SMART 2013/0018 - Study on Inventory of case law in electronic communications

The aim of the study is to develop concepts for and assess the feasibility, demand for and cost of setting up, maintaining and managing a multilingual database of national appeal decisions in electronic communications (EC).

The study shall describe existing data bases of case law in EC and related areas, develop a methodology for a data-base of case law in EC, and define the technical expertise necessary to set-up and run the data-base, including language requirements, as well as the cost of setting-up and maintaining the data base.
