STUDY ON ACTIVE INCLUSION OF MIGRANTS

1. Title of the contract

STUDY ON ACTIVE INCLUSION OF MIGRANTS

Financed under the Progress programme - Reference n° VT/2008/060

2. Background

The Social Agenda (2005-2010) has fixed as its overall strategic goal to promote more and better jobs and to offer equal opportunities for all. The realisation of the Social Agenda relies on a combination of instruments comprising EU legislation, the implementation of open methods of coordination in various policy fields and financial incentives such as the European Social Fund.

The Decision n°1672/20006 establishing a Community programme for employment and social solidarity – PROGRESS was adopted by the European Parliament and the Council on 24 October and published in the OJ on 15 November.

PROGRESS aims at supporting the core functions of the European Community towards fulfilling its Treaty-delegated tasks and powers in its respective areas of competence in the employment and social sphere. PROGRESS's mission is to strengthen the EU contribution in support of Member States' commitments and efforts to create more and better jobs and to build a more cohesive society. To that end, PROGRESS is instrumental in:

- providing analysis and policy advice on PROGRESS policy areas;
- monitoring and reporting on the implementation of EU legislation and policies in PROGRESS policy areas;
- promoting policy transfer, learning and support among Member States on EU objectives and priorities; and
- relaying the views of the stakeholders and society at large.

More specifically, PROGRESS supports:

- (1) the implementation of the European Employment Strategy (section 1);
- (2) the implementation of the open method of coordination in the field of social protection and inclusion (section 2);
- (3) the improvement of the working environment and conditions including health and safety at work and reconciling work and family life (section 3);
- (4) the effective implementation of the principle of non-discrimination and promotion of its mainstreaming in all EU policies (section 4);
- (5) the effective implementation of the principle of gender equality and promotion of its mainstreaming in all EU policies (section 5).

The present Call for tenders is issued in the context of the implementation of the 2008 annual plan of work which is consultable at the Progress' website: http://ec.europa.eu/employment_social/progress/index_en.htm

3. Subject of the contract

In 2006 the third-country nationals residing in the EU were about 18.5 million, that is, 3.8% of the total population of almost 493 million¹. Immigration is in many Member States the main element in demographic growth, with net positive migration recorded in most Member States². In 2005 the EU-25 population increased by 2 million, of which 1.7 million was due to net immigration. These large flows of population are not likely to change much any time soon, since they stem from imbalances in the world economy that will require a long time to correct. Assessing the social and economic consequences of migration is therefore a task that cannot be evaded, and this issue is a central one in the current debate on the future of the "European social model".

Against this background, there has been an increasing pressure to give more prominence to the theme of the social impact of migration within the EU social policy processes, and in particular within the OMC for Social Protection and Social Inclusion.

Overall, in terms of employment opportunities, there is little evidence that immigration has led to higher unemployment³. In the short run, immigration can be beneficial for domestic employment to the extent that it increases the flexibility of labour markets. In the same way, the net impact of immigration on the public finances of the host countries, i.e. both on government expenditures and revenues, seems to have been moderate so far and there is evidence that it can be positive overall.

Nevertheless, there is evidence that, in a number of European countries, the risk of unemployment and welfare dependency is higher among immigrants, while striking differences remain in outcomes across countries and across groups of migrants. On the other hand, immigrants often face barriers in accessing the labour market and services that are key to integrate fully in society (housing, health care, financial services, etc). These barriers can be specific to their migrant status or relate to their socio-economic conditions.

The main purpose of the study is to assess the main trends in the situation of migrants with regards to social assistance and access to social services, to identify the main determinants of these trends and to investigate the mutual interaction of migration policies and social assistance policies.

4. Participation

Please note that the competition is open to any natural person or legal entity coming within the scope of the Treaties and any other natural person or legal entity from a third country which has concluded with the Communities a specific agreement in the area of public contracts, under the conditions provided for in that agreement.

Where the Multilateral Agreement on Public Contracts concluded within the framework of the WTO applies, the calls are also open to nationals of States that have ratified this Agreement, under the conditions provided for therein. It should be noted that research and development services, which come under category 8 of Annex II A of Directive 2004/18/CE, are not covered by this Agreement.

In practice, the participation of applicants from third countries that have concluded a bilateral or multilateral agreement with the Communities in the area of public contracts must be allowed, under the conditions provided for in that agreement. Bids submitted by applicants from third countries that have not concluded such an agreement may be accepted, but may also be rejected.

5. Tasks to be carried out by the contractor

5.1 Description of the tasks

The contracting party will undertake 4 main tasks

1. First, it should aim at gathering evidence from various EU countries to provide an overview of current trends in the situation of migrants with regards to various forms of social assistance and social services (unemployment benefits, family/children benefits, social assistance benefits, housing benefits, sickness and health care, etc.).
This overview should both assess benefit dependency rates, the adequacy of these benefits as well as issues linked to access to social assistance and social services (e.g. benefit take up rates, use of services, barriers to access to services, etc).
2. Second, it should investigate the key determinants that can explain the trends identified in task 1, and possibly assess their specific impact on the situation of migrants with regards to social assistance and use of social services. Factors to be reviewed include:
 - the characteristics of the migrant populations (age at migration, reason for migration, legal and administrative status, level of education, family situation and size, cohort effects, country of origin);
 - relevant features of the welfare system
 - relevant features of the labour market (flexibility, skills gaps, activity sectors in which migrants are predominantly employed, extent of the informal economy);
 - relevant features of the housing market, health care provision, financial services;
 - as well as any other relevant factors.
3. Third, it should provide preliminary analyses (or indicate directions for further research) on the mutual interaction between migration policies and social assistance policies. The impact of size of migration flows and characteristics of the migrant population on the provision of social assistance and social services should be assessed both at the national and at the local level.
Finally, it should examine to what extent migration policies are affected by "welfare dependency" concerns of policy makers and to what extent welfare reforms take into account the challenges associated to large migration flows.
4. to present a draft report at a seminar to be held in Brussels, no later than 11 months after the signature of the contract. This would involve
 - Identifying and inviting the speakers in agreement with the Commission (it may be necessary to foresee fees for some of them);
 - Identifying the participants and agreeing on them with the Commission (about 150 participants such as: policy makers, experts and organisations working in the field of combating child poverty); ;
 - Drafting the agenda and the minutes in cooperation with the Commission;
 - Handling all relevant documents before and after the seminar;

The Commission will be in charge of the overall organisation of the seminar and will bear the costs.

The report would then be refined and amended by the consultants in the light of this dialogue.

5.2 Execution of tasks detailed in the contract

Quality and participatory process

The credibility and legitimacy of the whole exercise which is at stake will very much depend on the process that will be followed mainly for defining the conceptual framework. Therefore, the Contracting Authority attaches the utmost importance to the process that will guide the carrying-out of the services to be performed by the Contractor. Quality and participatory process is consubstantial of the requested services and an absolute prerequisite for their successful performance.

5.3 How the activities should be carried out

The PROGRESS Programme aimed at promoting gender mainstreaming in all its five policy sections and commissioned or supported activities. Consequently, the Contractor will take the necessary steps to ensure that:

- Gender equality issues are taken into account when relevant for the drafting of the technical offer by paying attention to the situation and needs of women and men;
- Implementation of the requested tasks includes a gender perspective by considering systematically women and men dimension;
- Performance monitoring includes the collection and gathering of data disaggregated by sex when needed.
- Its proposed team and/or staff respects the gender balance at all levels.

Equally, needs of disabled people shall be duly acknowledged and met while executing the requested service. This will in particular entail that where the Contractor organises training sessions, conference, issues publications or develops dedicated websites, people with disabilities have equal access to the facilities or the services provided.

Finally, the Contracting Authority encourages the Contractor to promote equal employment opportunities for all its staff and team. This entails that the Contractor shall foster an appropriate mix of people, whatever their ethnic origin, religions, age, and ability.

The Contractor will be required to detail in its activity report accompanying the request for the final instalment the steps and achievements it made towards meeting these contractual provisions.

5.4 Contacts with the Contracting Authority

In executing this contract, the Contractor will be expected to work closely with the Contracting Authority and the Contractor should, to that end, foresee the need for at least 4 meetings. Moreover, the possibility of oral presentations, with the Commission in Brussels to display the conclusions of the work carried out so far with the view of refining and amending if needed the various deliverables, should be foreseen.

Budgetary provisions should therefore be earmarked. To perform the services requested, missions abroad will be necessary. The planning of missions to be submitted with the inception note will have to be first approved by the Contracting Authority. Budgetary provisions should also be earmarked in case publication(s) or data related to the proposed services have to be purchased for the purpose of fulfilling the contract.

6. Professional qualifications required

See Annex IV of the draft contract.

7. Time schedule and reporting

See Article I.2 of the draft contract.

The period of execution of the contract is maximum 18 months. The contract will actually start after both parties have signed the contract.

7.1 Reporting

The study is expected to produce an inception report, and interim report and a final report, on the basis of the following indicative schedule.

- Kick-off meeting – to prepare for this meeting the contractor is expected to provide a short discussion paper (~ 21 days after signature of the contract) including a first draft of a grid to assess the quality of the participation of the stakeholders in the implementation of the OMC mentioned above, under 5.2

- Inception report (10 weeks after signature of the contract)

The inception report must be submitted in English within 10 weeks after the date of signature of the contract by the last of the two parties. The contracting authority will comment on the inception report within fourteen calendar days of its receipt. The inception report should set out in details the methodology that will be used for undertaking the requested services. In particular, the note will present the details of the stakeholders identified at Community, national and sub-national levels and a draft template that would guide the discussion with them, as well as the assessment grid, the questionnaire or other material to be used.

- Meeting between contractor and Commission representatives to discuss the inception report (3 months after signature of the contract)

- Draft interim report (8 months after signature of the contract)

The draft interim report must be submitted in English plus electronic version within eight months of the date of the signature of the contract by the last of the two parties. The contracting authority will comment on the interim report within thirty calendar days of its receipt.

- Meeting between contractor and Commission representatives to discuss the interim report, and to discuss where further analysis is required (end month 9)

- Interim report (10 months after signature of the contract) to be presented and tested at the seminar which will take place at month 11

The interim report must be submitted in English in 1 original and 2 copies plus electronic version within ten months of the date of the signature of the contract by the last of the two parties. It should provide preliminary findings – including a first draft of recommendations on “quality participation assessment criteria” – to be presented and tested during the seminar which will take place in the eleventh month from the signature of the contract by the last of the two parties. The contracting authority will comment on the interim report within sixty calendar days of its receipt.

- Delivery of a draft final report (17 months after signature of the contract) taking account of the results of the seminar

The analysis provided must be clear and explicit. The draft final report should also contain recommendations developed on the basis of the conclusions reached by the Contractor.

It is essential that the report be clear, unambiguous and comprehensible for the non-specialist. Any potential reader must be able to understand:

- a complete description of the work done;
 - a presentation of the results obtained;
 - any comments, suggestions or recommendations judged useful or necessary by the Contractor
- Meeting with the Commission to discuss draft final report (mid-month 18)

The final report in English and executive summary of 6 pages in English, French and German must be submitted one month after the approval of the draft final report.

The Contractor is expected to send a total of three (3) paper copies of the final report and the electronic versions of the documents.

The report as well as the executive summary must be provided in English. It must take into account the results of the assessment of the draft final report and discussions with the contracting authority on the draft final report insofar as these do not interfere with the autonomy of the Contractor in respect of their conclusions.
