Studies now available from the EU bookshop

As part of the Commission's policy on open access to public sector information, studies related to the Digital Agenda for Europe are now being made available for free download from the EU bookshop.

We conduct around 40 studies in this field every year, to gather evidence and advice for informed policy making. Since the beginning of 2013 more than 20 studies related to the Digital Agenda have been made available in the EU Bookshop [1] See also:  [DG CONNECT 2013 [2]]. Older studies will soon also be made available.

In future, clauses will be introduced in all study contracts to make the results and some of the underlying data available for open access publication, including in machine-readable format.
