Selection of Future Emerging Technologies (FET) flagship initiatives

News Article23/01/2013

On Monday 28th January at 11.15, Vice-President Neelie Kroes will give a short press conference to announce the two research projects chosen as winners of the FET (Future and Emerging Technologies) Flagships initiative.

These two projects will together potentially benefit from up to one billion euros of EU funding. The two initiatives were chosen from a shortlist of six by a panel of experts including leading scientists, professors, Nobel prize winners, and industrialists. The press conference will be immediately followed by a technical briefing.
