Core questions (to be answered compulsorily):

It is important that the two core questions are answered with a view to streamlining national debates and ensuring comparable and consistent outcomes.

What are the main challenges to be tackled by youth policies in the coming years?

Which of these challenges are of a European dimension and should become a priority for future youth policies at European level?

Detailed questions (to be answered voluntarily)

Projects may wish to break down the two questions into more detailed questions, as follows:

What according to your analysis are the main social, economical and political challenges for youth to be tackled by youth policies in the coming years?

Among these, could you identify the challenges of a European dimension?

--

How can we encourage the social and professional development of young people with fewer opportunities?

--

How can we encourage the active citizenship of young people beyond current practice?

How can we improve the employment situation of young people?

How can we reinforce the mobility of young people?

How can we improve the lifestyle and health of young people?

Which role youth work can play in this context?
