

TABLE OF CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----------|
| 1st International Workshop, Nuremberg, Germany, 11 – 12 December 2008 | 5 |
| The German job vacancy survey: An overview | 7 |
| Job vacancy statistics in Switzerland: example of a coupled survey | 18 |
| Use of administrative sources in Belgium for the collection of job vacancy statistics | 20 |
| Weighting and estimation methods of the Romanian JVS | 28 |
| Weighting and estimation methods: JVS Estimation in Finland by Horvitz-Thompson-Type estimator | 32 |
| The UK job vacancy survey | 39 |
| Non sampling errors in the Italian job vacancy survey | 47 |
| The German job vacancy survey: Estimation of sampling errors | 62 |
| | |
| 2nd International Workshop, Neuchâtel, Switzerland, 18 – 19 November 2009 | 71 |
| Using administrative sources in Slovenia | 73 |
| Job vacancy survey – Israel’s experience | 79 |
| A comparison of estimators of the number of job openings in Sweden | 83 |
| Job vacancies in France: data collection difficulties and feasibility studies on small firms and the public sector | 93 |
| Temporary work agencies and vacancies: The Italian experience | 104 |
| The Romanian experience on the transition to NACE Rev.2 | 115 |
| Job vacancies, employment and the economic cycle: Experiences from the German job vacancy survey | 124 |
| Job vacancies and the economic cycle: Comments from Switzerland | 139 |
| Recruitment processes: Experiences from the German job vacancy survey | 143 |
| Occupied posts | 152 |