Definition of agricultural – livestock holding

1. For the purposes of the Agricultural Census, the definition of the agricultural and/or livestock holding is “a holding which:

 - belongs to a holder who has its legal and financial responsibility, meaning that it is operated by a single natural or legal person.”
2. If two or more persons, usually members of a household, cultivate their land or raise their animals under a united management (consisting essentially a single unit both technically and economically in terms of the use of the means of production (machinery, buildings, etc.), the distribution of profits, the use of labor, etc.) but for tax or other reasons the land and the animals seem divided; for the purpose of the Agricultural Census they are considered as a single holding which is surveyed only once.
3. On the contrary, if brothers and sisters or neighbors etc. cooperate for the various jobs of their holdings, but have individual responsibility, each for its own operation, and do not share the profits or losses, then the holdings are considered separate and surveyed separately.

Chapters 5 to 9: Please fill in the farmland areas, in stremmas, that were cultivated by main crops, during the period from 01/10/2019 to 30/09/2020.

In the case of successive crops on the same plot, only the crop with the highest produce value will be recorded, so that the area of the plot is not recorded twice. If the main crop cannot be determined by the produce value, it is considered to be the one that occupies the ground for the longest time.

In the case of combined crops, meaning crops located at the same time on the same part of the agricultural area during the same sowing period - or during most of it - each one producing a different product, all these crops are considered main crops and the area is divided according to the stremmas occupied by each type of crop.
