Commission launches challenge to crowd source smart ideas for future ICT enabled growth and jobs

$10,000 is up for grabs for the best ideas on overcoming the current barriers and innovative new business models and policies related to information and communications technology (ICT) enabled growth and jobs in the EU. The Commission is crowdsourcing information and novel ideas in this field to update and follow up on the Digital Agenda Europe.

Two challenges have been launched through Innocentive, a leader in crowdsourcing innovation problems. Challenge 1 [1] focuses on overcoming the current barriers for ICT enabled growth and jobs within the EU. Challenge 2 [2] asks for innovative new business models and policies that can lead to high ICT-enabled economic growth rates and the creation of new jobs. Both Challenges opened on 3 March and are running for 30 days.
