COMMISSION DELEGATED REGULATION (EU) .../...

of 31.1.2019

supplementing Directive (EU) 2015/849 of the European Parliament and of the Council with regard to regulatory technical standards for the minimum action and the type of additional measures credit and financial institutions must take to mitigate money laundering and terrorist financing risk in certain third countries

(Text with EEA relevance)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. CONTEXT OF THE DELEGATED ACT

Directive (EU) 2015/849 requires obliged entities to put in place anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT) policies and procedures to mitigate and manage effectively the money laundering and terrorist financing (ML/TF) risks to which they are exposed.

Where an obliged entity is part of a group, those policies and procedures should be implemented effectively and consistently at group level. In circumstances where a group operates branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in a third country whose law does not permit the implementation of group-wide AML/CFT policies and procedures, and in situations where the ability of competent authorities to supervise the group's compliance with the requirements of Directive (EU) 2015/849 is impeded because competent authorities do not have access to relevant information held at branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in third countries, additional policies and procedures are required to manage ML/TF risk effectively.

In line with the applicable international standards, Directive (EU) 2015/849 puts the risk-based approach at the centre of Union's anti-money AML/CFT regime. It recognises that the risk of money laundering and terrorist financing can vary and that Member States, competent authorities and obliged entities have to take steps to identify and assess that risk with a view to deciding how best to manage it.

Article 8 of Directive (EU) 2015/849 requires obliged entities to put in place AML/CFT policies and procedures to mitigate and manage effectively the ML/TF risks to which they are exposed.

AML/CFT policies and procedures include those necessary for the identification and assessment of ML/TF risk, customer due diligence measures, reporting of suspicious transactions, record-keeping, internal control and compliance management. Where an obliged entity is part of a group, these policies and procedures should be implemented effectively and consistently at group level.

While most third countries' legal systems will not prevent groups from implementing group-wide AML/CFT policies and procedures that are stricter than national legislation requires, there can be cases where the implementation of a third country's law does not permit the application of some or all parts of a group's AML/CFT policies and procedures. This may be the case, for example, when the sharing of customer-specific information within the group conflicts with local data protection or banking secrecy requirements.

In such cases, Directive (EU) 2015/849 requires obliged entities to ensure that group-wide AML/CFT policies and procedures are implemented effectively across all branches and majority-owned subsidiaries to the extent that local law permits this. Where no effective implementation may be ensured, obliged entities must take steps effectively to handle the resultant ML/TF risk. However, Directive (EU) 2015/849 does not set out in detail what obliged entities should do to manage the ML/TF risk in those situations.

Article 45(6) of Directive (EU) 2015/849 mandates the European Supervisory Authorities (ESAs) to develop draft regulatory technical standards that set out what these steps should be.

In drafting these RTS, the ESAs have aimed to foster a consistent and more harmonised approach to identifying and managing the ML/TF risk to which credit or financial institutions are exposed as a result of their operations in a third country, should the implementation of the third country's law prevent the application of group-wide policies and procedures. This approach should be proportionate and risk-based, yet at the same time set clear expectations of the measures credit and financial institutions should take to manage this ML/TF risk effectively. In setting clear expectations, the ESAs have sought to contribute to the creation of a level playing field across the Union's financial sector and ultimately encourage greater adherence to international AML/CFT and transparency standards by third countries.

In accordance with Article 10(1) of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010, the Commission is required to decide whether to endorse the drafts submitted. The Commission decided to endorse the draft regulatory technical standard submitted, and adopt it in the form of a delegated regulation.

This regulatory technical standards will form part of the ESAs' wider work on supporting the development of a common understanding, by credit and financial institutions and competent authorities across the Union, of what the risk-based approach to AML/CFT entails and how it should be applied.

2. CONSULTATIONS PRIOR TO THE ADOPTION OF THE ACT

The ESAs conducted a public consultation on the draft regulatory technical standard between February and May 2017.

The overview of questions for the public consultation, the replies and feedback from the public consultation, the summary to the key points and other comments received during the public consultation, the ESAs' response and the action taken to address these comments have been made publically available on the website of the European Banking Authority, at <http://www.eba.europa.eu/regulation-and-policy/anti-money-laundering-and-e-money/rts-on-the-implementation-of-group-wide-aml/cft-policies-in-third-countries/-/regulatory-activity/consultation-paper> .

In addition, the EBA's Banking Stakeholder Group (BSG) was directly consulted in view of drafting the regulatory technical standard.

Before drafting the regulatory technical standard, an impact assessment was conducted. It considered the advantages and disadvantages of different policy options and assessed the impacts that the preferred options will have on payment service providers, electronic money issuers and competent authorities. Its results are made available publically at <http://www.eba.europa.eu/documents/10180/1861642/Consultation+Paper+on+RTS+on+the+implementation+of+group+wide+AML-CFT+policies+in+third+countries+%28EBA-CP-2017-08%29.pdf>

of 31.1.2019

supplementing Directive (EU) 2015/849 of the European Parliament and of the Council with regard to regulatory technical standards for the minimum action and the type of additional measures credit and financial institutions must take to mitigate money laundering and terrorist financing risk in certain third countries

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN COMMISSION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union,

Having regard to Directive (EU) 2015/849 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 May 2015 on the prevention of the use of the financial system for the purposes of money laundering or terrorist financing, amending Regulation (EU) No 648/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council, and repealing Directive 2005/60/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council and Commission Directive 2006/70/EC¹, and in particular Article 45(7) thereof,

Whereas:

- (1) Credit institutions and financial institutions are required to identify, assess and manage the money laundering and terrorist financing risk to which they are exposed, particularly when they have established branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in third countries or because they are considering whether to establish branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in third countries. Directive (EU) 2015/849 therefore sets standards for the effective assessment and management of money laundering and terrorist financing risk at group level.
- (2) The consistent implementation of group-wide anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism policies and procedures is key to the robust and effective management of money laundering and terrorist financing risk within the group.
- (3) There are, however, circumstances where a group operates branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in a third country whose law does not permit the implementation of group-wide anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism policies and procedures. This can be the case, for example, where the third country's data protection or banking secrecy law limits the group's ability to access, process or exchange information related to customers of branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in the third country.
- (4) In those circumstances, and in situations where the ability of competent authorities effectively to supervise the group's compliance with the requirements of Directive (EU) 2015/849 is impeded because competent authorities do not have access to relevant information held at branches or majority-owned subsidiaries in third countries, additional policies and procedures are required to manage money laundering and terrorist financing risk effectively. These additional policies and procedures may include obtaining consent from customers, which can serve to overcome certain legal obstacles to the implementation of group-wide anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism policies and procedures in third countries where other options are limited.

- (5) The need to ensure a consistent, Union level response to legal obstacles to the implementation of group-wide policies and procedures justifies the imposition of specific, minimum actions credit and financial institutions should be required to take in those situations. However, such additional policies and procedures should be risk-based.
- (6) Credit institutions and financial institutions should be able to demonstrate to their competent authority that the extent of additional measures they have taken is appropriate in view of the money laundering and terrorist financing risk. However, should the competent authority consider that the additional measures a credit institution or financial institution has taken are insufficient to manage that risk, the competent authority should be able to direct the credit institution or financial institution to take specific measures to ensure the credit institution's or financial institution's compliance with its anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism obligations.
- (7) Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council², Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council³ and Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴ empower the European Banking Authority (EBA), the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (EIOPA) and European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA), respectively, to issue joint guidelines to ensure the common, uniform and consistent application of Union law. When complying with this Regulation credit institutions and financial institutions should take into account the joint guidelines issued in accordance with Article 17 and Article 18(4) of Directive (EU) 2015/849 on simplified and enhanced customer due diligence and the factors credit and financial institutions should consider when assessing the money laundering and terrorist financing risk associated with individual business relationships and occasional transactions and make every effort to comply with those guidelines.
- (8) The provisions of this Regulation should be without prejudice to the duty of competent authorities of the home Member State to exercise additional supervisory actions as stipulated in Article 45(5) of Directive (EU) 2015/849 in cases where the application of additional measures defined by this Regulation will prove insufficient.

⁴ Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 November 2010 establishing a European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority), amending Decision No 716/2009/EC and repealing Commission Decision 2009/77/EC (OJ L 331, 15.12.2010, p. 84).

- (9) The provisions of this Regulation should also be without prejudice to the enhanced due diligence measures credit institutions and financial institutions are required/obliged to take when dealing with natural persons or legal entities established in countries identified by the Commission as high risk pursuant to Article 9 of Directive (EU) 2015/849.
- (10) Credit institutions and financial institutions should be given sufficient time to adjust their policies and procedures in line with this Regulation's requirements. To this end, it is appropriate that the application of this Regulation be deferred by three months from the date on which it enters into force.
- (11) This Regulation is based on draft regulatory technical standards developed by the European Supervisory Authorities (the European Banking Authority, the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority and the European Securities and Markets Authority), submitted to the Commission.
- (12) The European Supervisory Authorities have conducted open public consultations on the draft regulatory technical standards on which this Regulation is based, analysed the potential related costs and benefits and requested the opinion of the Banking Stakeholder Group established in accordance with Article 37 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010,
