

Prof Dr Eric Van Hooydonk chairs the umbrella organisation Flanders Water Heritage / Watererfgoed Vlaanderen which represents all Flemish actors in the field of shipping, port and other water-related heritage.

He has published widely on the societal position of seaports and port heritage.

Moreover, he has rendered various consultancy services with regard to the legal regime of historic ships.

Prof Van Hooydonk lectures in maritime law at the University of Antwerp and chairs the European Institute of Maritime and Transport Law as well as the Royal Commission for the Reform of Belgian Maritime Law. He also runs a niche law firm in Antwerp which mainly deals with port and shipping matters.
