EUREKA call for technological innovation projects

EUREKA, the European network for innovation, has published a call for technological innovation projects. Applicants can submit their proposals to 13 national funding agencies across Europe. The call addresses transnational projects that involve at least one company, university or research institute from a EUREKA member country and another in a member or associated country. While encompassing all technological areas, it aims to support the development of high-tech consumer products such as future electronic tablets and innovative smartphone technologies. The best international research projects will be invited to submit their applications to the EUREKA scheme or the Eurostars Programme 10th cut-off. Applications are to be submitted before Friday 15 February 2013 either to National Project Coordinators or the EUREKA Secretariat.
