

Digital Single Market

Audiovisual31/08/2012

The Artificial Finger, the beauty of the touch

To touch something is to understand it – emotionally and cognitive. It’s one of our important six senses, which we use and need in our daily lives. But accidents or illnesses can disrupt us from our sense of touch. European researchers of the projects NanoBioTact and NanoBioTouch delve deep into the mysteries of touch and have developed the first sensitive artificial finger.

Read more

Other EU funded eHealth projects [1]

Read full text [2]

[3]

Share this page

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/en/news/artificial-finger-beauty-touch>

Links

[1] <http://ec.europa.eu/ehealth>

[2] http://www.youris.com/Nano/Medicine/The_Artificial_Finger.kl

[3] <mailto:>