Outputs should be focused on practical solutions that farmers can apply or further innovate. Materials should be visual and engaging-videos and case study examples.

4 PILLARS OF A HIGH IMPACT KNOWLEDGE RESERVOIR

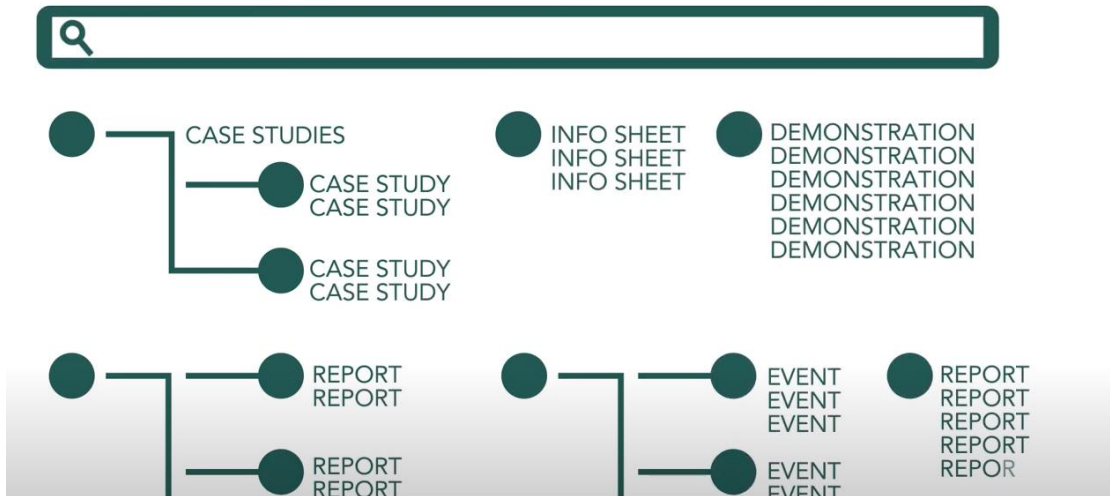

High Impact Knowledge Reservoir:
A collection of dissemination materials of high relevance to the main user groups (i.e. farmers, foresters, and advisors, educators), easy and understandable (local) language, accessible

From a technical perspective:
A data repository based on a robust conceptual design and deployed through state-of-the-art technologies that allows to find and access data of relevance to the end user.

Reservoir

Well organised digital platform using clear concepts and common, easy language with an effective search function

Interaction &
Peer to peer

Building a community of practice provides space that gives equal weight to the ideas and inputs from all actors

CONNECTING TO THE AGRICULTURAL KNOWLEDGE AND INNOVATION SYSTEM

Improve knowledge flows throughout the farming community. Complementary activities should include face-to-face events, meetings and peer to peer activities to include users who prefer a non digital means of knowledge exchange.

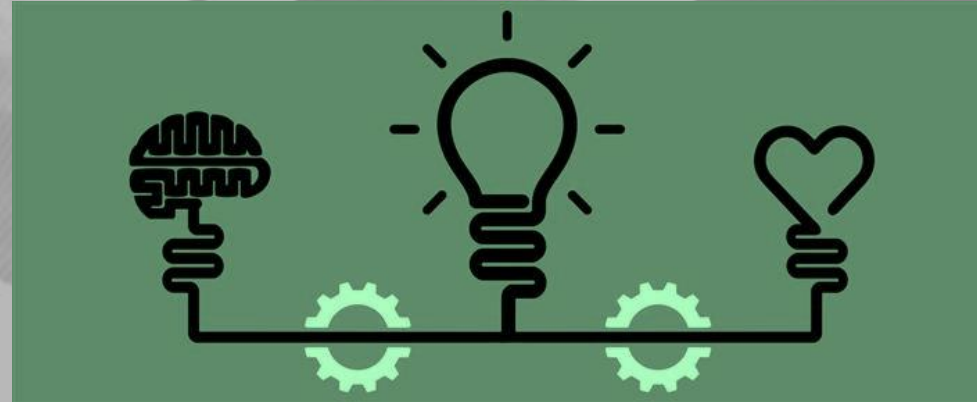

LOCAL LANGUAGE & INTEROPERABILITY

An EU-wide open source knowledge reservoir should be promoted by NRNs/MS CAP networks as well as local authorities and policymakers as a destination to store and organise resources from projects to ensure their impact and legacy
