

Digital Single Market

Report / Study21 February 2014

Consumers' perception of Internet speed and service provision

The Commission has released the results of a European-wide survey based on 28.000 interviews to measure how Europeans access and use the main electronic communications services, with an emphasis on consumer perception of fixed and mobile Internet speeds and blocking in the access to online content and applications.

Share this page

Source URL: <https://ec.europa.eu/digital-single-market/en/news/consumers-perception-internet-speed-and-service-provision>