

Any company can provide financing to another company either by granting a loan or capital

