Dear Sir/Madam,

Subject: FP7 Information Days for Transport, 28 & 29 September 2009, Brussels

The next call for proposals for the "Cooperation" Programme, covering the "Transport (including Aeronautics)" theme, should be published in July 2009 and closed by end of this year.

In order to inform you about the Work Programme and its novelties, the Directorate for Transport Research of the Directorate-General for Research of the European Commission is organising the FP7 Information Days for Transport, in Brussels, on 28 and 29 September 2009.

You are invited to attend this event, which is an opportunity to get first-hand information directly from Commission services and to network with potential partners. There will be opportunities for questions and clarifications.

The first day will focus on the "Sustainable Surface Transport (SST)" call including the "European Green Cars Initiative", whereas the second half day will be dedicated to the "Aeronautics and Air Transport (AAT)" call. Both days will also tackle the "Cross-cutting activities (TPT)" call.

For registration, please visit the "Transport Information Days" website <http://ec.europa.eu/research/transport/tid>.

A preliminary agenda of the Information Days is attached to this letter.

Registrations will be limited by the maximum capacity of the rooms.

Should you be unable to attend the Information Days, all sessions will be broadcast live on Internet on the Transport information days website and all presentations will be published on the site after the event.

I also take this opportunity to draw your attention on brokerage activities that might be of interest for you; you will find all relevant information through the "side events" section of the website mentioned here above.

Please also feel free to transmit this invitation to anyone interested in EU transport research activities and in participation in open calls for proposals.

Looking forward to meeting you in Brussels,

Yours sincerely,

András SIEGLER

Encls.
