| Risk                                  | This product poses a serious risk of electric shock because testing established that the suction cup of the supporting consoles strain due to the high temperature, the glass cover breaks during the mechanical strength test and thus the live parts become accessible. The products do not comply with the Low Voltage Directive and the relevant European standard EN 60335. |
