About the book, its policy context and the EU-SILC instrument

1. Monitoring social inclusion in Europe
   (Anthony B. Atkinson, Anne-Catherine Guio and Eric Marlier)

   1.1 Aim of the book
   1.2 Outline of the contents
   1.3 Future developments of EU-SILC and EU social indicators
      1.3.1 Linking micro- and macro-
      1.3.2 Combining survey and register information
      1.3.3 Confronting income and expenditure data
      1.3.4 Putting in perspective income-based and material deprivation indicators
      1.3.5 The concepts of jobs and (quasi-)joblessness
      1.3.6 Improving the measurement and understanding of the dynamics of poverty and social exclusion
   1.4 European social goals in the global perspective of 2030
      1.4.1 The sustainable development goals
      1.4.2 Extreme poverty in the EU
      1.4.3 A more ambitious goal for 2030?
      1.4.4 A new income inequality indicator?
      1.4.5 An integrated approach
   References

2. Investing in statistics: EU-SILC
   (Emilio Di Meglio, Didier Dupré, Fabienne Montaigne and Pascal Wolff)

   2.1 Introduction
   2.2 The EU-SILC instrument and its governance
      2.2.1 Scope and geographical coverage
      2.2.2 Main characteristics of EU-SILC
      2.2.3 Legal basis
      2.2.4 Common guidelines
   References
2.3 Methodological framework
   2.3.1 Contents of EU-SILC 53
   2.3.2 Income concept 54
   2.3.3 Sample requirements 55
   2.3.4 Tracing rules 56

2.4 Information on quality
   2.4.1 Some comparability issues 56
   2.4.2 Quality reports 59

2.5 Data and indicators
   2.5.1 Data access 60
   2.5.2 Indicators computation 60

2.6 Way forward 61

Income measurement and distribution 63

3. Monitoring the evolution of income poverty and real incomes over time
   (Anthony B. Atkinson, Anne-Catherine Guio and Eric Marlier) 65
   3.1 Introduction 65
   3.2 The headline indicators of income poverty and income inequality in the EU 66
   3.3 The AROP social indicator and overall living standards 68
   3.4 The bridge to national accounts 73
   3.5 Changes in real incomes 78
   3.6 An EU-SILC-based real income indicator? 82
   3.7 Conclusions 86

References 87

4. Household structure, income poverty and subjective hardship
   (Maria Iacovou) 89
   4.1 Introduction 89
   4.2 Data and descriptive statistics 90
     4.2.1 Income poverty and subjective hardship 90
     4.2.2 Working with clusters of countries 91
   4.3 Methodology
     4.3.1 Defining household types 92
     4.3.2 Weighting 93
4.4 Results

- 4.4.1 Income poverty and subjective hardship by household types, counting households rather than individuals 94
- 4.4.2 Income poverty and subjective hardship by household types, counting individuals rather than households 96
- 4.4.3 Composition of the income-poor and subjectively-deprived populations 98

4.5 Conclusions

References 100

5. Income poverty, affluence and polarisation viewed from the median

(Rolf Aaberge, Anthony B. Atkinson and Henrik Sigstad)

- 5.1 Introduction 103

- 5.2 Poverty, affluence and dispersion in theory
  - 5.2.1 The median and poverty measurement 104
  - 5.2.2 Affluence 105
  - 5.2.3 Intersection and cumulation 106
  - 5.2.4 Specific measures 106

- 5.3 Poverty and affluence in EU-SILC
  - 5.3.1 Dominance 107
  - 5.3.2 Summary measures 113

- 5.4 Dispersion, bi-polarisation and tail-heaviness 117

- 5.5 Conclusions 121

References 121

6. High incomes and affluence: evidence from EU-SILC

(Veli-Matti Törmälehto)

- 6.1 Introduction 123

- 6.2 Definitions and data source
  - 6.2.1 The data and definitions 123
  - 6.2.2 Household surveys and top end of the distribution 124
  - 6.2.3 Sensitivity to measurement errors in the tail 127
  - 6.2.4 Comparison with the World Top Incomes Database 129

- 6.3 Measures of richness and affluence
  - 6.3.1 The line of richness 132
  - 6.3.2 Headcount and transfer-sensitive measures based on multiplier thresholds 132
  - 6.3.3 Top income shares 133
  - 6.3.4 Affluence gaps and redistribution-based measures 134
6.4. High incomes and other dimensions of affluence 137
6.5 Conclusions 138
References 139

7. The distributional impact of imputed rent in EU-SILC 2007-2012 (Veli-Matti Törmälähto and Hannele Sauli) 141
7.1 Introduction 141
7.2 Measuring imputed rents 141
    7.2.1 Conceptual and empirical framework 141
    7.2.2 Estimation methods 142
    7.2.3 The prevalence of rental income imputation, by housing tenure 143
7.3 The data: definitions, completeness and outliers 144
    7.3.1 Completeness and comparability 145
    7.3.2 Extreme values and excess housing consumption 145
7.4 Distributional effects 147
    7.4.1 Changes in average income level and income inequality 147
    7.4.2 Changes in income poverty and social exclusion 149
7.5 Conclusions 156
References 157

8. The distributional impact of public services in European countries (Rolf Aaberge, Audun Langørgen and Petter Lindgren) 159
8.1 Introduction 159
8.2 Needs for public services and equivalence scales 160
    8.2.1 Needs-adjusted equivalence scale 161
    8.2.2 Estimation method 162
8.3 Empirical implementation 163
    8.3.1 Population of analysis 163
    8.3.2 Value of public services 163
    8.3.3 Allocation of public services 164
    8.3.4 Estimation and simplified representation of the NA scale 165
    8.3.5 Income definitions 167
    8.3.6 Household weights 168
8.4 Empirical Results 168
    8.4.1 Income inequality 168
    8.4.2 At-risk-of-poverty 169
    8.4.3 Overlap between poverty and material deprivation 171
9. Intra-household pooling and sharing of resources: a tentative ‘modified’
equivalised income
(Sophie Ponthieux)

9.1 Introduction

9.2 Theoretical framework and related literature

9.3 Methodology: definitions and construction of a ‘modified’ equivalised income

9.3.1 To what extent do couples pool their personal incomes?

9.3.2 Computing individual ‘modified’ equivalised incomes

9.4 Standard and ‘modified’ measures of individual equivalised income

9.4.1 Intra-household distribution of individual equivalised income

9.4.2 Comparing gender inequality in equivalised incomes and in poverty risk

9.5 Conclusions

Material deprivation and multidimensional poverty

10. Amending the EU material deprivation indicator: impact on size and composition of deprived population
(Anne-Catherine Guio and Eric Marlier)

10.1 Introduction

10.2 Choice of the threshold

10.3 Impact of the definition change on the incidence of material deprivation in the EU

10.3.1 Impact on the Standard EU MD indicator

10.3.2 Impact on the Severe EU MD indicator

10.3.3 Impact on the Europe 2020 social inclusion target

10.4 Overlap between the current and alternative indicators

10.5 Impact of the definition change on the characteristics of people deprived

10.6 Conclusions

11. Measuring child material deprivation in the EU
(Anne-Catherine Guio, David Gordon and Eric Marlier)

11.1 Introduction

11.2 Data on child deprivation in EU-SILC

11.3 Need for a holistic and life-cycle approach
11.4 Methodological framework
  11.4.1 Suitability of the items
  11.4.2 Validity of the items
  11.4.3 Reliability of the items
  11.4.4 Additivity of the items

11.5 Final list of children MD items

11.6 Conclusions

15. Individual employment, household employment and risk of poverty in the EU.
    A decomposition analysis
    (Vincent Corluy and Frank Vandenbroucke)
    15.1 Introduction
    15.2 The distribution of jobs over households
       15.2.1 Trends in individual and household employment
       15.2.2 The concept of polarisation
       15.2.3 Trends in the distribution of individual employment over households
       15.2.4 Has the distribution of jobs become more unequal over time?
    15.3 Relationship between changes in labour markets and poverty risks
       15.3.1 Relationship between poverty risk and employment rates
       15.3.2 Integrated decomposition of labour market trends and poverty risk changes
    15.4 Conclusions

Chapter 18

18. Household structure and risk of poverty or social exclusion (Maria Iacovou) 333

18.1 Introduction 333
18.2 AROPE and its three component subscales 333
18.3 Problems with the (quasi-)joblessness measure 334
18.4 Data and methods 335
    18.4.1 EU-SILC 335
    18.4.2 Weighting 335
    18.4.3 Country clusters 335
    18.4.4 A typology of household structures 336
18.5 Results 336
    18.5.1 Eligibility for the measure of (quasi-)joblessness 336
    18.5.2 AROPE by household type 338
    18.5.3 Single-person and couple-only households under age 65 339
    18.5.4 Couples and lone parents with children under 18 343
    18.5.5 Multiple disadvantages 345
    18.5.6 The composition of the poor, severely deprived and QJ populations 347
18.6 Conclusions 349

22. How does attrition affect estimates of persistent poverty rates? The case of EU-SILC (Stephen P. Jenkins and Philippe Van Kerm)

22.1 Introduction

22.2 Data, definitions, sample selection, weighting
   22.2.1 At-risk-of-poverty rates and persistent at-risk-of-poverty rates
   22.2.2 Samples
   22.2.3 Attrition
   22.2.4 Sampling weights

22.3 How much attrition is there? Who drops out?
   22.3.1 How much attrition is there overall?
   22.3.2 Attrition's effect on the precision of estimates
   22.3.3 Who drops out?
   22.3.4 Generating bespoke sample weights from retention regressions

22.4 What effects does differential attrition have?
   22.4.1 Indirect evidence of attrition bias: comparisons of estimates of Wave 1 poverty rates
   22.4.2 Is attrition bias within the range of sampling variability?
