Digital Woman, Girls of the Year named at ICT 2013

Europe's outstanding women, girls and organisations making an impact in the digital world were announced today at ICT 2013 [1] in Vilnius, Lithuania. Winners of Europe's first-ever Digital Woman Awards, Sasha Bezuhanova, Lune Victoria van Eewijk, Amy Mather and HTW-Berlin, are recognized for their leadership, entrepreneurship and creativity in digital areas of study and work, and for their demonstrated commitment to increasing the number of girls and women in ICT studies and careers in Europe. The awards are under the patronage of Commission Vice-President Neelie Kroes and organised by Zen Digital [2] as part of their support of the EU Grand Coalition for Digital Jobs [3] (see IP/138/182 [4])
