| Table 5: Synthetic cohort followed between 2004 and 2007 |                             |                   |                    |   |        |       |     |                    |
|--|-----------------------------|-------------------|--------------------|---|--------|-------|-----|--------------------|
| Panel A: Correlations                                    |                             |                   |                    |   |        |       |     |                    |
|  |                             | 2005              | 2006               | 2007                                      |        |       |     |                    |
| 2004   | PearsonCorrelation      | .938              | .914               | .881                                      |        |       |     |                    |
| 2004   | Sig. (2-tailed)             | .000              | .000               | .000                                      |        |       |     |                    |
|  | N                           | 194               | 202                | 203                                       |        |       |     |                    |
|  | Panel B: Paired Differences |                   |                    |   |        |       |     |                    |
|  | Mean                        | Std.Deviation | Std.Error Mean | 95% Confidence Interval of the Difference |        | t     | df  | Sig.(2-tailed) |
|  |                             | Deviation         | Error Mean         | Lower                                     | Upper  |       |     |                    |
| NEET in 2004 - NEET in 2007                              | .01927                      | .06780            | .00476             | .00988                                    | .02865 | 4.049 | 202 | .000               |
| Source LES anonymical microdata set DC EMPL calculations |                             |                   |                    |   |        |       |     |                    |

Source: LFS anonymised microdata set. DG EMPL calculations. Sample restricted to youth aged 15 to 24 years.