Brochure 19 June 2012

OPEN DAI - Opening Data Architectures and Infrastructures of European Public Administrations

The project aims to make data and platforms available for digital public services on cloud computing infrastructures. This means that open data can be used as a starting point to create new applications and services for public administrations, companies and citizens or to provide a channel for feeding back information to public administrations. (February 2012 - September 2014)
