

Published on Digital Single Market (<https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market>)

Home > Meeting Ireland's young digital generation

Digital Single Market

News article 4 April 2013

Meeting Ireland's young digital generation

Menu

VP Neelie Kroes, accompanied by Digital Champion for Ireland, Lord David Puttnam, visited St Colmcille's Community School in Dublin - a school benefiting from 100 Mbps connectivity.

[1]

They met with pupils and teachers who showed them the different projects they are working on.

Following that, Commissioner Kroes and Lord Puttnam visited The Digital Hub - an ambitious digital skills programme established by the Irish Digital Hub Development Agency (DHDA) in partnership with the National College of Art and Design in Ireland (NCAD) - to find out more about Future Creators.

The programme is aimed at developing young people's digital media skills and, ultimately, encouraging them to consider a career in digital media or technology. Participants - all aged between 13 and 16 - learn skills such as coding, film-making, app development and computer programming.

Photo gallery available on Digital Agenda Facebook page [2].

More information on Digital Hub webpage [3].

Share this page

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/en/news/meeting-irelands-young-digital-generation>

Links

[1] https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/sites/digital-agenda/files/newsroom/digital_hub_4114.jpg

[2] <http://www.facebook.com/media/set/?set=a.472682572805053.1073741826.108784775861503&type=1>

[3] <http://www.thedigitalhub.com/news-events/press-releases/eu-commissioner-and-digital-champion-meet-future-creators-at-the-digital-hub/1438>