

Digital Single Market

Report / Study 14 October 2013

Out now: Journal "EU-US Cooperation on eHealth issues"

A journal with many interesting aspects of EU-US cooperation on eHealth issues has been published.

The journal [1], published by ePractice and supported by the European Commission, includes the following contributions:

- The transatlantic cooperation framework for eHealth: Potential benefits to global health. Author: Clayton Hamilton, Ramesh Krishnamurthy
- COCIR perspectives on advancing eHealth in Europe: Need for healthcare transformation towards seamless integrated care. Author: DENJOY Nicole
- Driving continuous improvement in health information with the development of Guiding Principles for national health data collections. Author: Barbara Foley, M. Rachel Flynn, Tracy O'Carroll, Jane Grimson
- Cross-Border Interoperability for Travelling Patients: A Proposal for Italian and American Patients. Author: Claudio Dario, Tommaso Piazza, Elena Vio, Arianna Cocchiglia, Sergio D'Angelo
- Realising the Interoperable 'Web-of-Care'. Author: Edward Conley
- A potential 'eHealth Digital Divide' among Developed Countries. Author: Thierry Jean Pierre
- EU-US Memorandum of Understanding and Europeanisation: eHealth Services Standards of Care. Author: Paul De Raeve
- The EU-US eHealth cooperation: A transgovernmental approach. Author: Alexandros Stylianou

Read more

Retweet this [2]

Read full text [3]

Share this page

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/en/news/out-now-journal-eu-us-cooperation-ehealth-issues>

Links

[1] <http://epractice.eu/en/editorial/5419601>

[2] http://twitter.com/intent/retweet?tweet_id=390019748303368192

[3] <http://epractice.eu/en/journal/volume/19>