Methods of Monitoring the Implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities with Reference to Indicators

Anna Lawson

Centre for European Law and Legal Studies and Centre for Disability Studies

University of Leeds

The Monitoring Requirement

- Article 31
- Article 33(2)
- Article 35

Underlying Principles

Involvement

Articles 4 and 33(3)

Comparability

Over time Between disabled and non-disabled people Between countries

Intersectionality

Disabled People
Article 1
Impairment / functional limitation
Self-reporting
Son reporting
Disabling Barriers
Physical environment
Information
Attitudes
Enabling support
Examples of International Disablity Rights Monitorin
Global Survey on Government Action on the Implementation of the Standard Rules
International Disability Rights Monitor Project
international Distriction Traging Transfer Traject
Disability Rights Promotion International Project
Disability Rights Fromotion International Project
Mental Disability Advocacy Centre:
Guardianship Project
	_
Thursday C. L. Lines
Types of Indicator
Types of Indicator
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant legal and policy measures
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant legal and policy measures
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant legal and policy measures Indicators measuring the extent of the disability gap
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant legal and policy measures
Indicators measuring the adoption / existence of relevant legal and policy measures Indicators measuring the extent of the disability gap

Methods of Monitoring the Implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities with Reference to Indicators

Anna Lawson

Centre for European Law and Legal Studies and Centre for Disability Studies

University of Leeds