutions should draw up a standardised pension benefit statement containing key personal and generic information about the pension scheme. The pension benefit statement should have a standard format in order to facilitate the understanding of pension entitlements over time and across schemes and serve labour mobility.
- (49) Institutions should inform members sufficiently in advance before retirement about their pay-out options. Where the retirement benefit is not paid out as a lifetime annuity, members that approach retirement should receive information about the benefit payment products available, in order to facilitate financial planning for retirement.
- (50) During the phase when retirement benefits are paid, beneficiaries should continue to receive information on their benefits and corresponding payment options. This is particularly important when a significant level of investment risk is borne by beneficiaries in the pay-out phase.
- (51) The competent authority should exercise its powers having as its prime objective the protection of members and beneficiaries.
- (52) The scope of prudential supervision differs between Member States. This can cause problems where an institution needs to comply with the prudential regulation of its home Member State whilst simultaneously comply with the social and labour law of its host Member State. Clarifying which areas are considered to be part of prudential supervision for the purpose of this Directive reduces legal uncertainty and the associated transaction costs.
- (53) An internal market for institutions requires mutual recognition of prudential standards. The institution's adherence to those standards should be supervised by the competent authorities of the institution's home Member State. Member States should attribute to competent authorities the necessary powers to use preventive or corrective measures if institutions breach any of the requirements of this Directive.

25 (adapted)

~~To fulfil their statutory function, the competent authorities should be provided with adequate rights to information and powers of intervention with respect to institutions and the persons who effectively run them. Where an institution for occupational retirement provision has transferred functions of material importance such as investment management, information technology or accounting to other companies (outsourcing), it should be possible for the rights to information and powers of intervention to be enlarged so as to cover these outsourced functions in order to check whether those activities are carried out in accordance with the supervisory rules.~~

- (54) In order to ensure effective supervision of outsourced activities, including all subsequent re-outsourcing activities, it is essential that the competent authorities have access to all relevant data held by the service providers to whom activities have been outsourced, regardless of whether the latter is a regulated or unregulated entity, and have the right to conduct on-site inspections. In order to take account of market developments and to ensure continuous compliance with the conditions for outsourcing, institutions should inform competent authorities prior to the outsourcing of critical or important activities.
- (55) Provision should be made for exchanges of information between the competent authorities, other authorities and bodies tasked with strengthening of financial stability and the termination of pension schemes. It is therefore necessary to specify the conditions under which those exchanges of information should be possible. Moreover, where information may be disclosed only with the express agreement of the competent authorities, those authorities should be able, where appropriate, to make their agreement subject to compliance with strict conditions.
- (56) Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁹ governs the processing of personal data carried out in the Member States in the context of this Directive and under the supervision of the competent authorities. Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council³⁰, governs the processing of personal data carried out by the European Supervisory Authorities pursuant to this Directive and under the supervision of the European Data Protection Supervisor. ³⁰ Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 December 2000 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data by the Community institutions and bodies on the free movement of such data (OJ L 8, 12.01.2001, p. 1)

- (57) In order to ensure the smooth functioning of the internal market for occupational retirement provision organised on a European scale, the Commission should, after consulting EIOPA, review and report on the application of this Directive and should submit that report to the European Parliament and to the Council four years after the entry into force of this Directive. That review should assess in particular the application of the rules regarding the calculation of the technical provisions, the funding of technical provisions, regulatory own funds, solvency margins, investment rules and any other aspect relating to the financial solvency situation of the institution.
- (58) In order to ensure fair competition between institutions, the transitional period allowing insurance undertakings subject to Directive 2009/138/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council³¹ to operate their occupational-retirement-provision-business under the rules referred to in Article 4 of Directive 2009/138/EC should be extended until 31 December 2022. Directive 2009/138/EC should therefore be amended accordingly.
- (59) In order to specify the requirements set out in this Directive, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission in respect of clarifying the remuneration policy, the risk evaluation for pensions and the pension benefit statement. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level. The Commission, when preparing and drawing up delegated acts, should ensure a simultaneous, timely and appropriate transmission of relevant documents to the European Parliament and to the Council.

Title II

QUANTITATIVE REQUIREMENTS

↓ 2003/41/EC

Article ~~15~~ 14

Technical provisions

1. The home Member State shall ensure that institutions operating occupational pension schemes establish at all times in respect of the total range of their pension schemes an adequate amount of liabilities corresponding to the financial commitments which arise out of their portfolio of existing pension contracts.

2. The home Member State shall ensure that institutions operating occupational pension schemes, where they provide cover against biometric risks ~~and/or~~ guarantee either an investment performance or a given level of benefits, establish sufficient technical provisions in respect of the total range of these schemes.

3. The calculation of technical provisions shall take place every year. However, the home Member State may allow a calculation once every three years if the institution provides members ~~and/or~~ the competent authorities with a certification or a report of adjustments for the intervening years. The certification or the report shall reflect the adjusted development of the technical provisions and changes in risks covered.

4. The calculation of the technical provisions shall be executed and certified by an actuary or, ~~if not by an actuary,~~ by another specialist in this field, including an auditor, according to national legislation, on the basis of actuarial methods recognised by the competent authorities of the home Member State, according to the following principles:

(a) the minimum amount of the technical provisions shall be calculated by a sufficiently prudent actuarial valuation, taking account of all commitments for benefits and for contributions in accordance with the pension arrangements of the institution. It must be sufficient both for pensions and benefits already in payment to beneficiaries to continue to be paid, and to reflect the commitments which arise out of members' accrued pension rights. The economic and actuarial assumptions chosen for the valuation of the liabilities shall also be chosen prudently taking account, if applicable, of an appropriate margin for adverse deviation;

(b) the maximum rates of interest used shall be chosen prudently and determined in accordance with any relevant rules of the home Member State. These prudent rates of interest shall be determined by taking into account:

(i) the yield on the corresponding assets held by the institution and the future investment returns and/or

(ii) the market yields of high-quality or government bonds;

(c) the biometric tables used for the calculation of technical provisions shall be based on prudent principles, having regard to the main characteristics of the group of members and the pension schemes, in particular the expected changes in the relevant risks;

(d) the method and basis of calculation of technical provisions shall in general remain constant from one financial year to another. However, discontinuities may be justified by a change of legal, demographic or economic circumstances underlying the assumptions.

5. The home Member State may make the calculation of technical provisions subject to additional and more detailed requirements, with a view to ensuring that the interests of members and beneficiaries are adequately protected.

2010/78/EU Art. 4.4

~~6. With a view to further harmonisation of the rules regarding the calculation of technical provisions which may be justified — in particular the interest rates and other assumptions influencing the level of technical provisions — the Commission, drawing on advice from EIOPA, shall, every 2 years or at the request of a~~

~~Member State, issue a report on the situation concerning the development in cross-border activities.~~

↓ 2003/41/EC

~~The Commission shall propose any necessary measures to prevent possible distortions caused by different levels of interest rates and to protect the interest of beneficiaries and members of any scheme.~~

Article ~~16~~ 15

Funding of technical provisions

1. The home Member State shall require every institution to have at all times sufficient and appropriate assets to cover the technical provisions in respect of the total range of pension schemes operated.

2. The home Member State may allow an institution, for a limited period of time, to have insufficient assets to cover the technical provisions. In this case the competent authorities shall require the institution to adopt a concrete and realisable recovery plan in order to ensure that the requirements of paragraph 1 are met again. The plan shall be subject to the following conditions:

(a) the institution shall set up a concrete and realisable plan to re-establish the required amount of assets to cover fully the technical provisions in due time. The plan shall be made available to members or, where applicable, to their representatives and/or shall be subject to approval by the competent authorities of the home Member State;

(b) in drawing up the plan, account shall be taken of the specific situation of the institution, in particular the asset/liability structure, risk profile, liquidity plan, the age profile of the members entitled to receive retirement benefits, start-up schemes and schemes changing from non-funding or partial funding to full funding;

(c) in the event of termination of a pension scheme during the period referred to ~~above in~~ in the first sentence of this paragraph, the institution shall inform the competent authorities of the home Member State. The institution shall establish a procedure in order to transfer the assets and the corresponding liabilities to another financial institution or a similar body. This procedure shall be disclosed to the competent authorities of the home Member State and a general outline of the procedure shall be made available to members or, where applicable, to their representatives in accordance with the principle of confidentiality.

3. In the event of cross-border activity as referred to in Article ~~1220~~, the technical provisions shall at all times be fully funded in respect of the total range of pension schemes operated. If these conditions are not met, the competent authorities of the home Member State shall intervene in accordance with Article ~~6244~~. To comply with this requirement the home Member State may require ring-fencing of the assets and liabilities.

Article ~~17~~ 16

Regulatory own funds

1. The home Member State shall ensure that institutions operating pension schemes, where the institution itself, and not the sponsoring undertaking, underwrites the liability to cover against biometric risk, or guarantees a given investment performance or a given level of benefits, hold on a permanent basis additional assets above the technical provisions to serve as a buffer. The amount thereof shall reflect the type of risk and asset base in respect of the total range of schemes operated. These assets shall be free of all foreseeable liabilities and serve as a safety capital to absorb discrepancies between the anticipated and the actual expenses and profits.

↓ 2009/138/EC Art.
303.1 (adapted)

2. For the purposes of calculating the minimum amount of additional assets, the rules laid down in Articles ~~17a to 17d~~ 17, 18 and 19 shall apply.

2003/41/EC

3. Paragraph 1 shall, however, not prevent Member States from requiring institutions located in their territory to hold regulatory own funds or from laying down more detailed rules provided that they are prudentially justified.

(a) the paid-up share capital or, in the case of an institution taking the form of a mutual undertaking, the effective initial fund plus any accounts of the members of the mutual undertaking which fulfil the following criteria:

(i) the memorandum and articles of association must stipulate that payments may be made from those accounts to members of the mutual undertaking only in so far as this does not cause the available solvency margin to fall below the required level or, after the dissolution of the undertaking, where all the undertaking's other debts have been settled;

(ii) the memorandum and articles of association must stipulate, with respect to any payments referred to in point (i) for reasons other than the individual termination of membership in the mutual undertaking, that the competent authorities must be notified at least one month in advance and can prohibit the payment within that period; and

(iii) the relevant provisions of the memorandum and articles of association may be amended only after the competent authorities have declared that they have no objection to the amendment, without prejudice to the criteria stated in points (i) and (ii);

(b) reserves (statutory and free) not corresponding to underwriting liabilities;

(c) the profit or loss brought forward after deduction of dividends to be paid; and

(d) in so far as authorised under national law, profit reserves appearing in the balance sheet where they may be used to cover any losses which may arise and where they have not been made available for distribution to members and beneficiaries.

The available solvency margin shall be reduced by the amount of own shares directly held by the institution.

3. Member States may provide that the available solvency margin may also comprise:

(a) cumulative preferential share capital and subordinated loan capital up to 50 % of the lesser of the available solvency margin and the required solvency margin, no more than 25 % of which shall consist of subordinated loans with a fixed maturity, or fixed-term cumulative preferential share capital, provided that binding agreements exist under which, in the event of the bankruptcy or liquidation of the institution, the subordinated loan capital or preferential share capital ranks after the claims of all other creditors and is not to be repaid until all other debts outstanding at the time have been settled;

(b) securities with no specified maturity date and other instruments, including cumulative preferential shares other than those referred to in point (a), to a maximum of 50 % of the available solvency margin, or the required solvency margin, whichever the lesser, for the total of such securities, and the subordinated loan capital referred to in point (a) provided they fulfil the following conditions:

(i) they must not be repaid on the initiative of the bearer or without the prior consent of the competent authority;

(ii) the contract of issue must enable the institution to defer the payment of interest on the loan;

(iii) the lender's claims on the institution must rank entirely after those of all non-subordinated creditors;

(iv) the documents governing the issue of the securities must provide for the loss-absorption capacity of the debt and unpaid interest, while enabling the institution to continue its business; and

(v) only fully paid-up amounts must be taken into account.

For the purposes of point (a), subordinated loan capital shall also fulfil the following conditions:

(i) only fully paid-up funds shall be taken into account;

(ii) for loans with a fixed maturity, the original maturity shall be at least five years. No later than one year before the repayment date, the institution shall submit to the competent authorities for their approval a plan showing how the available solvency margin will be kept at or brought to the required level at maturity, unless the extent to which the loan may rank as a component of the available solvency margin is gradually reduced during at least the five years before the repayment date. The competent authorities may authorise the early repayment of such loans provided application is made by the issuing institution and its available solvency margin will not fall below the required level;

(iii) loans the maturity of which is not fixed shall be repayable only subject to five years' notice unless the loans are no longer considered as a component of the available solvency margin or unless the prior consent of the competent authorities is specifically required for early repayment. In the latter event the institution shall notify the competent authorities at least six months before the date of the proposed repayment, specifying the available solvency margin and the required solvency margin both before and after that repayment. The competent authorities shall authorise repayment only where the institution's available solvency margin will not fall below the required level;

(iv) the loan agreement shall not include any clause providing that in specified circumstances, other than the winding-up of the institution, the debt will become repayable before the agreed repayment dates; and

(v) the loan agreement may be amended only after the competent authorities have declared that they have no objection to the amendment.

4. Upon application, with supporting evidence, by the institution to the competent authority of the home Member State and with the agreement of that competent authority, the available solvency margin may also comprise:

(a) where Zillmerising is not practised or where, if practised, it is less than the loading for acquisition costs included in the premium, the difference between a non-Zillmerised or partially Zillmerised mathematical provision and a mathematical provision Zillmerised at a rate equal to the loading for acquisition costs included in the premium;

(b) any hidden net reserves arising out of the valuation of assets, in so far as such hidden net reserves are not of an exceptional nature;

(c) one half of the unpaid share capital or initial fund, once the paid-up part amounts to 25 % of that share capital or fund, up to 50 % of the available or required solvency margin, whichever is the lesser.

The figure referred to in point (a) shall not exceed 3,5 % of the sum of the differences between the relevant capital sums of life assurance and occupational retirement provision activities and the mathematical provisions for all policies for which Zillmerising is possible. The difference shall be reduced by the amount of any undepreciated acquisition costs entered as an asset.

~~5. The Commission may adopt implementing measures relating to paragraphs 2 to 4 in order to take account of developments that justify a technical adjustment of the elements eligible for the available solvency margin.~~

~~Those measures, designed to amend non-essential elements of this Directive by supplementing it, shall be adopted in accordance with the regulatory procedure with scrutiny referred to in Article 21b.~~

Article ~~17b~~ 18

Required solvency margin

1. ~~Subject to Article 17e,~~ The required solvency margin shall be determined as laid down in paragraphs 2 to 6 according to the liabilities underwritten.

2. The required solvency margin shall be equal to the sum of the following results:

(a) the first result:

a 4 % fraction of the mathematical provisions relating to direct business and reinsurance acceptances gross of reinsurance cessions shall be multiplied by the ratio, which shall not be less than 85 %, for the previous financial year, of the mathematical provisions net of reinsurance cessions to the gross total mathematical provisions;

(b) the second result:

for policies on which the capital at risk is not a negative figure, a 0,3 % fraction of such capital underwritten by the institution shall be multiplied by the ratio, which shall not be less than 50 %, for the previous financial year, of the total capital at risk retained as the institution's liability after reinsurance cessions and retrocessions to the total capital at risk gross of reinsurance.

For temporary assurances on death of a maximum term of three years, that fraction shall be 0,1 %. For such assurance of a term of more than three years but not more than five years, that fraction shall be 0,15 %.

3. For supplementary insurances referred to in Article 2(3)(a)(iii) of Directive 2009/138/EC ~~of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 November 2009 on the taking-up and pursuit of the business of Insurance and Reinsurance (Solvency II)~~ the required solvency margin shall be equal to the required solvency margin for institutions as laid down in Article ~~17d~~ 19.

4. For capital redemption operations referred to in Article 2(3)(b)(ii) of Directive 2009/138/EC, the required solvency margin shall be equal to a 4 % fraction of the mathematical provisions calculated in compliance with paragraph 2(a).

6. For assurances covered by Article 2(3)(a)(i) and (ii) of Directive 2009/138/EC linked to investment funds and for the operations referred to in Article 2(3)(b)(iii), (iv) and (v) of Directive 2009/138/EC, the required solvency margin shall be equal to the sum of the following:

(a) in so far as the institution bears an investment risk, a 4 % fraction of the technical provisions, calculated in compliance with paragraph 2(a);

(b) in so far as the institution bears no investment risk but the allocation to cover management expenses is fixed for a period exceeding five years, a 1 % fraction of the technical provisions, calculated in compliance with paragraph 2(a);

(c) in so far as the institution bears no investment risk and the allocation to cover management expenses is not fixed for a period exceeding five years, an amount equivalent to 25 % of the net administrative expenses of the previous financial year pertaining to such business;

(d) in so far as the institution covers a death risk, a 0,3 % fraction of the capital at risk calculated in compliance with paragraph 2(b).

Guarantee fund

~~1. Member States may provide that one third of the required solvency margin as specified in Article 17b shall constitute the guarantee fund. That fund shall comprise the items listed in Article 17a(2) and (3) and, subject to the agreement of the competent authority of the home Member State, in Article 17a(4)(b).~~

~~2. The guarantee fund shall not be less than EUR 3 million. Any Member State may provide for a 25 % reduction of the minimum guarantee fund in the case of mutual and mutual-type undertakings.~~

Article ~~17a~~ 19

Required solvency margin for the purpose of Article ~~17b~~18(3)

1. The required solvency margin shall be determined on the basis either of the annual amount of premiums or contributions, or of the average burden of claims for the past three financial years.
2. The amount of the required solvency margin shall be equal to the higher of the two results as set out in paragraphs 3 and 4.
3. The premium basis shall be calculated using the higher of gross written premiums or contributions as calculated below, and gross earned premiums or contributions.

The premiums or contributions (inclusive of charges ancillary to premiums or contributions) due in respect of direct business in the previous financial year shall be aggregated.

To that sum there shall be added the amount of premiums accepted for all reinsurance in the previous financial year.

From that sum there shall then be deducted the total amount of premiums or contributions cancelled in the previous financial year, as well as the total amount of taxes and levies pertaining to the premiums or contributions entering into the aggregate.

The amount so obtained shall be divided into two portions, the first extending up to EUR 50 million, the second comprising the excess; 18 % of the first portion and 16 % of the second shall be added together.

The sum so obtained shall be multiplied by the ratio existing in respect of the sum of the previous three financial years between the amount of claims remaining to be borne by the institution after deduction of amounts recoverable under reinsurance and the gross amount of claims. That ratio shall be no less than 50 %.

4. The claims basis shall be calculated, as follows:

The amounts of claims paid in respect of direct business (without any deduction of claims borne by reinsurers and retrocessionaires) in the periods specified in paragraph 1 shall be aggregated.

To that sum there shall be added the amount of claims paid in respect of reinsurances or retrocessions accepted during the same periods and the amount of provisions for claims outstanding established at the end of the previous financial year both for direct business and for reinsurance acceptances.

From that sum there shall be deducted the amount of recoveries effected during the periods specified in paragraph 1.

From the sum then remaining, there shall be deducted the amount of provisions for claims outstanding established at the commencement of the second financial year preceding the last financial year for which there are accounts, both for direct business and for reinsurance acceptances.

One third of the amount so obtained shall be divided into two portions, the first extending up to EUR 35 million and the second comprising the excess; 26 % of the first portion and 23 % of the second, shall be added together.

The sum so obtained shall be multiplied by the ratio existing in respect of the sum of the previous three financial years between the amount of claims remaining to be borne by the institution after deduction of amounts recoverable under reinsurance and the gross amount of claims. That ratio shall be no less than 50 %.

5. Where the required solvency margin as calculated in paragraphs 2 to 4 is lower than the required solvency margin of the preceding year, the required solvency margin shall be at least equal to the required solvency margin of the preceding year, multiplied by the ratio of the amount of the technical provisions for claims outstanding at the end of the previous financial year and the amount of the technical provisions for claims outstanding at the beginning of the previous financial year. In those calculations technical provisions shall be calculated net of reinsurance but the ratio may be no higher than 1.

Investment rules

1. Member States shall require institutions located in their territories to invest in accordance with the 'prudent person' rule and in particular in accordance with the following rules:

(a) the assets shall be invested in the best interests of members and beneficiaries. In the case of a potential conflict of interest, the institution, or the entity which manages its portfolio, shall ensure that the investment is made in the sole interest of members and beneficiaries;

(b) the assets shall be invested in such a manner as to ensure the security, quality, liquidity and profitability of the portfolio as a whole.

Assets held to cover the technical provisions shall also be invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the expected future retirement benefits;

(c) the assets shall be predominantly invested on regulated markets. Investment in assets which are not admitted to trading on a regulated financial market must in any event be kept to prudent levels;

(d) investment in derivative instruments shall be possible insofar as they contribute to a reduction of investment risks or facilitate efficient portfolio management. They must be valued on a prudent basis, taking into account the underlying asset, and included in the valuation of the institution's assets. The institution shall also avoid excessive risk exposure to a single counterparty and to other derivative operations;

(e) the assets shall be properly diversified in such a way as to avoid excessive reliance on any particular asset, issuer or group of undertakings and accumulations of risk in the portfolio as a whole.

Investments in assets issued by the same issuer or by issuers belonging to the same group shall not expose the institution to excessive risk concentration;

(f) investment in the sponsoring undertaking shall be no more than 5 % of the portfolio as a whole and, when the sponsoring undertaking belongs to a group, investment in the undertakings belonging to the same group as the sponsoring undertaking shall not be more than 10 % of the portfolio.

When the institution is sponsored by a number of undertakings, investment in these sponsoring undertakings shall be made prudently, taking into account the need for proper diversification.

Member States may decide not to apply the requirements referred to in points (e) and (f) to investment in government bonds.

~~1a2.~~ Taking into account the nature, scale and complexity of the activities of the institutions supervised, Member States shall ensure that the competent authorities monitor the adequacy of the institutions' credit assessment processes, assess the use of references to credit ratings issued by credit rating agencies as defined in Article 3(1)(b) of Regulation (EC) No 1060/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council ~~of 16 September 2009 on credit rating agencies~~⁴⁷, in their investment policies and, where appropriate, encourage mitigation of the impact of such references, with a view to reducing sole and mechanistic reliance on such credit ratings.

including quantitative rules, provided they are prudentially justified, to reflect the total range of pension schemes operated by these institutions.

~~In particular, Member States may apply investment provisions similar to those of Directive 2002/83/EC.~~

However, Member States shall not prevent institutions from:

(a) investing up to 70 % of the assets covering the technical provisions or of the whole portfolio for schemes in which the members bear the investment risks in shares, negotiable securities treated as shares and corporate bonds admitted to trading on regulated markets, \Rightarrow or through multilateral trading facilities or organised trading facilities, \Leftarrow and deciding on the relative weight of these securities in their investment portfolio. ~~Provided it is prudentially justified, Member States may, however, apply a lower limit to institutions which provide retirement products with a long-term interest rate guarantee, bear the investment risk and themselves provide for the guarantee;~~

(c) investing in ~~risk capital markets~~ \Rightarrow instruments that have a long-term economic profile and are not traded on regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities or organised trading facilities \Leftarrow .

LEGISLATIVE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

1. FRAMEWORK OF THE PROPOSAL/INITIATIVE

1.1. Title of the proposal/initiative

Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the activities and supervision of institutions for occupational retirement provision (IORP2) (recast).

1.2. Policy area(s) concerned in the ABM/ABB structure⁵¹

Financial Services and Capital Markets

1.3. Nature of the proposal/initiative

The proposal/initiative relates to the extension of an existing action (revision of Directive 2003/41/EC).

1.4. Objective(s)

1.4.1. The Commission's multiannual strategic objective(s) targeted by the proposal/initiative

To increase the safety and the efficiency of the financial markets; to boost the internal market for financial services.

1.4.2. Specific objective(s) and ABM/ABB activity(ies) concerned

Specific objective No

ABM/ABB activity(ies) concerned

Financial Services and Capital Markets

To improve the governance and transparency of institutions for occupational retirement provision; to facilitate cross-border activities of IORPs.

1.4.3. Expected result(s) and impact

The proposal, amending the 2003 Directive on IORPs, aims at: laying down detailed rules on the governance of IORPs, supervisory powers over IORPs, information to be provided by IORPs to supervisors, information to be provided by IORPs to members and beneficiaries, investment by IORPs, IORP depositaries, cross-border transfer of IORPs and cross-border activity of IORPs.

1.4.4. Indicators of results and impact

The indicators, as described in section 6 of the impact assessment report, include reduced costs for employers, greater geographic coverage of IORPs, greater cross-border activity of IORPs, fewer failures of IORPs.

⁵¹ ABM: activity-based management – ABB: activity-based budgeting.

1.5. Grounds for the proposal/initiative

1.5.1. Requirement(s) to be met in the short or long term

1.5.2. Added value of EU involvement

- 1) A regulatory patchwork can lead to increased administrative costs and regulatory arbitrage.
- 2) In the absence of action at EU level, cross-border activity of IORPs will probably remain at the current low level.
- 3) A robust regulatory framework for IORPs at EU level can foster the development of IORPs in Member States where they currently barely exist, thus improving retirement provision and providing a source of savings for long-term investment.
- 4) Improved provisions on governance and depositaries are anticipated to contribute to reducing the rate of failure of IORPs.
- 5) Improved and harmonised transparency provisions be beneficial for scheme members and beneficiaries and make IORPs more comparable across borders.

1.5.3. Lessons learned from similar experiences in the past

The 2003 Directive on IORPs, which has been in place for ten years, has significant gaps, which have allowed divergent supervisory practices to develop between Member States as regards governance and transparency of IORPs. These divergences discourage cross-border mobility of workers, hinder comparability of IORPs, and act as an obstacle to cross-border transfers and provision of services by IORPs.

1.5.4. Compatibility and possible synergy with other appropriate instruments

The review of the 2003 IORP Directive was announced in the White Paper of 16 February 2012 "An Agenda for Adequate, Safe and Sustainable Pensions" and forms a cohesive package with the other initiatives and actions outlined in that White Paper for improved pension provision in the EU.

1.6. Duration and financial impact

Proposal/initiative of unlimited duration

1.7. Management mode(s) planned⁵²

From the 2014 budget

- Direct management by the Commission
 - by its departments, including by its staff in the Union delegations;
 - by the executive agencies;
- Shared management with the Member States
- Indirect management by delegating implementation tasks to:
 - third countries or the bodies they have designated;

⁵²

Comments

EIOPA is a regulatory agency acting under the oversight of the Commission.

2. MANAGEMENT MEASURES

2.1. Monitoring and reporting rules

In line with already existing arrangements EIOPA prepares regularly reports on its activity (including internal reporting to Senior Management, Management Board reporting, six month activity reporting to the Board of Supervisors and the production of the annual report), and undergoes audits by the Court of Auditors and the Internal Audit Service on its use of its resources. Monitoring and reporting of the present proposed actions will comply with the same already existing requirements.

2.2. Management and control system

2.2.1. Risk(s) identified

No risks identified.

2.2.2. Information concerning the internal control system set up

Management and control systems as provided for in the EIOPA Regulation are already implemented. EIOPA works closely together with the Internal Audit Service of the Commission to ensure that the appropriate standards are met in all internal control areas. These arrangements will apply also with regard to the role of EIOPA according to the present proposal. Annual internal audit reports are sent to the Commission, Parliament and Council.

2.2.3. Estimate of the costs and benefits of the controls and assessment of the expected level of risk of error

No additional costs are foreseen. Expect level of risk of error is low.

2.3. Measures to prevent fraud and irregularities

For the purposes of combating fraud, corruption and any other illegal activity, the provisions of Regulation (EC) No 1073/1999 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 May 1999 concerning investigations conducted by the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) applies to the EIOPA without any restriction.

EIOPA acceded to the Interinstitutional Agreement of 25 May 1999 between the European Parliament, the Council of the European Union and the Commission of the European Communities concerning internal investigations by the European Anti-Fraud Office (OLAF) and adopted appropriate provisions for all EIOPA staff.

EIOPA is currently working on a dedicated anti-fraud strategy and resulting action plan. The strategy and action plan will be put in place in 2014. EIOPA's strengthened actions in the area of anti-fraud will be compliant to the rules and guidance provided by the Financial Regulation (anti-fraud measures as part of sound financial management), OLAF's fraud prevention policies, the provisions provided by the Commission Anti-Fraud Strategy (COM(2011)376) as well as set out by the Common Approach on EU decentralised agencies (July 2012) and the related roadmap.

3.2.2. Estimated impact on operational appropriations

The proposal/initiative requires the use of operational appropriations, as explained below:

The various tasks directly ascribed to EIOPA arising from the legislative proposal are the following: advice to the Commission on the preparation of the delegated acts and on the evaluation of the application of the Directive, as preparation of the Commission's evaluation report. In addition, EIOPA will have to monitor the application of the Directive and take action to ensure correct implementation, in accordance with article 17 of its founding Regulation (Council and Parliament Regulation 1094/2010), and to resolve differences between national supervisors regarding matters of application (article 19 of the EIOPA Regulation). In particular EIOPA may have to resolve disagreements between home and host supervisors regarding the cross-border transfer of IORPs. It can also prepare guidelines and recommendations, in accordance with article 16 of the EIOPA Regulation. In addition, given the focus of the proposal on governance and reporting issues, it is planned that an expert group of national supervisors will need to be created on governance and reporting and coordinated and administered by EIOPA.

The total staff requirements of all of these tasks is estimated at 7 annual FTE staff. Four of these are for the preparation of the above-mentioned advice to the Commission, one for administration and coordination of a new working group on governance and transparency, and two on monitoring of implementation and resolution of differences between national authorities. These should all be establishment plan posts, given the difficulty of recruiting contractual agents for such specialised functions, and the increasing difficulties of national authorities to provide seconded national experts.

3.2.3. Estimated impact on appropriations of an administrative nature

3.2.3.1. Summary

- ✓ The proposal/initiative does not require the use of appropriations of an administrative nature

3.2.3.2. Estimated requirements of human resources

- ✓ The proposal/initiative does not require the use of human resources.

Comment:

No additional human and administrative resources will be needed in DG MARKT as a result of the proposal. Resources currently deployed to follow directive 2003/41/EC will continue to do so.

3.2.4. Compatibility with the current multiannual financial framework

- ✓ Proposal/initiative is compatible with the current multiannual financial framework.
- Proposal/initiative will entail reprogramming of the relevant heading in the multiannual financial framework.

Explain what reprogramming is required, specifying the budget lines concerned and the corresponding amounts.
--

- Proposal/initiative requires application of the flexibility instrument or revision of the multiannual financial framework⁵⁸.

Explain what is required, specifying the headings and budget lines concerned and the corresponding amounts.

Comment:

The Commission Communication COM(2013) 519 of 10 July 2013 "Programming of human and financial resources for decentralised agencies 2014-2020" lays down the Commission's resource plans for decentralised agencies, including EIOPA, for the period of the next Multiannual Financial Framework. Until 2014, EIOPA is categorised as a "start-up phase" agency in the Communication. Section 5.1.2 of the Communication states that EIOPA's total number of posts is expected to increase from 80 in 2013 to 112 in 2020. The settlement of the budgetary authority for EIOPA in 2014 allows for 87 establishment plan posts. It is expected that the present legislative proposal will enter into force in 2015, and that the 7 establishment plan posts provided for in the present Legislative Financial Statement will be recruited at various points of time during 2015, and will be included among the additional posts already envisaged for the period 2014-2017.

3.2.5. Third-party contributions

The proposal/initiative provides for the co-financing estimated below:

Appropriations in EUR million (to 3 decimal places)

	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	Total
National competent authorities in Member States	0.277	0.554	0.554	0.554	0.554	0.554	3.049
TOTAL appropriations cofinanced	0.277	0.554	0.554	0.554	0.554	0.554	3.049

* These estimates are based on an average cost of an AD official of €132,000 per year. It is estimated that the 7 posts in question will be recruited at different times during the year 2015, so the total cost is half of the full year cost of 7 full-time staff. Amounts based on current financing mechanism in EIOPA regulation (Member States 60%, Community 40%).

3.3. Estimated impact on revenue

- Proposal/initiative has no financial impact on revenue.
- Proposal/initiative has the following financial impact:
- on own resources
 - on miscellaneous revenue

⁵⁸ See points 19 and 24 of the Interinstitutional Agreement (for the period 2007-2013).
