(Dancing with scientists, Denvis, Pakhuis De zwijger in Amsterdam)

Maths babes competition: crazy quiz show hosted by Denvis (cult rock' roll hero, TV host of national science quiz);

Bridges between science and art: creation of quick drawings, intuitive texts, one minute sculptures in reaction to scientific projects by young art students, open exchanges on relationship between science and art;

Cinematic performance of live artistic research: evolving as night progresses: offers the audience to see what happens behind the closed doors of an art studio;

Research prototypes: presentation of research prototypes by artists such as Marion Tränkle: arts reacts to science, science reacts to art, and public will form its own ideas on such issue;

Super fast presentations: scientists, artists, DJs, politicians and up and coming guests compete for public's sympathy, delivering adrenalin-filled micro talks;

Nocturnal scientific research: testing of a subject in life nocturnal scientific research such as for example: measuring of brain activity, effect of various stimuli...

Exhibition space: series of booths and stands where young and successful artists offer their visions of discovery, science and the future.
