

Digital Single Market

Events10/09/2012

Easy-to-Read on the Web - Online Symposium

03/12/2012

The W3C WAI Research and Development Working Group (RDWG) organises this online symposium on Easy-to-Read on the Web. It aims to bring together researchers, practitioners, content authors, designers, and developers, and users with disabilities to explore the needs of people with cognitive disabilities or low language skills. It is intended to encourage the development of better guidance, support, and tools for developers, designers, and users, and to inform researchers, standards developers, and policy makers on how to better address easy-to-read on the Web. A call for papers has been launched (deadline: 12 October)

Speaker

[1]

Read more

Call for Papers [2]

More information [2]

Share this page

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/en/news/easy-read-web-online-symposium>

Links

[1] <mailto:>

[2] <http://www.w3.org/WAI/RD/2012/easy-to-read/cfp.html>